At the recent meeting of the American College of Public Relations held in Williamsburg, Va., at which Mr. Ivan Stafford was a participant.

Mr. Grant says there is a whole new field—new profession—for educational writers.

Newspapers all over the country are adding men with educational backgrounds as reporters and establishing departments on education.

The final appeal in educational public information and educational public relations is touched by education.

The public needs first rate reporting. The college has an obligation to keep the newspapers in touch with educational issues and trends as they are reflected on the local college campus.

He summed up his remarks by saying, "All of us are hucksters of the most important commodity: educational opportunity."

The subject of the Conference was "Advancing Higher Education, How to get the Job?"

After the conference at 8:30 P.M., an 18th century restoration comedy, "The Country Girl" an adaptation of Wm. Wycherley's "The Country Wife" by David Garrick was presented by Howard Scammon company of young ladies and gentlemen from William and Mary College.

Don Quarles (From THE CAROLINA KIWANIAN of February 1964, written by Don Quarles, former local Kiwanis president and now serving his first year as District Governor for District 1.)

A LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR SPEAKS Kiwanis International has issued a challenge for each of us, as individual Kiwanians, when they set forth our theme for 1964 "FREEDOM — A CALL TO PERSONAL SERVICE."

A challenge that can only be met by the personal dedication of each of us to support our clubs in their service to their communities.

The call to personal service to defend our freedom has been issued many times in our history, and each time it has been answered.

How, our freedom is being threatened now as it has never been threatened before and we, as Kiwanians, are being asked to answer the call once again and lead the way in our fight to maintain and preserve it.

To assist us, in answering the call to personal service, we have been given patterns for action, and each of us should study these and see how we, not only as Kiwanians but also as individual citizens, can best answer the call to service.

The first of these patterns, and the one that must always be first, is a call to the creator of all mankind by rededicating Kiwanis to God's will, demonstrating our support of spiritual values, and reaffirming our belief in religious liberty.

We, as individual Kiwanians, must answer this call first. For a man who offers God a second place offers him no place at all.

Our second pattern for action, To Youth to Whom the Future Belongs, brings to mind a story I once read and would like to pass on to you.

An old man was nearing the end of his long journey when he came upon a large chasm, and after much pain and effort he successfully crossed it.

Where upon he then proceeded to build a bridge to cross it. After completing it he was asked why he had built the bridge. He replied: "Tho I shall never pass this way again, I know that some towheaded boy will follow in my wake and it is for him that I build this bridge in order that he may more easily cross this chasm."

We as Kiwanians, should take this advice to heart and begin to construct bridges to cross those chasms we have crossed in order that our youth who follow us can conserve their energies to face the problems that shall arise that we never had to face.

Our fourth pattern for action is to our Nations—Free Men All. If we, as Kiwanians, are to defend our constitutional government and combat excessive government expansion, controls, and regulations, we are faced with a challenge.

For in recent years, we have had a government that was elected by less than 50% of our eligible voting population.

For in 1958 on 45%, and in 1962 on 47% of our eligible voters cast their ballots in the congressional elections, and in 1960, our last Presidential Election, only 62.9% of our voting population felt the need to put forth the effort to go and cast their ballot.

If we, as Kiwanians and Americans, allow this apathy and indifference toward the elections of our government officials to continue, then we can look forward to the day when we shall be ruled by despotism, tyranny, and dictatorship, for all that is necessary for the forces of evil to win is for enough good men to do nothing.

Space does not permit my commenting on the rest of the patterns. However, with enough of us doing something to answer the call to personal service, we shall overcome the forces of evil and preserve our freedom once again.
