1886 IN THE SOUTH. THE HISTORY OF A YEAR'S PROGRESS

Review 'of the South's Industrial Gowth in a Year-Southern Enterprise, Prospe ity and Wealth.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.-The United Press is in receipt of the advance sheet from the Manufacturers Record for January 1st, 1887. That number of the Record will contain a review of the industrial advancement of the South during 1886, in the compilation of which over 10,000 letters and postal cards were used. It says with elected chairman of the joint meet. Death was instantaneous. The wo-ing of committees. Collector Stone man is entirely insane. She has four

The Most Remarkable Year

In many respects in the history of the Southern States. During that year more was accomplished for the prosperity and progress of the whole South than ever before in the same length of time. It is not alone in the enormous industrial development and in the addition of millions of dollars to the manufacturing capital and hundreds of new enterprises that 1886 will ever be memorable in the history of Southern industries, greater probably than those so far as concerns the future progress of the South is the interest that has been awakened among Northern and European capitalists in the vast mineral and timber wealth of the Southern States, and their thorough conversion to the truth that the South is destined to be the Richest Country in the World. The greatest interest has centred in the iron and steel industries. The organization of furnace companies has gone on with a rapidity that is startling. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company now have five furnaces in operation and is producing more iron than the Thomas Iron Company of Philadelphia with its 12. They w ll build 5 more furnaces, 1,400 coke ovens, and a steel plant.
