Town proclaims Owen Warhorse week, Brad Daugherty day

The week of March 29-April 4 will be proclaimed by the town Black Mountain "Owen Warhorses Week" in honor of Owen High School's winning basketball season, Mayor Tom Sobol announced Tuesday.

In addition, Tuesday of that week will be named "Brad Daugherty Day" in honor of Daugherty's selection to McDonald's All-American High School basketball team, and the many other awards and honors Daugherty has received for his outstanding performance on the court.

Mayor Sobol said the proclamation to be presented to the team at a school assembly on March 30 will commend the Warhorses team and coaches for the "drive and determination" that led them to the State 3-A championship game last week. Owen is the first Buncombe County basketball team to make it to the state championship game.

Called "the highest honor bestowed on a high school basketball player today" by a McDonald's spokesman, the McDonald's All-American designation is one of Brad Daugherty's many

Daugherty chosen for more honors

Brad Daugherty was named to Parade Magazine's All-American High School Boys Basketball team in the March 21 issue. Forty players from 26 states were selected for four teams in the 26th annual contest.

Parade's previous teams have included basketball greats Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar), Pete Maravich, Pat Ewing and Earvin Johnson.

Daugherty has also been nominated for the 1982 Converse National High School Basketball All-America, Carey E. McDonald, executive director of the National High School Athletic Coaches Association, announced.

The AA squad represents the finest basketball athletes in America selected from five nominees submitted from each state by high school coaches.

Owen High School and Daugherty will be honored with an award plaque.

The full roster of the 1982 Converse National High School Basketball All-America for boys and girls will be announced on April 15.

Daugherty was also recently named to the Associated Press All-State basketball team.

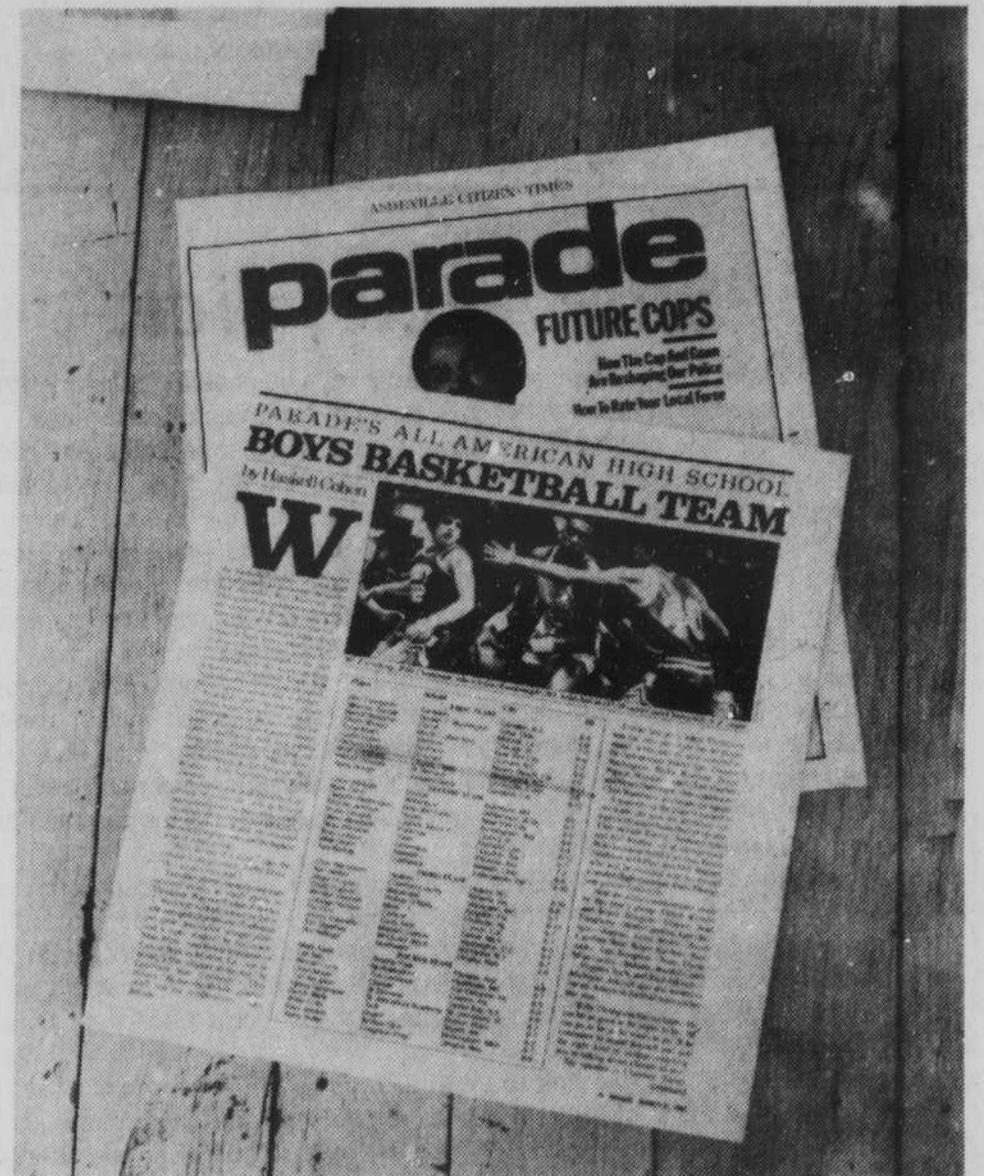

honors. The Capitol Classic will be played at Rosemont Horizon in Chicago on April 10. The game will be televised on an all-star sports special on ABC.

Player selections are made by a national committee chaired by Morton Wootten, considered the "dean" of high school coaches, of Dematha High School, Hyattsville, Md. Twenty-five players are selected each year.

The advisory committee is headed by John Woden, legendary UCLA coach.

Former All-American greats include "Magic" Johnson, Ralph Sampson, Pat Ewing and Isaiah Thomas.

McDonald's will be represented at the assembly by Larry Carter, operations manager of western North Carolina, Dennis Watkins, area operations supervisor and Cindy Boyd, community relations representative.

Last Sunday's Parade Magazine announced the selection of the All-American High School team—Owen's Brad Daugherty was listed on the first team.

Owen edged out of state title

Owen's bubble burst last weekend when Warren County managed to edge past the Warhorses 62-59 for the Boys 3-A State Championship.

Warren County's Jerome Cooper hit both ends of a one-on-one from the line with 24 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter to break a 59-59 tie.

There were several turn-arounds and much high speed action, as the Warhorses gave it all they had. As it turned out, it wasn't enough to penetrate the Eagles' defense.

Owen also had problems getting the ball inside to Daugherty, who still managed to shoot 10 and 10 free throws, pull down a game high of 15 rebounds and pour in a total of 26 points before fouling out in the final seconds of the game.

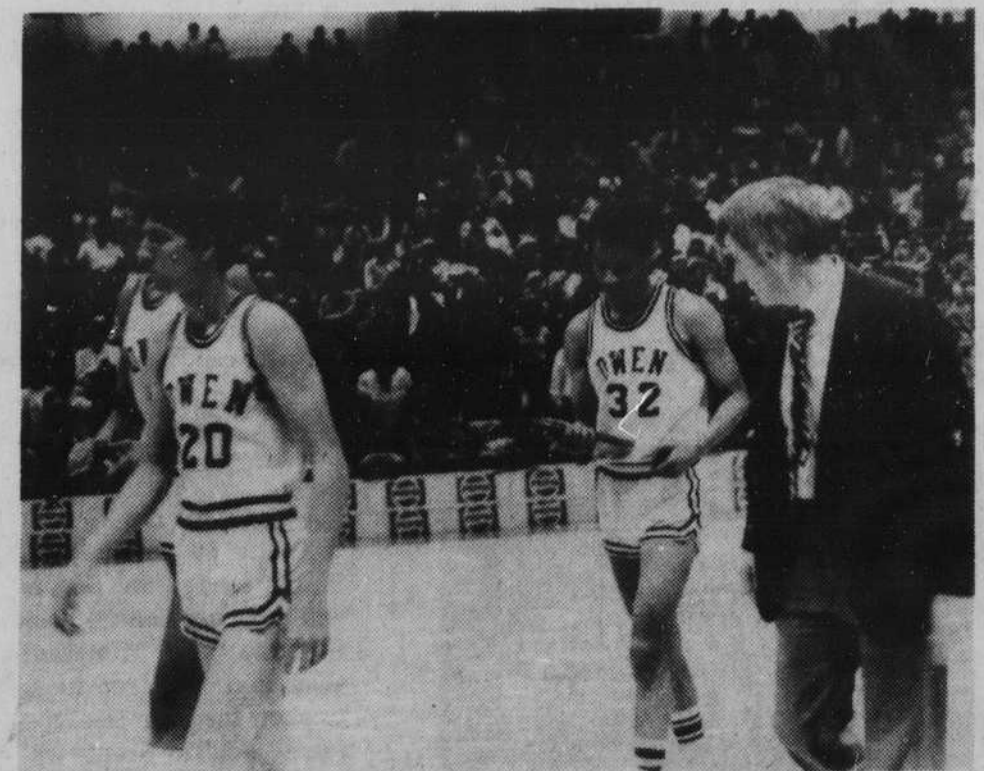

"I'm not really disappointed," said Owen's 6'11 1/2" senior center as he made his last appearance in an Owen uniform. "We gave it our best shot. We played for the championship and we did the best we could. It's just one of those things you have to learn to accept." Both teams exhibited tremendous sportsmanship. Owen's coach Bill Burrows and the entire Owen team stood and applauded the Warren County players during the trophy presentation.

Brad Daugherty summed the game up by saying, "The best team won...the best team always wins. And in the Eagles' case, with their exceptional speed, it was clear that they were the better team."

Owen finished their season with a 28-2 all-time record. Owen is the only Buncombe County boys' basketball team to make it to the state finals.

Board hears restaurant plans

by Bill Anthony

Kentucky Fried Chicken is coming to Black Mountain, possibly "no later than July," according to William Fass, president of Fassland Enterprises, owner of the five Asheville Kentucky Fried Chicken stores. Fass appeared before the Black Mountain Planning Board Monday night.

The Black Mountain outlet will be located on Highway 9 between the Sourwood and the Ingles mall. Purpose of Fass' appearance was discussion of possible traffic congestion in the area.

According to Fass, the Black Mountain Kentucky Fried Chicken will generate $75,000 in local wages. "Everyone we hire will be from Black Mountain," he said.

The building will cost $185,000 and contain approximately $85,000 worth of equipment, adding to the Town's tax base, he said.

In response to a question from the audience, Fass said he planned for the store's sign to be 48 square feet and its height the same as the neighboring Exxon's.

The Planning Board agreed that the Kentucky Fried Chicken location would "not contribute abnormally" to traffic congestion in the area, although acknowledging that there now is a problem at the Ingles mall's entrance.

The Board also continued examination of a draft of a new zoning ordinance, giving particular attention to the article concerning signs. No final action was taken and another meeting was scheduled for April 13.

April spring cleaning month

by Cynthia Reimer

April will be spring cleaning month in Buncombe County with several area agencies, businesses and organizations undertaking the outdoor clean-up.

The month has been designated Community Pride Month by Quality

Forward, coordinators of the clean-up activities.

Two Black Mountain groups, the Black Mountain 4-H Club and the Juvenile Evaluation Center, will help out by cleaning up an assigned area in Asheville. The groups will receive $100 each for their work from the Swannanoa Cleaners, along with 28 other area organizations. They will also distribute anti-litter literature in their assigned area.

The week of April 19-24 is the week of the North Carolina Department of Transportation Clean-up. Trash bags will be available to groups and individuals who wish to help rid the Valley of litter. They may be picked up at Town Hall in Black Mountain.

The DOT must be notified of the location of the full trash bags so they can pick them up. The number to call to report the full bags is 258-6170.

Governor Hunt has proclaimed Saturday of that week Youth Involvement Day. Young people helping out that day may receive a certificate from the governor from the Buncombe County Volunteer Service Bureau.

Workers collecting trash for the DOT clean-up should remember to separate cans and other recyclable material to save for Cash for Trash Day Saturday, April 24, Jean Webb, executive director of Quality Forward, said.

On Cash for Trash Day, volunteers at Owen High School will accept newspapers, clear glass, aluminum, and cardboard and pay out cash in exchange.

In 1981, recycling sites in the county collected 123,708 pounds of scrap glass, metal and paper, and paid out $4,271.53 in cash.

During the week of April 19-24, the Town of Black Mountain will pick up, free of charge, any trash that the county landfill will accept. According to Mayor Tom Sobol, that will include washers and dryers, old refrigerators, and even cars. The landfill will not accept old tires.
