Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop 51 of Black Mountain, sponsored by St. James' Episcopal church, has been on the move! Led by Mrs. C. H. Aiken, with the help of Mrs. George Gudger, Mrs. Robert Carnish and T. W. Nesbitt, we have served a complete dinner for the Episcopal

Men's club. This event was on January 27.

On the menu were baked potatoes, tossed salad, baked ham, green beans, hot rolls and coffee, ice cream and home-made cookies.

Requirements for First Class Scout rank

Each of the troop members have taken one Girl Scout law and have written a play about it. We hope to present these soon.

Members of the troop are Joan Love, Sandra White, Priscilla Morris, Beth Spiro, Cheryl Burgess, Novilla Slagle, Julia Ann Diskens, Marna Camaish, Caroline Aiken and Kathy Nesbitt.

4-H Clubs of N. C. Join In National Week Feb. 28-Mar. 1

North Carolina 4-H'ers are joining other 4-H'ers throughout the world in observing "National 4-H Club Week", Feb. 28 to March 7. Each year a week is set aside for these young people between the ages of 10 and 21 to evaluate past achievements and cite future projects.

During the past year, these Tar Heel 4-H'ers have completed 111,055 projects in farming, home-making and community service. Evidences of their work will be seen in exhibits, newspapers and on the radio. Rallies, banquets and other programs will explain their educational program to the public.

"Saulte to 4-H Alumni" is the slogan that will be emphasized this year throughout the 49 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Buncombe County 4-H'er, William Jones, will be one of six "envoys" to make this year's "4-H Report to the Nation" to President Eisenhower. While in Washington, D. C., the group will visit the White House and meet many government officials.

WINTER LIBRARY HOURS

Readers may visit the Black Mountain library on the second floor of City hall to borrow books on the following days of the week:

Mondays: 6 to 8 p.m.
Wednesdays: 3 to 6 p.m.
Fridays: 10 a.m. to 12 noon.
Saturdays: 3 to 6 p.m.

Books may be returned at any time by placing them in the return book-box installed this season on the first floor at City hall.
