SCHOOL CREDIT FOR HOME WORK

Supt. I. C. Griffin of the Shelby Public Schools is adding a most commendable feature to the local schools, in that credit will be allowed pupils for work done at home. Parents will so gladly welcome this innovation which means that the children will be much "dearer about the house" in helping to do all kinds of chores. Prof. Griffin tried out this new system at Marietta with his class in domestic science and it worked wonders. It is extended to practically all grades.

The object of adding this department to our public schools is to get a closer co-operation between the home and the school. This plan is not new. For several years many of the progressive schools of the country have been using it, and without an exception good results have always followed its use. It is just as important to train a child to work as it is to teach him Algebra and Latin. Shelby placed its stigma upon labor, and it is the duty of every teacher of children to help erase this stigma. The school of giving credit for home work can dignify labor. "Habit is second nature." Some bright children with an alert mind can get through school without forming the habit of industry. Thus we find many failures in life among those who make the high grades in school and college. They have failed because they did not learn to dig. Most occupations demand more than an acquiring attitude of mind.

Again, neatness and personal care are habits that mean much to any one. Some grown people cannot help being neat; others cannot be neat, no matter how much they try. Why? Habits formed when young.

It is earnestly requested that all parents co-operate with the school in this effort. It will be necessary for the success of the plan to have parents report daily in the lower grades and weekly in the upper grades the quantity and quality of work done. The following lists will explain themselves:

We are indebted to Supt. Alderman, Portland, Oregon, for the many suggestions found in his book, "School Credit for Home Work."

5. The girl and the boy receiving the highest number of credits for the entire year will receive a suitable medal.
6. Ten per cent. will be added to the final examination results of all pupils who enter this contest at the beginning of each year and continue in it until the end of the year, provided the final examination result is not below 70.

REMARKABLE PROSECUTOR

Edward Lansing Cowles of Observer Says Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby is a Genius in Many Respects.

Observer, Jan. 10th:

Our distinguished friend, Hon. Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, solicitor for the western district of North Carolina, came to town yesterday and while walking down Tryon street, was pointed out here and there to the curious, and his identity made known. Every time I see him I can't help think of Thomas Dixon, another far-famed Shelbyite, whose extraordinary capacity gained for him a national prominence, and whose versatility brought him rich returns. Brother Hoey has long hair and a long face. He's tall and erect and has perspicacity. He is one of those types of men who they walk down the streets of any city, will attract attention and comment. There's something about him that denotes personality, magnetism, the unusual. His eyes are keen and his forehead high. Some folks might derive the impression that the learned Shelby lawyer made a "fad" of letting his hair grow long and others will tell you that it denotes the temperament of an artist rather than an artisan, but Hoey is an artist, not only before the bar of justice, but in convention halls. He has big mentality, remarkable intellect and a memory that never fails him. I've heard a secret service man say that Clyde Hoey is the most remarkable prosecutor in the two Carolinas. His language is that of a statesman and his knowledge of law that of a man who has delved deeply. If we were to don a soft-felt hat and wear a flowing tie, it would almost bring one back to the "good old days" of the early sixties.

NEW LAW PASSED

Recorder and Auditors Office is Now Full Time, With Jurisdiction of Recorder Extended Over Entire County.

Up to the present time Hon. W. A. Mauney, representative from Cleveland county, has introduced two bills affecting Cleveland, one re-establishing the office of county treasurer, providing for interest on county funds and appointing Rush Stroup treasurer, as was noted in Tuesday's Star. The other bill touches the office of county recorder and auditor, held by Hon. B. T. Falls. Two years ago a bill was introduced and passed providing that effective Jan. 1st 1917 the recorder should hold court only three days in a week, his salary was reduced and the duties of auditing the books were lifted from his shoulders and placed in the hands of expert accountants. So satisfactory has Mr. Fall's services been as recorder and auditor and in view of the fact that a movement is on foot to lessen the number of terms of Superior Courts in Cleveland, it is wisely considered that Mr. Falls should continue on full time as both recorder and auditor. Under Mr. Fall's administration the office of County Recorder has been eminently satisfactory and a great saving to the county, financially. The bill pending in the legislature places his salary at $1,500, provides for daily terms of his court, lets him continue as auditor of the books of the county officers and hold court one day in the week at Kings Mountain. Heretofore the Kings Mountain territory has been exempted from the jurisdiction of the recorder's court because of the inconvenience in getting witnesses and defendants to Shelby. Under the new bill Recorder Falls will sit one day each week at Kings Mountain for the trial of cases. Civil cases can be transferred from Shelby to Kings Mountain or from Kings Mountain to Shelby.

NO MORE LOCAL BILLS

Hereafter, Under the Constitutional Amendment, Local Matters Will be Attended to at Home.

In the November election, the people of North Carolina voted four amendments to the constitution, the most important of which allows the county commissioners of every county in the state to make certain laws and regulations of a local nature. Heretofore the Legislature has been flooded with local bills of no interest whatever to any one except the representative introducing the same and the county he represents. Therefore the Legislature has had its time taken up with local bills with little time left to give proper attention to state-wide and more important measures. The Legislature will now pass some law delegating the authority to county commissioners to pass laws affecting their county and no more local bills will be introduced at Raleigh.

The Star considers this a great improvement over the old system. Legislation pertaining to Cleveland will be attended to at home where the people will be in closer touch with the law-making body—the county commissioners. Several matters of local importance are being urged and if The Star is correctly informed, the county commissioners will attend to this.

The North Carolina Municipal Association will be in session in Raleigh this week, and the special work at this meeting will be the drafting of general legislation to take the place of special laws formerly enacted for municipalities by the Legislature. The amendment adopted in the last election took away from the General Assembly the power to enact local legislation after January 10.
