PEOPLE ARE SO KIND
Readers may not realize the tears and tremblings of those who write for the public to be read. It was with many misgivings that I undertook this column at the suggestion of my boss about two months ago. There were all sorts of reasons of not being able to meet the deadline, of not having enough readable material to fill a column, of even giving something I thought was humorous only to have it misinterpreted. I have been flattered to hear readers say they read the column for several weeks before they realized it was not "reflections" which had for years occupied this same space. Frankly, I felt a little "exposed" that the writing would occupy this space, but I had anticipated moving this column to the inside so that it might come off on the first run, since he ordinarily does his writing so that it is ready for being set on Monday.

When I wrote many weeks ago about Mildred Wyrick's fine work at Tyson's, I kept thinking all the time of the similarity of our cases, for my work is fascinating to me, too.

One of the most interesting parts of this work is the people one meets, either in person or through correspondence. This week a young woman who writes a column, similar to mine, for the Greenville paper, wrote a note and enclosed a clipping of her article called "Visiting With Fran". Jay Arlan, MC for the WFGW, is a former resident of the Indiana town and had sent copies of our EWIS back home. She wrote her paper of the love Mr. Arlan has for his new residence and the people he has met, then went on to quote from the column from our paper about Mrs. Seagle and roses, to further substantiate Mr. Arlan's claims for our town.

Some of you have been kind enough to say you think our column adds something to our paper. We hope so. If by taping a picture here and there and calling to your attention the small bits of news covered in regular items pleasing to you, then I am happy.

HER FEET
For several weeks following her trip to Washington, New York and Baltimore Mrs. Mary Aleshire was quite ill. She has been so energetic and active in civic and church affairs for so many years it seemed impossible that anything could slow her down.

This morning for the first time in about six weeks we heard her voice over the phone, sounding just as vivacious as usual. She regrets that the work to beautify the town, begun early in the spring, has been halted temporarily and is interested in being that it goes on into the future.

The town has continued with their efforts to aid in the removal of several mounds of eucalyptus from the corner of Craven road and the highway, just below the Jumper residence. This spot has been a source of embarrassment for the town and the undertaking made more difficult because of the lack of water on the site.

We will be interested to see that B. G. Byron has in mind the area he is to land back of the Tomahawk. This has good potential for beautifying the town which overflows the spill over the rocks under the pine trees on the hillside. My guess is that it will be one of the very best places in town when B. G. puts his ideas into practice. In the meantime friends who have been concerned over Mrs. Aleshire's condition can feel that nothing is organically wrong, but that she must slow down a little. As one of our citizens she has set a good example for those with whom she works that most of us cannot follow. She thrives on the acceptance of responsibility and accomplishes what is expected of her, and we're glad she is back in the saddle, just slow down and walk with the rest of us.

"Improvement of the road from Black Mountain to Asheville is one of the most vital problems facing Buncombe county today," Mr. Stone, who acted as spokesman for the group along with Weldon Weir of Asheville told the governor.

"All of us are agreed that this is the most urgent road need in Buncombe county," the mayor explained. The governor at the conclusion of Mr. Stone's remarks explained that he had already requested that engineering studies for four-laning the dangerous stretch of highway known here as "the death valley route" be made and indicated that plans would proceed at once.

Assured that there would be no trouble with rights-of-ways, and that there were only two small bridges on the 15-mile stretch of three-lane road, the governor seemed pleased and in closing said that he hoped the project could not only be started but also completed during his administration which has approximately 2 1/2 years to go.

In his opening remarks to the governor Mr. Weir said that the road now carries an average of 9,000 cars per day at Black Mountain and that this increases to 22,000 per day at the tunnel, 15 miles west.

Red Cross Host To Leaders

A very delightful gathering was held at the Coach House in Black Mountain Tuesday for an informal luncheon. The waterfront directors from the various camps located within the jurisdiction of the Black Mountain-Swannanoa Red Cross chapter discussed their activities and became better acquainted with each other.

John McWhorter, chapter chairman, brought greetings and introduced Dick Kimball, assistant director of the Youth Educational program in Area Red Cross office, Atlanta, Ga. He expressed interest in the plans of the camps and complimented the waterfront directors in their very splendid programs now in full swing.

The following camps were represented: Camp Crestridge for Girls, represented by Micky Lintner; Ridgecrest for Boys, Chuck Carter; Ridgecrest Assembly, Harry Dillingier; Camp Rockmont, Parker Williamson and John Mathis; Blue Ridge Assembly, Tom Byrd; Swannanoa 4-H club, Mary Louise Cranford; Camp Merri-Mac, Sally Hicks; Camp Montreat for Girls, Marion Fisher; Montreat Assembly, Eugene Drennon, and Black Mountain pool, Ralph Singleton.

Dairying Is Kiwanis Topic

John Brown returned to the Kiwanis club Thursday, June 28 as speaker of the day. We say returned, because J. B. was a charter member of the club but had to resign last year. His subject was connected with "June Dairy Month", a state-wide program, enlightened by color slides of dairy farms, Jerseys, Holsteins, and some of the nation's outstanding bulls, the speaker being connected with the American Breeders service.

John stated that 28% of total food supplies was from milk and dairy products, that milk was used as a food since 9000 B.C. (must have been goat's milk then), that the American Breeder's service had 1 1/4 million dollars tied up in bulls, and that is a lot of bull in any language! John also proved to his listeners that he most certainly makes his living "thru udders".

The Kiwanis club decided to again sponsor a class in the horse show being held this coming week end at Monte Vista farm. Visitors included Kiwanians H. B. Craven of Lakeland, Fla., S. A. Pierce of Sheboygan, Wis., A. W. Paul, Tampa, Fla., and W. R. Scott of Stuart, Fla.

WITH THE SICK
Mrs. Charles Lindsey underwent surgery at St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday, June 27.
