REFLECTIONS

Gordon Greenwood

Where Do We Go From Here?
 The way the tax bills are being sent forward by the General Assembly members for study and consideration, this session of the legislature may set a record. Veterans around the Capitol City say they have never seen so many bills introduced so early.

Of course, this could be because of the leadership of Speaker Addison Hewlett, who keeps insisting that members get their local bills in early so that the proper attention may be given to the State's business during the latter part of the session.

The representatives have been co-operative. At the calls for introduction of new bills the pages are kept busy running to and fro carrying forward measures dealing with everything from appointment of a deputy sheriff in an eastern county to the hiring of a new jailer in Graham.

The Sales Tax
 When J. Y. Jordan, Jr., of Buncombe, sent up his bill last week for a straight across-the-board 3 per cent sales tax, he created a stir in all sections of the state. Best guess is that the measure would produce $45-50 million.

He proposes that the 38 items now exempt be removed and that 3 per cent be charged on every sale made in North Carolina. The ceiling of $80 on automobiles would remain.

Lowest complaints came from the farm groups regarding sales tax on feed, seed, fertilizer, and farm machinery, and from others who were opposed to removal of food and medicine from the exempt list. This will be the subject of long and loud debates on every street corner in North Carolina during the next few months, not to mention the committee rooms and the legislative halls in Raleigh.

Tax On Soft Drinks
 Creating almost as much disturbance was High Point Ed Kemp's bill to place a one-cent tax on each bottle of soft drinks sold in the state.

Rumors that it would be introduced on Thursday morning brought the soft drink people to the capitol in a hurry. But the document, containing more than 20 typewritten pages, wasn't sent forward until Friday morning. Kemp took time off Thursday evening.

Recipes Given by Woman's Club

"What shall I fix for dinner?" If that's your problem in these winter days—the varied menus provided in the annual "gourmet" menu of the Woman's Club will provide you with some tasty, colorful answers.

Numerous recipes which are favorites among Black Mountain families accompanied dishes which made up a buffet luncheon enjoyed by members and guests on Wednesday in the educational building of the First Baptist church.

Among the recipes are those which appear below. Others will appear in a future edition of the News. Of the latter, some were presented without the names of the cooks who concocted them—hence it would be helpful if, during this present week, the members who submitted them at the luncheon would call the News (NO 9-4101) and advise as to whose name should appear with next week's recipes for Sweet Potato Fluff, Luncheon Salad, Almond Chicken, Cranberry Pie, Light Pound Cake, Health Salad and Monterey Jack (Mexican) Thrift Dish.

Friday Banquet to Honor Seven Cub Scout Graduates

The annual "Blue and Gold Banquet" to be held at the First Baptist church Friday at 6 p.m. will mark advancement, or graduation, from Cub Scouting to the Boy Scouts for a number of local Cubs.

In announcing the event, W. W. Earley, chairman of Pack 42, said, "This is a glad event—but also somewhat a sad time because it means the end of Cub Scouting for all seven boys of Mrs. William Styles' den: Allen Styles, and do Stephen Earley, the two remaining charter members of Pack No. 42, which was organized in April, 1955, William Copeland, Thomas Copeland, Alex Bowness, Roger Beddingfield and Larry Cantrell.

Mr. Earley said: "We believe this has been the best year that we have ever had for the Cub Scout program. The big reason for this year is parent participation, which is a must if this kind of program is to be successful. The cooperation has been very wonderful, but the need still goes on for more and more dads and mothers to help. There are many boys who want to be Cub Scouts and can't be, because of a critical shortage of Den Mothers. In fact, we can't take on any more boys until we recruit some more Den Mothers. So let's all chip in and do our best for our sons while we still have the chance.

"We parents of the boys who are finishing Cub Scouting have not done our best and we don't have to be told about it, either, for we full well know it, and now it's too late. Our chance is gone forever. So whatever you do, you want to be Cub Scouts, don't let this sad part happen to you. Get in there and work with all your might. Then when your boy comes to the 'Blue and Gold Banquet' you will know you did your best."

Black Mtn. Is "Town of the Month"

Black Mountain has been designated "Town of the Month" in the two Carolinas on the strength of January achievements in the "Finer Carolina" program. A plaque was conferred by Mrs. Vivian Bushong, FC supervisor for the sponsor, Carolina Power & Light Co., at a meeting of the local "Finer Carolina" committee, headed by Max Woodcock, Tuesday night at City hall. If won for three months, the award may be retained permanently.

The FC program here which drew the honor consists of the PTA's school improvement project; handicraft classes for eighth graders established at the elementary school under B & P W auspices; the youth center movement fostered by "Operation Youth"; the beautification and clean-up program of the Woman's club.

B & P W Club Hears Students Ask For Understanding

Pleas for greater understanding through education fostered by increased scholarships for study in this country marked the informal addresses of three foreign students from Warren Wilson college which featured the 10th anniversary banquet and "International Relations Week" program of the Black Mountain Business and Professional Women's club Monday night at the Monte Vista hotel.

State B & P W officers, past presidents of the local club and representatives from a number of other clubs in North Carolina were honored guests. They included the state president, Miss Margaret Johnson of Leaksville.

Dr. Henry Jensen, dean of admissions and botany teacher at Warren Wilson sang several mountain ballads of his own composition. He also introduced the visiting students, chosen, he said from among the college's students from 15 foreign countries, because their home nations are the scenes of "history in the making, whose relationships with the United States are quite current in the news."

A moving plea for understanding of the background of the Cuban revolution and of the trials and tribulations of the Cuban people was made by Dr. Jensen. All members are extended a cordial invitation to attend. A. T. Cook is counselor.

Jaycees Designate New Executive Director Mayor Dick Stone For Christmount to Come To Duties Here June 1

The annual Jaycee "Man of the Year" award—which went to Mayor Richard B. Stone — and announcement of prizes going to winners of the annual Christmas lighting contest in the community featured the annual "Distinguished Service Award" banquet of the Black Mountain Chamber of Commerce Saturday night at the Monte Vista hotel.

Reginald Heiser served as master of ceremonies. A. M. McCoy was chairman of the DSA awards committee, and Aaron F. Belt received nominations made by Black Mountain and Swannanoa civic clubs in recognition of contribution to general welfare of the community and evidence of leadership qualities shown during the past year. Frank Williams presided at the ceremonies. Christmas decorations awards were announced by William Pinyan.

Mayor Stone, who on Jan. 24, also received the "Man of the Year" award of the Asheville Jaycees, was nominated by the Black Mountain-Swannanoa Kiwanis club. He has served as mayor since June, 1957.

Other winners of service awards included Rep. Gordon H. Greenwood, "for his contribution of service to Jaycees over the years." An award also went to the Black Mountain News, of which he is editor and publisher; to Taylor Martin as "Key Man," for his work within the club; with awards of merit going to Mr. Williams for his service as president, to Mr. Heiser for his work as DSA chairman for 1958; and to Leonard Keever and the primary school, of which he is principal.

Newest evidence of the growth and progress of Christmount comes with the announcement of the vice-president of the board of directors, Walter A. Davis, that the executive committee has called Charles Walter Strong, Jr., pastor of Pilgrim Christian church of Chardon, O., as executive director.

Comprising nine southeastern states, the assembly was organized in 1947 at Black Mountain under sponsorship of Frank W. Dixon and the late L. T. New, the latter serving as the first president for five years until his death.

The late Judge Herbert Jarvis of Blue Ridge and Asheville, was the first secretary, serving until his death when Rev. Bruce Nay, the present secretary, took over.

The newest of the religious assemblies of this area, Christmount is being developed as a training center for lay members of local churches throughout the Brotherhood, with emphasis upon youth. During the first 10 years, the work was done largely by volunteers who retired and came here to assist in the physical development of the 600-acre tract purchased from the Gustavino estate.

Dr. H. S. Hilley, former president of Atlantic Christian college, served as field director until his health failed. The late Homer W. Haislip also served as public relations counsel, editing the "Christmount Voice" and establishing the Christmount Week conference.

The former schooling and experiences of Rev. Mr. Strong have eminently fitted him for this position of many facets and challenges, the assembly said in announcing the appointment.
