Heart Trouble Baffled Doctors.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve Cured Me.

There is nothing more necessary to health than rest. If these are denied you, you are in the morning more tired than when you went to bed. There is an affection of the nerves present. If your heart is weak, there is an inherited tendency in that direction. Your weakened nerves will not affect your heart's action as to bring on serious chronic trouble. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Heart Cure, which cures the nerves, so that sleep may come, and it quickly restores the weakened nerves to health and strength. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is a great blood and heart tonic which restores the action of the heart, enriches the blood and improves the circulation.

"Some time ago I was suffering severely with heart trouble. At times my heart would stop beating and at others it would seem to be in my throat. Three to four hours sleep each night in ten months was all I could get. One week in last September I was unable to sleep at all. I tried all the remedies I could get, but they did me no good. I then bought a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and after spending a good deal of money in medicine and doctors in Cleveland, Shelbyville, Frankfort, Cincinnati and New York, and in three days have derived more benefit from the use of your medicine than I got from all the doctors and their medicines. I think every body ought to know of the marvelous results obtained in your remedies."—W. H. HOBBS, Fox Creek, N. C.

The Never-Give-Up American.

WHEN LUXURIES TAKE WING HE FINDS A WAY TO GET THERE JUST THE SAME.

New York Sun.

Rely upon the American people to cross any bridge they come to. Coal might have soared to the altitude of the cow that jumped over the moon, but they would have found some way to keep warm.

It was so in the civil war. "You didn't feel it in the North, you didn't have to come to it as they did in the South and the West," said a man who has been through several wars and not a few strikes. "There came a time when gentlemen who had lived comfortably had no coffee.

"Somebody tried parched corn. It made a fairly good breakfast liquid. Oats had a bitter flavor. The man who first used chicory was pretty well off. Some people never went back to coffee after using chicory.

"The darkies paraded acorns and then pounded them into powder and boiled it, and the pickaninies cried for it.

"Then we fell upon the evil days when we had no sugar. It required more money to buy a pound of sugar than it has of late to buy a ton of coal.

"But somebody discovered sorghum, it required a season to produce it, but it was a splendid substitute. The man who had sorghum molasses on his table belonged to the old ante bellum quality.

"Sorghum was too high for the darkies. But they had to have sweetening, so they made some sort of sugar out of water melon rind and revelled in that.

"We reached that point when flour was a luxury. I remember a dinner given to a prominent man who had come to our town. There were no olives, no blue points, no relishes, nor soups. But the meat was baked peacock, and the dessert consisted of flour biscuit and sorghum molasses.

"It was the talk of the community that enough flour had been found to make biscuit. Every day bread was made out of pumpkin. "Of course, you know all about Southern women who had been accustomed to their imported silk gowns before the war and who, when old Tecumseh Sherman was splurging around in the South and Grant was hammering his way through the Wilderness, went to their looms and wove linseys, out of which they made their gowns. I went to a wedding in Tennessee where the bride's dress was a homespun linsey and one of the presents was a bolt of calico, for which the groom paid $125 a yard.

"Oh yes, those were dark days; but they contained a lesson, and the last chapter of the lesson was that no matter what an American went up against in some way, and if he didn't go over it he burrowed beneath it—he got past it.

"And when this coal strike got to its worst, and some people thought we were on the ragged edge of famine I never despaired. I know we could find some way out of it."

How Much Whiskey is a Load?

Indianapolis News.

The question of how many drinks of whiskey a man can stow away and still maintain an equilibrium was indirectly at issue in a case that Judge John H. Baker, of the Federal Court, tried at Evansville this week. The plaintiff—the man who drank the whiskey—was Edward Murphy, a large land owner and distiller, near Owensboro, Ky. The defendant was the city of Rockport.

Murphy travels for his own distillery. About two years ago he made a trip to Rockport, where he met with a serious accident. Rockport is built on hills and some of the streets are abruptly ended by cliffs. In going to his hotel at night Murphy walked off a precipice. He fell several feet into a ditch, breaking a leg, an arm and sustained other injuries.

He began suit for $15,000 damages, but the defenses set up the claim that he was intoxicated when he walked off the precipice and that the city was not liable, although it had not guarded the precipice. Murphy deposed that he was intoxicated and in his testimony he declared that he could drink 40 glasses of whiskey a day and not be affected.

Several saloon men testified that Murphy was not drunk, but was "feeling good." The jury was out but 15 minutes, reaching a verdict for the defendant.

A Sincere Warning.

Atchison Globe.

An Atchison girl who is chasing a man has received a dozen anonymous letters warning her of sorrow. It is found that they were all written by a woman who has had nine children.

Retlections of a Bachelor.

The more children the un-married.

Some bastards are the real thing. A greased pole is easy to staying in public life.

The primal instinct of woman is to be one.

It takes nine tailors to make a man and one woman to break him. A man is as good as he has to be and a woman as bad as she dares to be.

Most people only talk when they should act and act when they should only talk.

Some girls try to be so modest that the very word sleep makes them blush.

Little girls begin to look at little boys the same time they begin to look into mirrors.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery sent to you absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

The State Dispensary.

SAM JONES WRITES OF SOUTH CAROLINA'S GIN MILL AND ITS LIQUOR.

We take the following article from the Atlanta Journal, in which Rev. Sam P. Jones expatiates upon the South Carolina dispensary and the qualities of the proverbial "chemically pure":

The biggest thing in South Carolina is the dispensary. Ben Tillman and the devil saddled the thing in South Carolina, and the politicians and the devil are running it with the aid of fools and rascals who buy the liquor.

Whisky is sold from the dispensary from sun up till sun down and the prices range from 10 cents for half pint bottle to $1.00 for pint bottle, from popskull to "good lickin'" Druggists and "gentlemen" buy the "good lickin'" and negroes and poor whites buy the 10 cents a pint stuff. All the dispensaries of the state are furnished their liquor from the Columbia wholesale shop. The state takes its profits at headquarters before the town and county dispensaries get hold of it.

Then the town and county divide the profits equally. And the work of drunkard-making goes steadily on. I find in mingling with the people (I mean the good people), for I go with no other sort, they are all opposed to the dispensary. They say it's better than the saloon. Just as they prefer measles to smallpox. They say it's death to morals and manhood, whether it's furnished by saloon, blind tiger or dispensary.

The dispensary is as much in politics in South Carolina as the saloons of Chicago or Atlanta are in politics. Therefore both gangs know that when they go out of politics they must go out of business. And so it goes, and it looks like as long as the infernal greed of whisky dealers and their formal appetite for drink shall possess men that the traffic will go on, but I am still at my old game fighting the gangs on both sides.

They tell me I can't stop it, but I tell them that I am like the boy who grabbed the calf by the tail and the calf took off down the road at break-neck speed, and the boy keeping up with the procession, and by and by a gentleman said to the boy, "Tom, what are you doing with that calf?" "I am trying to stop him," "You can't stop him that way," said the gentleman. "I know I can't," said the boy, "but I'm slowing him up some."

Don't forget the old man with the fish on his back.

For nearly thirty years he has been traveling around the world, and is still traveling, bringing health and comfort wherever he goes.

To the consumptive he brings the strength and flesh he so much needs.

To all weak and sickly children he gives rich and strengthening food.

To thin and pale persons he gives new firm flesh and rich red blood.

Children who first saw the old man with the fish are now grown up and have children of their own.

He stands for Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil—a delightful food and a natural tonic for children, for old folks and for all who need flesh and strength.

What Constitutes Unselfishness in a Citizen?

The man of business who devotes his surplus wealth to the promotion of education or of art, or to the alleviation of suffering, is doing public service. So, too, among business men and lawyers and journalists, among the men engaged in the most energetic and active pursuits, we find those who are always ready to serve on committees to raise money for charitable or public purposes, to advance important measures of legislation, and to reform the evils which are especially rife in great municipalities.

To do this they give their money, as well as their time and strength, which are of more value than money, to objects wholly outside the labors by which they support themselves or their families or gratify their own tastes or ambitions. Thus they use the test of what constitutes usefulness in a citizen by rendering to the country, and to their fellow citizens, service which has no personal reward in it, but which advances the good of others and contributes to the welfare of the community.—Senator H. C. Lodge, in November Success.

Scrapbook.

N. E. Willbore, Rank, N. C.

At hog killing time take the head, liver and heart, and cleanse them thoroughly. Put all on the fire in cold water, bring to a boil and cook till the bones can be easily removed, then take out in a chopping bowl and chop one, seasoning it with salt, pepper and sage. After straining the liquor on the stove, return the meat to it and thicken with corn meal and a handful of flour till it is the consistency of mush. Dip out into deep dishes and when cold slice and fry a nice brown as you would mush. It is very nice for breakfast. If you make more than you can use at once, run hot lard over the rest and you can keep it all through the winter.
