What's Goin' . . . At Owen

By Tim Spiro

As I mentioned last week, the students at Owen have been keeping the school much cleaner this year; there has been less litter in the halls and classrooms. Let's keep Owen the cleanest school in the county by throwing all paper and trash in the proper receptacles. It doesn't take much time, and it helps very much to keep our school a school to be proud of.

David Mundy, who has been a research assistant for the Urban Studies committee, a group of professors in Chapel Hill, has been visiting his family, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Mundy and children. He will return this week to the University of North Carolina where he plans to complete work on his PhD in psychology.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and children Don, Eugene, Louis, Dianne, Frank, Joan, and Maverick, of Rutherford, visited her mother, Mrs. Avery Wilson, in Lytle Cove community Saturday.

Julia Kerlee Kelly has been accepted in the Approved School of Medical Technology at St. Joseph's hospital.

Mrs. Wislie Ramsey spent the week-end in Newton with her sisters and their families. She went especially to see a nephew and his young son of Detroit, who were there visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Garland and Stanley, Jr., left Saturday for Washington, D. C., where they have been attending the convention of tire dealers. They have been staying at the Sheraton Park hotel.

Miss Ruth C. Aleshire of Oak Knoll Studios has returned from Northampton, Mass., where she took graduate work at Smith College School of Social Work. While in that city, Miss Ruth visited Miss Dorothy Potter with whom she had served in foreign duty with American Red Cross during World War II. Together they toured New England and made a trip to Montreal, Canada, crossing the new St. Lawrence Waterway.

It's Your Money

Official concentration of United States foreign policy on Russia tends to overlook the opportunity to lead the world to use of the rule of law. All nations, not excluding the Communist group, put some value on the support of world public opinion for their acts and practices.

Sen. Jordan Reports

WASHINGTON — For the first time since he became President, Congress last week overrode a veto by President Eisenhower.

The veto was overridden to enact into law a measure of unusual importance to North Carolina, the Public Works Appropriations Bill which includes funds for 11 water projects in our state.

The action by Congress in passing the bill over the objections of the President, which requires a two-thirds vote in both the House and Senate, came after Mr. Eisenhower vetoed two public works measures.

The bill, as finally enacted into law, keeps intact the 11 water projects previously approved for North Carolina but reduces the funds for each by 2.5 per cent. This reduction is minor and should not have any material effect on the final completion of the projects.

While all 11 of the projects are of vital importance to North Carolina, the Wilkesboro Reservoir floor control dam and the deepening of the Morehead City harbor and channel are the largest projects. They are also the only projects which are ready for actual construction. Eight of the remaining nine are in the survey stage and one is a maintenance project.

Both the Wilkesboro and Morehead City projects are long overdue. The dam, which will be located a few miles upstream from Wilkesboro on the Yadkin River, will bring about a new era of growth and development in the entire northwestern section of the state. The Morehead City project will open the port there to larger ships and a larger volume of shipping.

The bill that was enacted into law does not provide sufficient funds to complete either the Morehead City project or the Wilkesboro Reservoir. However, the 975,000 earmarked for Wilkesboro and the 585,000 appropriated for Morehead City will enable construction work to get under way and make easier efforts in the future to obtain adequate funds to carry them to completion.

The other nine projects which received funds are as follows: Cape Fear River basin, Neuse River basin, Rollinson Channel, Shallotte River and Inlet, Surf City and New Topsail Inlet, Wright's Creek, Pantego and Cuckler's Creek, Bogue Inlet, and Dismal Swamp Canal.

Misses Sarah and Luna Wagner gave a breakfast Sunday morning in honor of Miss Geraldine Beachern of Butler, Pa., who is visiting Miss Ida Reid Cohen of Asheville. Those attending in addition to Misses Beachern and Cohen were Mrs. James Cox, Mrs. Fred Zellner, Mrs. Catherine Renstrum, and Miss Margie Ann Zellner of Black Mountain, and Mrs. Cohen of Asheville.

Mrs. I. E. Mims of Saint George, S. C., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dinsmore Crawford, and Mr. Crawford for an indefinite period.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Norton over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Brown and children of Newport News, Va., Mrs. Reeves Ferguson and children and Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Brown of Lake Junaluska.

Clarence Freeman of Augusta, Ga., is visiting his father, Bob Freeman, in the North home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe West of St. Petersburg, Fla., Mrs. Frank Ritchie and son Bobby of Reidsville, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Casey of Petersburg, Va., former residents of Black Mountain, spent several days here last week.

Mrs. Mary E. Aleshire and Miss Ruth of Oak Knoll spent last week in Eastern North Carolina. Mrs. Aleshire attended the meeting of the board of directors of the North Carolina State Art society of which she is a vice president, representing the artists of the twelfth district. After the meeting in Raleigh they motored to New Bern to see the restoration of the Tryon Palace and other points of interest in that area.

Miss Clara Schuenke, Miss Hazel Barton, Mrs. Ruth Westbrook, and Mrs. Charles Mertle were Sunday dinner guests of the Halls at "Fairlawn Lodge."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McMullan of Key Biscayne, Fla., are at their cottage on the Montreat road. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox and family have just returned to Florida after spending several weeks with her parents.

Among those who will celebrate their wedding anniversaries within the next few days will be Mr. and Mrs. Jack Raines, Sept. 21; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cook, Sept. 24.
