Rushes Visit Sorority For Regular Meet

Gamma Pi met in the home of Lydia Hicks on October 10, 1966. Jody Brown presented "The Story of Beta Sigma Phi" to rushes present.

Gamma Pi is part of an International organization of Beta Sigma Phi, which is 35 years old and is the largest in the world. There are 185,000 members in fourteen countries.

Walter W. Ross founded Beta Sigma Phi in the depth of the Great Depression, when young women who would ordinarily have gone to college were obliged to remain at home. Mr. Ross had the dream of their having as much as could be of the intellectual experience of college in the liberal arts and also some of the social life of the campus.

Beta Sigma Phi has contributed thousands of dollars to cancer research and now contributes $5,000 annually for scholarships in universities in Canada. $5,000 to research in cystic fibrosis and $1,200 monthly to Girlstown, U. S. A.

Lydia Hicks gave a cultural program on "Prose".

Rushes present were Sue Ballard, Linda Sarti, Jean Skidmore and Beverly Sobol. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Correction: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown were hosts to the sorority members and their husbands at Mrs. Laurence Brown's cabin on September 24.

Coffee House Being Planned With BM Youth

Shades of early England are about to become a reality in Black Mountain. A Coffee House for young people in which they may meet for discussion and expression of opinions on current topics and problems is being planned by the young people and their adult sponsors.

The first meeting, held last week at the Methodist church, was well attended and much discussion about a meeting place and the nature of entertainment, sponsorship and the usual first problems confronting any organization were brought to light. Another meeting on Thursday night of this week, October 20, at 7:30 will again be held at the Methodist church Fellowship Hall and all interested adults and young people are invited to join in the discussion and final plans. A board of directors will be set up and plans for the creation of the Coffee House will be completed.

The Coffee House is expected to meet a need for young people in this community where there is no entertainment outside of school and church. In addition to discussion groups there will also be music and dancing if the organization meetings indicate this is wanted.

With the backing of representatives from civic groups present at the first meeting it appears that this type of meeting places for the young people is exactly what is needed by Black Mountain.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting this Thursday night.

Bill Moore Addresses BM Lions Club

"All citizens should welcome the opportunity to serve on the jury. This is an important part of our court system of justice in the county and state." Bill Moore, solicitor of the General County Court, told members of the Black Mountain Lions Club and their guests at the Monte Vista last Thursday.

"The system of courts which will go into effect in Buncombe County in 1970 will set up new courts in three fields: criminal, civil, and domestic relations.

"But even with the new courts the problem of overloaded dockets in our courts will not be solved. The recent ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court means that we will have many more cases and that they will be harder to try."

Mr. Moore, who is the Democratic candidate for solicitor of the 19th Judicial District, which includes Buncombe and Madison counties, told the group.

"There are now at least 800 cases waiting to be tried in the Buncombe County Superior Court. When you consider that one case tried last summer required at least two weeks, you have some idea of the problem involved," the speaker said.

Mr. Moore pointed out that it was the duty of each citizen to serve on the jury when called upon in order that the defendant would be assured of a fair trial.

President Jim Maddox presided.
