

SCHOOL AND YOUR CHILD

by John Corey
Appalachian State Teachers College

Teacher: Did your father help you with this problem? Junior: No, I got it wrong myself.

FEET ACHE, ITCH? 1/4 of all your bones are in the feet. No wonder they ache, swell, perspire, itch. Bathe feet twice daily with T4L Solution for relief of the 52 bones, 66 joints plus ligaments. The boy implies that his daddy would also have bungled the problem had he helped. What with increasing school demands and expectations these days, this might well be.

But more and more, parents are taking the position that Junior won't find them out, one way or the other. They've decided that homework is for Junior. Right or wrong, the work must be his.

A mother writes: "I feel that a child should learn to study on his own and seek aid from his parents only when he is really confused with a problem." The writer refuses "the

Graphic Art Is On Exhibit From April 25 - May 15

The Montreat-Anderson College Library and the comparative arts class of the college are jointly sponsoring an art exhibit of the original graphic art of modern masters in the library reading room in Gaither Hall from April 25 to May 15.

Approximately 60 examples ranging in price from $3.50 to $100 by Bonnard, Clave, Cezanne, Degas, Denis, Dufy, Fiorini, Matisse, Manet, Picasso, Roualt, Renier, Singer and Utrillo will be on display.

The exhibit contains a select group of modern masters and is designed to stimulate interest to provide an opportunity for an art lover to begin as a collector. The price range low... the emphasis is on variety.

Included in the exhibit are black and whites, as well as colored lithographs, woodcuts, aquatints, etchings, wood-engravings, linoleum cuts. Some of the work is signed and numbered by the artist.

The library staff opened the exhibit with an open house on Wednesday, April 25, from 4 to 6 P.M. as a portion of the observance of the National Library week. Miss Virginia Buchanan is librarian for the college, and Mr. Clair Hardenstine is professor in comparative arts.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON and CHURCH DIRECTORY!

To Be Forgiven

Lesson for May 5, 1963

Bible Material: Psalms 32; 51; 103:8-16.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 130.

WHY is it that when a sermon or a Sunday school lesson is to be on the subject of Forgiveness, or anything connected with it, the Bible passage selected is nearly always from the Old Testament and not the New? The answer is obvious: the Old Testament, and especially the book of Psalms, has the clearest and most moving account of God's forgiveness, and especially the experience of being forgiven, that can be found in the Bible.

This fact alone suggests much. It means, for example, that forgiveness is not something peculiar to our own religion. All religions desire a forgiving God; the difference between these and Christianity is not that people in other religions don't care whether they are forgiven or not, but that they do not understand, as followers of Christ know, what kind of God it is who forgives, and why He forgives at all.

Two misunderstandings

The forgiveness of God can be misunderstood in many ways. Let us glance at two of them. One is to suppose that He is a sort of vast forgiving machine. This is the age of automation, when everything works by push-buttons. When the electric power goes off, a switch untouched by human hands will put your house on another power line. When the plane in which you are flying starts to slide down, the automatic pilot will bring it right back up again. Some people think God is like this, forgiving automatically, some would say even before a man repents. Others think of repentance as a sort of automatic switch: the minute a man says "I'm sorry" out comes forgiveness from heaven like candy from a machine. But it isn't like that at all. Another mistake is to suppose that God's forgiveness is a sort of reward, as if God said, after all, that sinner is a pretty good man—above the average, in fact. Such goodness deserves some recognition, so I am going to reward him by forgiving him. It isn't like that either. To be forgiven is a gift of God.

"I did not hide"

The poet who wrote Psalm 32 knew from experience something very important. He had tried for a time that old dodge, pretending to himself that he had not sinned at all. Nothing could be more utterly absurd, when you think of it, than trying to hide away from God. Nothing can be more impossible than to pretend it never happened. Nobody can go off and shut a door behind him and fancy that God will get no nearer than that door. Modern psychiatry agrees with the ancient psalmist that unadmitted sin, hidden guilt, is actually a serious menace to health. Psalm 32:2 and 4 describe a sick man. Doctors cannot cure such a case. The patient himself has the key to the cure, and this poet found it. "I acknowledged," he says, "I did not hide;" "I will confess."

Forgiveness is a kind of miracle after all. For we know that forgiveness is no gift if the forgiver is determined never to forget. But how can God forget? Forget—and this is something that perhaps even angels may not understand—the question, Why should God forgive at all? has no final answer that leaves us without further questions. Would it not be simpler for God to start all over again with some other race, a race that could not possibly sin? Why does God keep patching up human beings when he does not have to?

The truth is, God does much better than patch people up. He makes them over. The forgiveness of God has a strange quality about it. Ordinary forgiveness leaves of fenders about as they were. God's forgiveness does something wonderful to the sinner. Read over this 32nd Psalm again and again. What sort of man is this who speaks with such profound enthusiasm about being forgiven? He does not sound in the least like a man who rejoices that his slate has been wiped clean so that he can start all over again. He is not at all thinking of God as a forgiving-machine. He has penetrated to the secret—not that he understands it, but he knows it: God forgives because He loves. What guarantees against future sins? Nothing, of course, only love in Him.
