NEW SHINY COAT

The depot did get a coat of paint as predicted last week, a shiny new coat of gray which blends in nicely with the asphalt roof. Now that the day of the old coal locomotive is past it would seem that the station would stay clean longer. It would be interesting to know how many coats of paint the building has had over the years, and what variety of colors.

JOURNEY WESTWARD

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Viverette spent the month of June traveling through the western states. Mr. V. has a beautiful collection of colored pictures made at some of the most interesting places along the way. He keeps them at his new office and would like to share them with any who would care to go take a look.

The trip covered 8,549 miles and included the states of the southern route in going out, passing through such intriguing places as Albuquerque, N. Mexico, Flagstaff, Arizona, and Needles, Calif. In Victorville, Calif. they visited Mrs. Viverette's twin brother and his family and in Oakland spent some time with her sister-in-law. While on the west coast they traveled north to Portland Oregon and Seattle where they viewed the Grand Coulee Dam.

It was interesting to see the pictures made within a few miles of each other where, in one snow was piled on the ground, and in the other the travelers were bathing in a pool in the desert. Old ghost towns of the west are coming alive for tourist trade in their reenactment of the days when every man carried a gun and seldom a day passed that he didn't use it, if one can believe TV.

Yosemite and Yellowstone were included in the itinerary and Jackson Hole which sounds typically western. Mr. Viverette timidly suggested that they took a look at Independence, Missouri on their return trip, but he didn't say whether or not "that man" was in his haberdashery shop.

DID YOU KNOW?
R. Worth Cook's Electrical Company is now occupying the ice plant on Broadway. So many rumors are circulating about the number of stores to fill the buildings now being built in the new shopping center that we have decided to contact the proper persons and give a full report to you next week.

Every summer I say "this is the shortest summer I've ever known" and again I say it. Three weeks from yesterday, (Monday) teachers will report for the fall term in the county schools. August 28 students will attend for a half day then the following day teachers will brace themselves for the first full day for both students and teachers, August 30. By this time in the summer the youngsters are ready to admit that it will not be so bad to return to school. They are unburned, water-logged, have read books to their heart's content, played baseball, and have done all the usual things in the outdoors after which a year in the schoolroom seems fitting. "The golden rod is yellow, the corn is bending down" and September is upon us.

NEW OFFICE
When Rober Viverette moved his office and appliance supply shop from State street to Sutton street I promised myself to take pictures and tell you about his new location.

The attractive corner where the business is now located houses a welcome addition to Sutton neighborhood. The office is immediately inside the building and a small porch welcomes the customer to sit on the iron bench and sip a coke while business is being discussed. There are two storage rooms containing the various electrical items but what caught my eye was the ham radio equipment.

Mr. Viverette has been a ham operator since 1933, he operates on two bands, a citizens two-way. This is used to contact his own oil truck and that of John Benedict for furnace service. His two calls are W4CXZ and W4YVD. He was one of the first ham operators in the town of Black Mountain to obtain his operators license.

During the war years he aided the Red Cross in making calls to families and two

JUNIOR HORSE SHOW ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

A beautifully clear day and an enthusiastic group of youngsters gave the guests the worth of their money in the Junior Horse show held last Saturday at the Monte Vista farm.

Little Susan Sands, daughter of the director of Camp Merri-Mac, almost stole the show from the older participants when she walked away with the first place in the afternoon Walk-Trot class mounted on Grey Chief, a horse who measures at least 16 hands high. Susan is five and seated on the large grey mount, looked like she might have been every bit of three, so small she appeared. The crowd

Jerome Hines To Give Concert

Although America is comparatively new on the musical scene, she has produced some of the world's greatest singers and other musicians in the past 50 years.

However, it seems strange that while there has been no deficiency of contraltos, coloraturas, tenors, and baritones, the "basso department" has been sadly lacking. Jerome Hines, who sings at Montreat's Anderson auditorium on Aug. 11 at 8 p.m., is the first U. S. born basso to achieve world acclaim in many years.

His repertoire includes such roles as Mephistopheles in "Faust", Gurnemanz in "Parsifal", King Philip in "Don Carlo", and the tragic czar in "Boris Godunov".

He has appeared in concerts in Bayreuth, Edinburgh, Glyndebourne, Buenos Aires, and Munich festivals.

Mr. Hines is married to Lucia Evangelista, an Italian-born soprano, and is the father of three boys.

His hobbies include ice-skating, spear fishing, hypnosis, experiments in chemistry, and mathematical studies.

He was a native and lifelong resident of the Black Mountain section. A World War II veteran and a son of Mrs. Ruby Perry Hardwick of the home and the late Benjamin Pope Hardwick, Mr. Hardwick was a graduate of Black Mountain High school and a member of Friendship church.
