Death Bed Recital Saves Young Man

Young Woman Clears Reputation of Friend Who Shouldered the Blame of Another.

Louie Philips, popular young man residing near Franklin, today knows that a voice from the grave cleared from Main street The death of Miss Leathers.

· er shows that Philpe real story on the was brought to trial in Franklin for having stolen the car, and the reason that a true statement from him at that time would have blasted the reputation of another young woman in the community.

Several years ago R. L. Porter, of Macon county, lost his car. It was stolen from the front of his residence and found later ditched on the side of the public highway. Circumstances pointed towards Phillips as the man who had taken it. Throughout the proceedings against him he denied the charge, but took, the blame with the result that he was fined $250 and costs only after every effort had been made by influential fiends to save him from the chaingang.

According to the letter written by Miss Bishop, while dying of tuberculosis in Jacksonville, Phillips was the innocent victim of circumstantial evidence. Miss Bishop writes that she and several others including another young man and woman, took the car for a ride and intended to return it the next day. They met Phillips in the road by accident after they had lost their direction. He informed them as to their location and they offered to take him home if he desired. Phillips got in the car after recognizing those in it, but did not know the machine did not belong to those in possession. Christmas Spirita Reality

OU don't believe in Christmas? The Christmas spirit is dead in you? You hate . all this crowding to stores to buy presents for friends, relatives and acquaintances who will certainly be crowding to other stores, or even the same ones, to buy presents in exchange? The whole thing tion that irks you? That is the way

But you still have enough of the Christmas spirit left to wish you didn't county got one or more bushels of feel that way? Well, then, there's

One thing your state of mind tells me, although you are almost a stranger, is that you have no children in your house. Children are certainly have enough seed to plant their entire partment of a store and spend an hour a few days before Christmas. That will be a remedy for Christmas-weariness all in itself. You will? Fine!

Well, then, on the way home, fill mistletoe, and when you have reached your home hang them yourself. No, don't hand them to a servant.

Then, then-well, you won't need any more remedies, except those your heart will dictate. For the Christmas spirit is the most easily induced spirit in the world. That is because it is so vital. It's a reality, you see, not just a state of mind, but a reality that exists and has only to be leaned towards a little to envelop you. And it's certainly wellworth that leaning. You know that, perfectly well? Well, then, lean!
