John Kennedy Announces Candidacy

The following statement was released today by Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts:

I am announcing today my candidacy for the Presidency of the United States.

The Presidency is the most powerful office in the Free World. Through its leadership can come a more vital life for our people. In it are centered the hopes of the globe around us for freedom and a more secure life. For it is in the Executive Branch that the most crucial decisions of this century must be made in the next four years—how to end or alter the burdensome arms race, where Soviet gains already threaten our very existence—how to maintain freedom and order in the newly emerging nations—how to rebuild the stature of American science and education—how to prevent the collapse of our farm economy and the decay of our cities—how to achieve, without further inflation or unemployment, expanded economic growth benefiting all Americans—and how to give direction to our traditional moral purpose, awakening every American to the dangers and opportunities that confront us.

These are among the real issues of 1960. And it is on the basis of these issues that the American people must make their fateful choice for their future.

In the past 40 months, I have toured every state in the Union and I have talked to Democrats in all walks of life. My candidacy is therefore based on the conviction that I can win both the nomination and the election.

I believe that the Democratic Party has a historic function to perform in the winning of the 1960 election, comparable to its role in 1932. I intend to do my utmost to see that that victory is won.

For 18 years, I have been in the service of the United States, first as a naval officer in the Pacific during World War II and for the past 14 years as a member of the Congress. In the last 20 years, I have traveled in nearly every continent and country—from Leningrad to Saigon, from Bucharest to Lima. From all of this, I have developed an image of America as fulfilling a noble and historic role as the defender of freedom in a time of maximum peril—and of the American people as confident, courageous and persevering.

It is with this image that I begin this campaign.

Will your football hero make the varsity?

Think of it—your son playing first-string on his college team!

If you're like most parents, it's a dream you've always cherished. And the chance to be a football star is just one of the many opportunities open to the boy who goes to college. There are far more important values to be gained, too, values you don't want your son to miss out on.

Here's an easy way for you to give your child a college education. Get together the necessary money through the Payroll Savings Plan. And the sooner you get started the easier it will be. If you start today, chances are you'll have an educational fund for your child in time to send him off to college.

Just tell your pay office how much you want to save. Each payday, automatically, your money will be invested in U.S. Series E Savings Bonds—the Bonds that now pay a new, higher interest of 3 1/2% at maturity. And your child's education will be provided for by money you won't even miss. Start on Payroll Savings today!
