PEACE! — There is no telling how they will react to it, but peace is what the Democrats of the state seem earnestly to be wanting these days.

After all, Preyer, Lake, Bennett, and Moore are all members of the same party. Which illustrates better than anything else, just how big the Democratic tent must be. There may be trouble ahead — but not until the Republicans have been dealt with this fall. In 1960, Sanford defeated Gavin by only 121,273 votes.

Incidentally, it seems doubtful that a new chairman of State Democratic Executive Committee will be chosen before September.

MONTHS AHEAD — After England had won out at one thousand-to-one odds with the leadership of Winston Churchill, the English people—for reasons only North Carolinians might understand — defeated Churchill at the polls, at their first opportunity. Why?

Terry Sanford is still Governor of North Carolina, will be until next January when the new Governor will be inaugurated. At the National Democratic Convention, the man who will be boss is Governor Sanford. The Democratic platform for the state, as Defeated Candidate Preyer reminded anyone who would listen, was written by People for Preyer. The 1965-67 budget is now in preparation by People for Sanford.

The legions of Lake and Moore, chomping at the bit in victory, must bide their time for six long months. Meantime, anything can happen.

THE RIGHT MAN — For their unity dinner in Charlotte the Democrats chose wisely in selecting Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges as the speaker. His was an era of peace in the party. He is acceptable to the Sanford wing, because had it not been for him, Dr. Lake might have taken Terry Sanford in the runoff four years ago. The Moore people like Hodges — men like Publicist Bill Johnson, Harold Makepeace (Hodges assistant in the Governor's office), and Malcolm Seawell — because they were originally appointed to high position by him. Hodges' strength is again on the sharp ascendancy in North Carolina.

THE BRAWL — At least two motels here have already turned thumbs-down on the annual Debutante Ball to be held here in September.

The new, out-of-this-worldish Velvet Cloak and the College Inn have said officially and unofficially that none of the marshalls here for the coming-out party will be accepted at their establishments.

Other hotels and motels are coming up with certain limitations.

So, if you have a girl debbing here, come September, you'd better start making arrangements rather early. Some of these kids are rough — particularly on motel and hotel furniture and what-have-you's. Now is the time to get to those reservations.

And, as for our Memorial Auditorium here, it has never been so beautiful. The rest is up to you, dear parents. Can you make it?

appointments which might come Dan Moore's way, some of the boys see three Council of State members who might drop out before January of 1969. These jobs are almost never filled by election originally—but, as we have pointed out here—by Governor's appointment.

On the State Supreme Court three vacancies could easily occur during Moore's term as Governor. Goulish, of course, but true.

TEACHERS VS. EMPLOYEES — The State Employees Association was a backbone of strength to Dan Moore. For some of them, the going wasn't easy—since they were right under the shadows of the big guns. But, they made it—thanks to some good advice from that gray old dry-witted advisor, Clifton Beckwith.

They stand to profit— But the teachers, alas, seemed not to be so smooth. Most of their kneeling were Preyer prayers. More than one of them now stands in the need of Preyer. Well, you can't get a hit every time at bat—and their knocks have been mostly home runs for three, four years now. It says here that educators put all their eggs in one basket; and their pickings are likely to be slim indeed—despite budget requests to the contrary.

THE FIRST — Thanks to Commerce Secretary Hodges, Wilmington Chamber Manager Pete Camak, our two U. S. Senators, and Congressman Alton Lennon, the FIRST American passenger ship to move out of North Carolina waters will sail to South Atlantic ports on a special nine-day cruise on Jan. 9.

This beauty, the SS Atlantic, can care for about 600 passengers comfortably. Another boost for Wilmington.

If interested in this cruise to Virgin Islands and other spots of that area, write the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

THE CONSERVATIVE — A few hours prior to the voting on June 27, one of our informers contacted Secretary of State Thad Eure. "What, Mr. Eure was asked, will the vote be tomorrow?" He said: "The vote — put this down (which was done)—will be not less than 700,000. Moore will get at least 400,000 of those ballots. Mr. Preyer will not carry ten counties." This is the closest anybody we know of around here came to forecasting the landslide victory of Dan Moore.

DECISIONS — Blessed with a lot of inherited, natural know-how in politics, Bob Scott of Haw River knows of possible troubles that lie ahead.

No doubt one of the bundles of decisions which will worry him most is in the appointments he must make as Lieutenant Governor. In the first place, he must preside over a group of rough-and-ready politicians — men who know parliamentary procedure like the backs of their hands. Tricky! And, like Lt. Gov. Hodges before him, young Scott has had no experience in this field. But he will have helpers out there on the floor to guide him— Even so, it will be rough indeed at times.

And, as presiding officer of the State Senate, Bob Scott must name the chairmen and members of a long list of important committees — from finance and appropriations on down. In doing this, try and pray and sweat as you might.

it is so much easier to make enemies — men to knife you later — than friends. But don't sell Bob Scott short—

To Work On "Project Nicaragua" This Summer

Miss Phyllis Greenwood of Enka, granddaughter of Mrs. Miles P. Flack and niece of Mrs. Worth Burgess of Blue Ridge road, Black Mountain, is spending a most unusual summer. She is one of 15 students to be selected by the Duke University Religious Council to serve as a part of the third "Project Nicaragua", a project begun in 1962.

whom she expects to be doing much of her work.

Phyllis, who is an English major, is still undecided about the choice of her life's work. An Enka High school graduate, she is winner of the Angier B. Duke scholarship and also a National Merit scholarship. She is very active on the Duke campus and is among honor students on the dean's list.

Phyllis is a rising junior at Duke. Her summer's work will be to acquaint the natives with the advantages offered at the medical center at Pearl Lagoon, Nicaragua, where the new center is being constructed. To do this she is taking numerous visual aids with which she will teach children and adults basic health problems, all the while trying to urge them to receive vaccination for common diseases. A drug company has donated $1,000 worth of drugs for use in the center.

Much of Phyllis's equipment has been donated also. Various church groups have helped and the student's own imagination has brought forth many items which will be of interest to children with

ATLAS GUARANTEE

Quick Action ATLAS Guarantee

THE AMERICAN OIL COMPANY HEREBY MAKES THE FOLLOWING GUARANTEE:

1. Lifetime Original Tread Adjustment
If adjustment is necessary due to road hazards or quality, same will be made on the basis of percentage of original tread remaining on the tire, regardless of when purchased or how long in service.
2. Time Adjustment for Customer Savings
If above adjustment is necessary within the guarantee period shown on reverse hereof, the customer may take adjustment on the basis of number of months of use as compared with the guarantee period, if this is more favorable than the adjustment based on original tread.
3. Wear Out Guarantee
If the original tread of the tire is worn off (smooth tire) within the guarantee period, adjustment will be made on the basis of the number of months of use as compared with the guarantee period.
4. Exchange Price Adjustment for Customer Savings
Adjustments will be made with the original owner for the same grade of tire, based on "exchange" prices. These prices offer substantial savings as compared with retail.
