The F. B. I. Story, by Don Whitehead. We are all inclined to take the F. B. I. for granted and trust in its honesty and efficiency.

During the past week I was able to keep a schedule of speaking engagements in North Carolina. I must admit that this was a pleasant change for me.

Sen. Ervin Says:

WASHINGTON. — The issue of fast amortization of costs in connection with the Hells Canyon project by Idaho Power and Electric company has caused the Congress to take a careful look at the whole matter.

Senator Byrd introduced a bill recently and hearings have been held by the Senate Finance Committee on this subject. The bill proposes to restrict issuance of rapid amortization licenses to those facilities producing new defense items for use by the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission in the national defense program.

I believe this approach to be sound. It is not in the interest of the public to permit continued rapid amortization to industry which can still qualify under the provisions of the act. The law was a means of getting fast defense potential in a period of national emergency. To permit legal abuse to continue is shortsighted indeed.

By way of review, you will recall that I voted last year against the government's construction of a dam at Hells Canyon. I gave you the reasons why I voted that way. Briefly, the Federal Power Commission had issued a license to private industry to build the dam. Believing in the free enterprise system, I felt the government should not build the project if free enterprise was willing, ready and able to do the job.
