Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nanney returned last week from a visit with their son and family, Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Nanney, Lisa and Stephen, of Murray Hill, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McGuire Wood spent last week vacationing at Pawleys Island, S. C.

Mrs. W. K. Wacker is at home now after a month's visit with relatives and friends in New York. Mrs. Wacker reports that a trip to the World's Fair was one of the highlights of her visit.

World War I Veterans and the Auxiliary enjoyed a covered dish supper in the Parish House of St. James' Episcopal Church, Thursday night, May 28. Mrs. W. T. Miller, president of the Auxiliary, welcomed the guests. The Rev. Frank Abernathy gave the invocation. After the supper, Mrs. E. W. Jackson, Dr. H. D. Daugherty and J. R. Lance spoke briefly on the accomplishments of the two units since their organization.

The Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Donald and children left Monday to make their home in Apopka, Fla. The Rev. Mr. Donald has been the pastor at St. James' Episcopal Church for the past eight years. Their many friends here wish the best for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Murphy of Falls Creek, Va., who are officials in the American Red Cross at Washington, D. C., were week end guests of Miss Ruth C. Aleshire at Oak Knoll. Mrs. Murphy was here on an extended visit after an official trip to Hungary, to assist our government in the evacuation of refugees. Miss Aleshire and Mrs. Murphy were also in service with the Red Cross on Guam during World War II. The Murphys were enroute home after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Robert Vaughn of Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Vaughn is also well known here.

Paul Traywick of the Western North Carolina Sanatorium is spending several weeks with his sister in Washington, D. C.

Miss Ruth Cory Aleshire flew to Miami, Fla., last Sunday to attend the National League of Child Welfare of America. She is representing the Child Welfare Division of North Carolina.

Mrs. Eveline Duncan of Colorado and South America and Mrs. Rhea Rondel of Ohio, left Monday after visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Rondel. Mrs. Duncan is Mr. Rondel's sister and Mrs. Rondel a sister-in-law. They came especially to see Mr. and Mrs. Rondel's great-granddaughter, Sheila Danenhower.

Roby Braswell of Morganton is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. J. T. Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Keith, this week.

Jack Leatherwood, Jr., attended the North Carolina State Fire College in Charlotte, May 25-29.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hall and daughter, Carol Jean attended the graduation of Mr. Hall's niece, Jo Ann Freeman, from Shelby High School, last Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Abernathy have been sick at their home for the past two weeks.

Mrs. W. R. Brown of Tucker, Ga., is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Begley and children.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Fasse of Cincinnati, Ohio, enroute to a Florida vacation stopped off for a brief visit in Black Mountain. They were impressed with the beauty of the surrounding scenery and the North Fork Valley. They are planning to return in the fall. Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. Fasse are friends of the Trompeters.

BOYS, GIRLS—

operating condition. Brakes must be kept in adjustment, pedals replaced when they become worn. Handlebar grips need replacement from time to time. A light is necessary for night riding. Chains, spokes, seats and tires must all be properly maintained.

Another responsibility we may in all fairness ask riders to assume is that of knowing the rules and obeying them.

The regulations which apply to motorists apply equally to cyclists, and there are others which are of no direct importance to drivers but do concern bike riders.

Such practices as stunt riding, hitching onto to other vehicles, racing and carrying extra riders are foolish and dangerous. Bikes are required to stay to the right and move in single file.

Hand signals should be displayed.

Smart boys and girls supplement the traffic rules with some of their own. Many riders living in the city, for instance, dismount and walk their bikes across busy streets. Others make it a rule to keep both hands on the handlebars, except when signaling.

There is one responsibility we will have to charge to parents. That is the proper size bike for their youngster. Too often parents pick a bike for economy rather than good fit and safety. For a small son or daughter they pick a bike the little one can "grow into," rather than a junior size model which might be handed down or traded in.

At best this is short sighted thriftiness. A bike too big is dangerous. A rider's foot should reach without effort the lowest point of pedal travel. Seat adjustments help some. But when they won't, try a smaller bike.

Keeping the bicycle in good operating condition, knowing the motor vehicle and special bike traffic laws and riding a bike of the right size—these simple rules will make riding safer and more enjoyable for riders and their parents alike.

The youngster who assumes responsibility and the parent who offers encouragement and some supervision will be rewarded with a happy thought, that bicycling is what it should be—safe, healthy and fun.

REP. ROY TAYLOR—
An excerpt from the citation reads as follows: "In recognition of outstanding service to mankind through vocational achievement and personal dedication, and in grateful acknowledgement of the honor thus brought to Maryville College, the directors upon recommendation of the Executive Board of the Alumni Association and the Executive Council of the Faculty, award to Roy A. Taylor, class of 1931, this citation."

Taylor was commended for his work and service in the North Carolina General Assembly as representative from Buncombe County from 1947 until 1955 and also for his service in Congress since his election in 1960 following the death of the incumbent David Hall.

In reference to the above the citation read: "In this important position of leadership he has commanded the respect and esteem not only of his constituents, but also his political opponents."

The Democratic candidate for constable in Black Mountain and A. Guy Burnett in Swannanoa.

Julius G. Melton defeated James T. Steele in the Republican primary and will face Hemphill in the fall election for the post of constable of the Black Mountain township. His vote was 95 to 49 for Steele. Hemphill rolled up a total of 801 votes with 293, 224, and 284 in the Black Mountain precincts.

Bud Hall, his opponent, had 139, 82, and 281 for a total of 502 in the three precincts.

In Swannanoa Burnett had 233 and 308 against 60 and 102 for John Hansard in the two Swannanoa precincts. In Oteen it was Burnett 194 and Hansard 91.

The final tally was Burnett 735 and Hansard 253.

COUNTY RACES
In Buncombe County I. C. Crawford and Gordon H. Greenwood won renomination to the State House of Representatives over Herman E. Smith and Robert Riddle, and Herbert Hyde beat Landon Roberts for the State Senate.

Coke Candler bested Charlie Choo Choo Justice for the post of chairman of the county board of commissioners, while incumbents William D. Britt and Harry P. Mitchell finished ahead of Fred Dalton and Zeb Sheppard for posts as county commissioners.

Mrs. B. W. Davis and Morris McGough were chosen as candidates for the Buncombe County Board of Education, beating Mrs. Augusta Young.

In the hotly contested post for tax collector of Buncombe County Gordon J. Ramsey came in ahead of the field of hopefuls. It was rumored for sometime that second place runner Walter H. Hipps, Jr., would call for a runoff but he announced Tuesday morning that he was stepping aside in favor of Ramsey, former chief
