Steps Are Taken To Better Prison Employment In NC

RALEIGH. — North Carolina took a forward step last week toward a more comprehensive rehabilitation program for its prisoners and, at the same time, moved nearer the day when the entire prison system will be self-supporting.

The program designed to achieve these goals calls for the expansion and reorganization of prison enterprises in accordance with basic aims and policies developed by prison officials and endorsed by the 1957 Legislature.

Details of the program were announced recently by Prison Director W. F. Bailey, following a meeting at which the plans were discussed and approved by the State Prison commission.

Governor Hodges, who attended the meeting and participated in the discussion, voiced his approval of the program and congratulated both the commission and prison officials on the approach they have taken toward meeting Prison department problems.

The Governor told the commission, "I am greatly interested in the rehabilitation of prisoners. We must find jobs for them. If these jobs can be made constructive, that is fine."

Chief features of the program will be a sizeable increase in the number of prisoners employed in the Prison Enterprise operation and a considerable increase in the annual sales volume and gross gain resulting from that operation.

The prison director said the number of prisoners involved in the program should rise from the present 1,083 to 1,859 by December 31, 1959. At the same time the annual sales volume is expected to increase from $4,460,000 to $8,431,000 while gross gain rises from $1,118,500 to $2,628,000.

Among the enterprises to be expanded are the soap plant, sign plant, printing plant, canneries, abattoir and cold storage facilities, laundries, forestry and farming.

The action taken by the Prison commission was based on recommendations which resulted from a recent survey to determine the progress made toward carrying out the intentions of the Legislature.

A Mother's day program is planned under direction of the chairman, Mrs. Reva Hinkle. All members are urged to attend.

O.E.S. WILL MEET TUESDAY, MAY 6

Black Mountain Chapter 200, O.E.S. will meet Tuesday night, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the J.O.U.A.M. hall.

A Mother's day program is planned under direction of the chairman, Mrs. Reva Hinkle. All members are urged to attend.

able to find that spot except in pitch darkness. Several times we threatened to blindfold ourselves and go looking but never had the nerve.

It was trouble to find, but the food they served was a welcome relief from the blood-red horse steaks which we'd been eating.

The Kangaroo club is not in operation now but at one time during the war it was the largest mutton house in the world.

We had gone down to the club to have lunch with a couple of men from "Down Under" one day but left hurriedly when an Anzac led us aside and asked in a low tone if we liked mutton stew for dessert. Told that we despised the stuff he smiled and said: "I thought so, all the Yanks I saw in Africa and Greece did too." We left our regrets.

Down at the Hungarian restaurant we congratulated ourselves on finding such an excellent place to eat with such a variety but were keenly disappointed to learn that the high sounding dish we ordered was only Mr. Dobbin dressed up in fine clothing.

Such was London.

TAKE TIME FOR TEN THINGS

1. Take time to work—
It is the price of success.
2. Take time to think—
It is the source of power.
3. Take time to play—
It is the secret of youth.
4. Take time to read—
It is the foundation of knowledge.
5. Take time to worship—
It is the highway of reverence, and washes the dust of earth from our eyes.
6. Take time to help and enjoy friends—
It is the source of happiness.
7. Take time to love—
It is one sacrament of life.
8. Take time to dream—
It hitches the soul to the stars.
9. Take time to laugh—
It is the singing that helps with life's loads.
10. Take time to plan—
It is the secret of being able to have time to take time for the first 9 things.—Copied.

A boyish-looking minister, serving his first mission noticed that one of his faithful flock, an elderly woman, had been absent from services several Sundays in a row. Her friends assured him she wasn't sick, so he decided to go see her and ask why she stayed away.

Shaking her head and looking at him pityingly, she said, "Son, you just ain't old enough to have sinned enough to have repented enough to be able to preach about it."

BAND CONCERT—

Frank Watkins and Cecil Nanney in Black Mountain.

As a prelude to the students' appearance in the concert, Eloise Noah has written the following explanation of the part to be played by the flute section. She explains:

The flute is a musical wind instrument consisting of a tube finished with a number of holes for the purpose of varying the sound. The oldest form of the flute was the English flute. It had seven holes which were covered by the fingers. This was in use until the eighteenth century when it gave place to the German flute, an instrument which was over two feet in length and consisted of four pieces. It had six holes for normal tones, and from six to 12 others for semi-tones. With these it could reach three octaves, starting with middle C upward. The higher tones were made by over-blowing. Later the system of closing several holes at a time gave better tone quality. This was used rather than straight fingering.

The first flutes were made to be blown into one end to produce the tone. Later, it was found by blowing across a small hole on the side, one could produce a better tone.

The first flutes were made of wood, therefore, they are known as wood-wind instruments. Now they are made of metal, ebony, ivory or even glass.

The common flute is in the pitch of C, concert. There is, however, an alto flute which is in the key of G. The alto flute can produce tones lower than the concert flute. There are very few alto flutes in existence.

The flute is an important instrument in orchestras, concert bands, and is often used in small ensembles for solos.

Approximately 10 per cent of the nation's fertilizer is used on the farm.
