

UPPER CEDAR CREEK COMMUNITY

By Bessie Elliott Davis

My husband, Uncle Jimmy, Jake Gilliam, and Jack Davis went fishing to North Fork near Marion and to Lake James. Caught one small fish. Said it wasn't a good day for fishing.

Jack Partusch from Miami, Fla., is back at his summer home here in the community. He was accompanied by Mr. Pettitone, who camped a week here last summer. Jack says Annie will be here this week and Nancy and her mother will come later. You see, Jack is a guide in the Everglades in Florida. His daughter is his helper. She was lost there once. There was a big write-up with pictures in a Miami paper about them by a woman reporter a few weeks ago.

They are wild life people. They catch our butterflies, bugs, etc., and mount them.

Our pastor, Rev. Clark McKinney started Sunday night services Sunday night. We were glad to have with us Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fortune, (Hettie Nanney Ledbetter.) Hettie's father was clerk of Stone Mountain church 40 years and his father before him held the same office 40 years. So Hettie's family had been connected with our church nearly a hundred years.

We were glad Aunt Dora Nanney was well and back to church Sunday. Glad Joe Nelson and his family have dropped back into church. We are building up gradually in attendance since we built the new church and bought a church bus.

ATOMIC PLANT 'CRITICAL'—The Carolina Virginia Nuclear Power Associates atomic power plant at Parr, S. C., first in the Southeast, is now 'critical' and capable of producing electricity with atomic fuel. CVNPA member companies are Carolina Power & Light, Duke Power, South Carolina Electric & Gas and Virginia Electric and Power Company. The top scene shows the atomic plant at dusk. At lower left, the plant's top operational men discuss starting the chain reaction; (left to right) Walter E. Selkingshaus, superintendent; James Wright, reactor engineer; and Mayhew Bell, operating director. At lower right Shift Engineer Doug Simpson works controls to lift neutron-absorbing rods from the reactor core to begin the fission, or chain reaction process. All four men are graduates of N. C. State College.
