on the desk of each member and said:

"We could save the State of North Carolina a lot of money by just adopting this budget as recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission without taking the strings off. I know the men who were on that commission and what's good enough for them is good enough for me."

The men to whom the speaker was referring included H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen, Clyde Harris of Salisbury, and Kemp Doughton of Sparta. Mr. Doughton, an official of the Northwestern Bank, served several terms in the General Assembly and was speaker four years ago. He is still considered one of the outstanding men in North Carolina in the field of state government. He retired last year in order to devote more time to the bank's business.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

Last Thursday after having spent three full months working on the budget a member of the subcommittee in the appropriations group rose and without fanfare moved that the recommendations of Mr. Doughton and his co-workers regarding the A and B budgets be approved. Since the governor's educational program has already been accepted by the full committee, it is likely that the budget will remain substantially as it now is. The only thing left is a stack of special requests which must be considered before final action can be taken.

Included in these requests will be one for Eliads Home of Asheville. This request is for $25,000 for each year of the coming biennium. I dropped this bill in the hopper some two weeks ago at the request of the board of directors.

Since that time the volume of mail from Buncombe has increased considerably. In fact I have received more mail on this subject than any other during my two terms in the General Assembly—except the extension of the Asheville city limits and the Governor's education and tax program.

LIONS SPONSOR—

Lion Spencer's record sheet states that he is retired, but for so active a member this is questionable. He and his wife, Lioness Spencer, live in their own little development called "Spencer Pines" which contains several cottages for summer guests and a small art gallery which classes from the local schools visit because of the collection of other educational materials as well as paintings.

As far back as 1941 when Charlie represented his club in Indiana to the International convention his interests have been not only in his local unit but in the overall picture of Lionism.

In 1958 Charlie brought into the club a new member of the community who has become an outstanding citizen of this area. By this action, since his sponsored member has served the club for three consecutive years, Charlie becomes a key member.

His ready acceptance of any obligation to his club, his insatiable interest in its members individually and collectively, his contribution to the furtherance of the club's interests, his whole hearted support of any and all projects undertaken by the club, and the respect which he has earned in this community, lead us to proudly present the name of LION CHARLES E. SPENCER in nomination as Lion of the Year for the Zone, Region and District 31A.

Respectfully submitted, —Committee.

Morays Attend Annual Meeting Parkway Asso.

George E. Moray, executive secretary of the Black Mountain Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Moray, attended the annual meeting of the Blue Ridge Parkway Association, held in Bryson City on Friday and Saturday of last week. They were guests of the Bryson City Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at the Sneed Restaurant on Friday evening, and the Fryemont Inn for coffee on Saturday morning.

This organization furnishes Chambers of Commerce and tourists organizations through out the country with descriptive and accommodation folders advertising the Parkway as one of the outstanding scenic beauty spots in the United States.
