Dr. Sheldon Neuringer

Dr. Neuringer presents paper at WWC

Dr. Sheldon Neuringer, history professor at Warren Wilson College, recently presented a paper entitled "The Roosevelt Administration and Refuge for Victims of Nazism, 1933-41" at a conference on "America and the Holocaust: 1933-1945," held at Millersville State College in Pennsylvania.

Neuringer's paper, dealt with immigration barriers during the years 1933-1941. Neuringer explained that throughout the Roosevelt era the administration "was reluctant to challenge Congress to change immigration laws." Although 150,000 German Jews were able to find refuge in the United States, there was a certain amount of anti-

Semitism, and with the depression Americans were afraid that immigrants would take the few jobs that there were.

The conference, which was partly sponsored by the National Council of Christians and Jews, concluded that the United States and Great Britain failed to do as much as they could have to prevent the extermination of millions of Jewish people. The conference was designed to create a greater awareness of the events that occurred during the Holocaust. The participants came from various colleges and universities across the nation including Yale, Georgetown, and Michigan State.

IRS offers information

According to the Internal Revenue Service, many taxpayers need copies of their previously filed Federal tax returns for the purpose of income averaging, applying for student loans and grants, and for mortgage purposes.

Generally, to process requests for copies of an individual's return takes about 2 months, the IRS cautions.

In many instances, taxpayers need only certain information from the return, not the entire package. The IRS District Office in Greensboro can usually furnish this information in about 2 weeks, upon request.

The taxpayer should call 1-800-424-1040, toll-free any weekday from 8 - 4:30 p.m. to obtain the data.
