P. O. Will Note Air Service Date

Postmaster H. A. Kerlee called attention today to the coming 40th anniversary of the establishment by the United States of the world's first regularly scheduled air mail service tomorrow (Thursday), May 15.

"The start of this air mail service by the United States has been of tremendous importance in aviation history and in the development of commercial aviation all over the world," Mr. Kerlee noted.

The first flights which started 40 years ago flew between Washington, D. C., and New York City, with a stop at Philadelphia, required about three hours, about three times the time required today. The first air mail planes used were the "Jennies," famous airplanes of the period. Postage for an early air mail letter was 24c, but it included special delivery.

The department was assisted initially in the development of the first air mail runs by the War Department, which furnished the first planes and pilots.

Later, in August, 1918, the Department took over operation of the air mail entirely, and air mail pilots and administrative personnel operating the air mail service were postal employees.

The department continued to operate and further develop the air mail service until 1926, when transference to common carriers under contract was started, and the transfer was completed in 1927.

"This was the beginning of the great air transport system which we know today, and the Post Office department is proud of the contributions it has made to the rapid development of commercial aviation," Mr. Kerlee commented.

MARRIAGES

May first cousins enter into a valid marriage in North Carolina? A North Carolina statute forbids the marriage of double first cousins. The marriage of first cousins, other than double first cousins, is permitted.

If two brothers marry sisters, the children of these two marriages would be double first cousins. The same result would be reached if a brother and a sister should marry the opposite sexes of a brother and sister in another family.

May a white person and a Negro enter into a valid marriage in North Carolina?

No. A North Carolina statute prohibits all marriages between a white person and a Negro of between a white person and a person of Negro descent to the third generation. Every person who has one-eighth Negro blood in his veins is within the prohibited degree.

There have been no United States Supreme court decisions dealing with interracial marriages. It is a criminal offense in North Carolina for a white person and a Negro to marry. It is also a criminal offense for a register of deeds to issue to them a license, or for a minister or justice of the peace to marry them, knowing them to be within the prohibited degree. The marriage is utterly null and void, and if they cohabit together they may be indicted on a criminal charge of fornication and adultery. Any children born of a void interracial marriage are illegitimate.

Who may perform a marriage ceremony in North Carolina?

A marriage ceremony in North Carolina must be performed by an ordained minister of some religious denomination or a justice of the peace.

There is a special provision in the North Carolina statute giving validity to the rite of marriage among the Society of Friends (Quakers), according to the form and custom peculiar to themselves. Are witnesses required for a marriage in North Carolina?

No. Witnesses are not required. Only the couple to be married and the person performing the ceremony are required to be present.

Does North Carolina require a medical examination prior to the obtaining of a license to marry?

Yes. The register of deeds is not allowed to issue a license to marry without presentation of a physical examination certificate from a physician showing freedom from venereal disease, tuberculosis, epilepsy, and insanity.

Time to Change to a modern Electric Range

What better time than spring to shuck the old and don the new? And nothing is newer than the modern timing controls of a safe, clean electric range.

Cuckoo clocks and "cooking on top of old smoke" are two of a kind when it comes to modern living. The swing this spring is to electric cooking.

Clean-lined and streamlined, a new electric range with automatic timing controls can cook entire meals whether you're home or not. And does it in perfect safety because there are no flames, no fumes — no soot, no smoke. Just set the timer and away you go!

Outdoors is the place to be these balmy days. So let the timing controls of electric cooking help you enjoy a bit of spring fever away from the kitchen.

You'll find a springtime array of colorful new ranges at an electric dealer near you. See him soon and put springtime in your heart and in your kitchen.
