has tea

for teachers

by Idell Wilson

The Pilot Club of Black Mountain held its Annual Teachers' Tea on Wednesday, May 4, in the cafeteria of the Black Mountain Primary School. Forty-five teachers were present for the tea which honored principals and teachers of the Black Mountain Primary and Middle Schools.

Checks were presented to Gene Dellinger, Principal of the middle school and to Jerry Green, Principal of the primary school. The money will be used to purchase books for the libraries. Vicki Bishop is librarian for the primary school and Wanda Davis for the middle school.

Katherine Seaward, Education and International Relations Area leader was in charge of the annual tea. Members of the Pilot Club participating included Ruth Harris, Margaret Blizard, Mary Decker, Katherine Seaward and Idell Wilson.

The club recently held its annual international dinner in the fellowship room of the Tabernacle United Methodist Church. Faris Ashkar of Asheville was the speaker. He was introduced by Lorraine Timmerman who was in charge of the program.

A former employee of the Beacon Manufacturing Company, he now operates a woodworking shop, known as Ashkar's House of Arts, in Asheville.

Born in Lebanon, Ashkar arrived in the United States in 1968 and went to school at Warren Wilson College. He spoke about the differences in culture, history and languages between Lebanon and the United States.

Lebanon is a very small country covering a little over 5,000 square miles, he said. He compared the weather, food and dress in Lebanon and in the U.S. He told that the major religion groups in Lebanon were Christians, Moslems and Jews.

A question and answer session followed his talk.

state meeting

The Owen High School Library Club was represented at the North Carolina High School Library-Media Association by Kim Hensley, Vice President, and Eddie Rose, Treasurer. They were accompanied by Mrs. Betty Davis, sponsor.

The meeting was held in Burlington, N.C. Various competitions were held and several challenging speakers were heard.

The group also toured the campuses of Elon College, Wake Forest University and Duke University.

The convention was held in late March.

Bob Orr to be

Jet-Flo dealer

Bob Orr of the Black Mountain Stove and Chimney company located on Black Mountain Avenue has become a dealer for Jet-Flo Corporation based in Tryon, N.C.

Black Mountain Stove and Chimney will carry Jet-Flo's new tankless water heater. These units are designed and engineered to conserve energy and save space, and to offer the convenience of an endless supply of hot water.

The use of the Jet-Flo tankless water heater, that uses power only when hot water is required, can save the consumer up to 50 percent of the cost of his electricity needed to supply his household with hot water.

There is a model of the Jet-Flo tankless water heater on display at Black Mountain Stove and Chimney now. The public is invited to come by and examine it.
