ELEVEN PENNIES BLESSED—

In the little cottage that became known as "Mountain Orphanage" the summertime of God's blessing came. The love and mercy seemed to overflow. . . . Now there would be more to that . . . and more to come. $20.00 a month to the lady who had given herself to this task. $10.00 for herself, $10.00 for food for a month to feed eight children, and take care of any other needs that might arise.

GEOLOGIST—

On his last visit home Dewey remarked that he had been training for this job since childhood. He worked on his father's farm, plowing an ox and hauled corn and apples on sleds his father made. The company president in his interview with Dewey emphasized the importance of hard labor and commented that the vice-president had been reared on a mountain farm. Dewey replied, "I have plowed an ox on my father's farm." That ended the interview, the president extended his hand and said, "You have the job, any young man of our day who has plowed an ox can work for us."

Mr. Kirstein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Kirstein, Sr. of Asheville, route 6. He is married and the father of three children. He and Mrs. Kirstein live at Clark's Summit, Pa., 15 miles from Scranton.

Finest of all, they attended the Hendersonville Presbyterian church, and many came in contact with a man named Dr. Ligon who was then pastor of that church.

Only God can know all the high moments of those years. The facilities were added to time and again. . . . But there were many drawbacks: possibility of fire. . . . only one bathroom, and many, many other hazards and drawbacks.

So, in 1922 the eleven pennies really brought returns. 150 acres were purchased at Black Mountain and a dormitory with kitchen and dining room facilities were built to care for 56 boys and girls at a cost of $75,000.00. Eleven Pennies and a man's vision: and over 1,000 boys and girls have felt the influence of his life and that investment.

Since 1922 a brick laundry with an apartment for farm manager and his family have been added. A brick Gymnasium and Superintendent's home have been erected. A barn, hen house and other out buildings have been added. A ball diamond has been built, and a beautiful modern air-filtered swimming pool. All a part of a man's vision—and eleven pennies, blessed by a God who cares.

We in Black Mountain are in a peculiar position. . . . These children are our neighbors, our schoolmates, our friends and companions.

As we think of them let us thank God for the privilege of including them in the scope of our concern.

On their behalf I humbly thank you all for the many, many ways in which you have helped them materially.

But far more important than dollars and goods is your love and your understanding. Jesus said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these ye have done it unto me."
