WITHOUT RELIGION

"Without religious faith, a man of the Space Age is incomplete, crippled, deformed. It is as if he has lost his sight, his hearing, his hands. Man, made in the image of God, has inherited a spiritual nature, which places moral values on the activities of life. We must make progress toward a higher spiritual level in our lives if we are to live successfully in an expanding universe." —Hugh L. Dryden, Deputy Administrator National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

REFLECTIONS

By Gordon Greenwood

STUDENTS HAVE CHANGED

After listening to a group from Owen High School for several hours on Saturday (to and from Wake Forest college at Winston-Salem) I have decided that the attitude of students has changed. Included were freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

While the seniors were the most talkative, the others had definite ideas, too. Never let it be said that high school students are not stimulating. If I didn't know this, I would have changed my mind long before we arrived on the campus of the Baptist institution.

—R—

LIKES FACULTY

Just keeping my ears open and my mouth closed I learned some interesting things.

For instance: "I love Latin the way Miss Cole teaches it. It's just like learning to talk again except you're learning to talk in Latin. . . . I hope I get Mr. Lytle for English next year. He's good. . . . I'm lucky to have Mrs. Nothstein for English. Boy, does she know her subject. . . . When she starts to explain something, I just smile to myself at how lucky I am to be in her class. She knows a lot about a lot of subjects. . . . Then Mr. Green will tell us to open our books to page 65 and to 'sing out' . . . I like him. . . . Miss Wrenn is one of the best teachers I have ever had. She knows the Civil War from start to finish and every move that was made. . . . But she ought to. I understand that her grandfather, uncle or somebody real close was in the Civil War and told her all about it. . . . Man, have you had math under Mr. Pratt! That guy is brilliant. He can put all kinds of figures on the board and divide, subtract, or add them in his head as fast as he can talk. . . . Mrs. Brewster is really demanding a lot now, but I like it. . . . She certainly knows the subject and how to teach it. She is a good one. . . . Come to think of it there aren't any real crip courses at Owen. All the classes are hard but that's what you need if you're going to college. . . . You don't hear the kids who really want to do well in school complaining about the teachers. Most of the complaining is by someone who has messed up and who doesn't want to admit that he is to blame," and on and on and on.

As I started out to say, students have changed. . . for the better.

OLD FORT STRONG

When the Old Fort High School played at the Owen gym here last week, fans saw one of the strongest Class A teams in this section in action.

In fact both the boys and girls played the locals on even terms most of the way. The Warhorses and Warlassies were not assured of victory until the final whistle.

The strong showing of this fine Class A school is more evidence that we need an open tournament in North Carolina to decide the state championship, instead of the method now used of awarding trophies in four divisions.

The open tournament could be used, as it is in other states, with very little change in present plans. It would not interfere in the least with county tournaments or in the scheduling of games with natural opponents.

And a tournament of this kind would improve the brand of basketball played in our high schools within a very short time.

Some oppose it on the assumption that the larger schools would always win and that the smaller schools would never have a chance. But this has not proved to be true in other states. Some of the best teams come from what would be classed in North Carolina as A.

The Old Fort teams, with many sophomores in the lineup, gave an excellent account of themselves here against Owen which is 3-A. Looks as if the Indians will be strong for several seasons to come.

STATE EMPLOYEES

The State Employees are greatly upset because someone suggested that money be taken from their retirement fund and used to build plants to help entice new industry to come into the state.

This would take an act of the General Assembly. As of this date I have heard no member of the house or senate make such a proposal. When you start gambling with what amounts to the life savings of thousands of men and women spread over the entire 100 counties of the state, you're walking on dangerous ground.

'63 License Renewal Card—Have You Received it?

Tar Heel motor vehicle owners who may not have received their 1963 license plate renewal card were urged today to take immediate action.

Motor Vehicles Department officials say the all important cards were mailed in mid-December and should have been received by now. If not, the agency's registration division says, "Please let us know at once."

Proper procedure is to write the Motor Vehicles Department, Raleigh, with the make and identification number of your car, your last year's tag number and your full name and address.

As in the past applicants are reminded to indicate on the reverse side of their renewal card that liability inurance is still in force, and to list the county in which the vehicle is subject to property taxes.

Also the one dollar extra fee for driver education must be paid for each vehicle having a registration fee of $10.00 or more.

Plates may be purchased in Raleigh at the Motor Vehicles Building or ordered through the mail.

Miss Foy Ingram, director of the department's registration division, said 85 branch offices would begin issuing new tags January 2.

"In any event," Miss Ingram said, "it is important to present a properly prepared renewal card when buying new tags and to write the Motor Vehicles Department promptly if you've not received one."

Sen. Erwin Says:

WASHINGTON—One of the impressive ceremonies of every new Congress is the administration of the oath of office to those members qualifying by election or appointment. Twelve new Senators are scheduled to be sworn in for the first time at the opening of the 88th Congress. This constitutes one of the largest turnovers I have witnessed since I have been in the Senate. More important, however, is the fact that the tragic deaths of Senators Kerr and Chavez, both powerful Committee Chairmen, have struck heavy blows to the Senate's leaders. Respectively, they headed the Aeronautical and Space Sciences and the Public Works Committee. Their deaths are certain to have a far reaching effect on the affairs of the Senate.

New Senators are: Bayh, Brewster, Dominick, Inouye, Kennedy, McGovern, McIntyre, Mechem, Nelson, Ribicoff, and Simpson. Senator Kerr's successor has not been named at the time of this writing.

The oath taking ceremony is brief and simple. It is fundamental to the working of the parliamentary government and democracy. It requires at the inception of office holding a dedication to the principles of constitutional government.

As Congress opens, I am impressed by the fact that while the Senate is a continuing parliamentary body, its membership is ever-changing. In addition to the lives of Senator Kerr and Chavez, death struck down Senators Dworshak, Case, Schoepfel, and Bridges during the 87th Congress. There were four retirements from office by Senators Butler, Bush, Long of Hawaii, and Smith of Massachusetts. Five Senators were defeated in their bid for re-election. Senators Botum, Carroll, Capehart, Hickey, and Wiley will vacate their seats.

The defeat of Senators Wiley and Capehart reshuffles the rankings of the minority members of the Judiciary and the Banking and Currency Committees, where they had top rank. Seniority determines committee membership rankings and chairmanships by Senate custom. All these changes will have an important bearing on the issues for this session which include new and hold-over problems. Economic and tax policies, transportation and farm measures, education and medical care proposals, are channeled through the Senate's seventeen standing committees. The make-up of most committees will be affected by these deaths, retirements, and political defeats. I expect no changes to be made in my Committee assignments. Currently, I hold membership on the Armed Services, Government Operations, and Judiciary Committees. I have Chairmanships of Judiciary Subcommittees on Constitutional Rights and Revision and Codification of the Statutes of the United States.

To Serve Meat At Its Best

For uniformly cooked, juicier and more tender meat, cook it at a low temperature. Less watching is required during cooking. The meat is more easily carved, there's more to serve and the servings are more attractive than when the meat is cooked at high heat.

INTERESTING FACT

Nearly one-fourth of the weight of the U. S. space capsule which soared on its three-orbit trip last February, was steel, according to an official of the company which made the capsule.

Foreign steel producers will strengthen their competitive position by spending approximately $5 billion (U. S. dollar equivalent) for new and improved facilities during 1962.

"It doesn't matter whether we are in elementary school, junior high, high school, college or are out working — the thing that determines our real happiness in life is, very simply, our faith in God, and the growth of that faith." —Bobby Richardson, New York Yankees' second baseman.

MONEY THAT TALKS (TWICE!)

These U.S. Savings Bonds are owned jointly by a husband and wife. The money that bought them says two things:

It says, "Here is a family that wants to do its share in keeping our country strong—wants to help give it the means and the power to speak for and work for the Free World."

It also says, "Here is a family that saves to provide for its future. Here is a family that contributes to the strength of its country by keeping itself strong and independent."

Join up with the tens of millions of American families and individuals who are showing the communist part of the world how they are helping to keep their country and the Free World strong.

It's easy. Just sign up for Payroll Savings at work, or for a monthly Bond at your bank. And don't feel any less patriotic about it because you're getting a good return on your investment. Your personal financial strength is part of the strength of the whole nation.
