OWEN HIGH TEACHERS OF HOME ECONOMICS BEGIN WORK

The vocational and home economics teachers of Owen High school, Mrs. Mavis Nesbitt and Miss Vera Price, began work Aug. 17. They attended a week of conferences in Greensboro, Aug. 3-Aug. 7. The theme of the meeting was "Up to Date—Up to You."
 Mrs. C. Lee Revell, Revell Finishing school, Columbia, Ga., opened the meeting with a talk, using the importance of Charm as a topic.
 Other professional people on the program during the week were: Miss Russell, editor of F.H.A. Teen Times magazine, Washington, D. C., Dr. Dorothy S. Lyle, National Institute of Dry Cleaning, Silver Springs, Md., Dr. Edwin S. Preston, State Board of Public Welfare, Raleigh, N. C., Mrs. Agnes Olmstead and Miss Nancy Carter, home economists for Colonial Stores, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
 There were 411 vocational and home economics teachers attending under the supervision of Dr. Catherine I. Dennis, Miss Louise Swann, Mrs. Faye Coleman, Mrs. Mable Hall, and Miss Stringer.
 Miss Vera Price, a new teacher, is filling the vacancy on the faculty of Owen High school left by Mrs. Taylor. She comes from Mooresboro, N. C.

What is happening to your tax dollars?

When you look into it, you find some of your taxes are spent needlessly for federal "public power."
 The pressure groups for government electricity are busy right now, trying to get $10,000,000,000 in tax money for federal "public power" projects in certain areas of the country—unnecessarily—because independent electric companies like yours are able and ready to provide all the electricity the nation needs.
 More than $5,500,000,000 has already been spent on these costly "public power" projects. Does it make any sense to spend still more?
