

WHAT OTHERS SAY!

May not ALWAYS be correct, but public opinion of people and firms is formed in three ways—

By the things they do—

By the things they say—

and by what OTHERS SAY.

And of these three, what OTHERS SAY counts very largely.

The customers served by THE UNION TRUST CO. at its home office and at the three prosperous and thriving branches, namely:

Oyster Shells Bring Rich Crops for Farmers

Burning and grinding oyster shells into a powder to make plants grow, is a growing industry of the South. A recent scarcity of nitrates forced farmers to look for some other fertilizer, and they adopted the oyster. To use something that lies at the bottom of the sea, the food of a starfish, for improving land seemed impossible at first, but in the powdered shells were found qualities that enriched the soil and so they are now being widely used. The shells are burned on a grate over a roaring fire. They are hauled by wheelbarrow to a conveyor which carries them to the place called a pulverizer, where they are mashed and ground into fine dust, ready for the farmer. This recently developed industry has brought oyster hunting to a state where it is said to be more profitable than any other kind of fishing.

Change Golf-Club Weight to Suit the Player

To enable the weight of a golf club to be instantly adjusted to suit the player, one manufacturer has inserted removable pieces of lead in the head of the stick. As changes may be made during the game, this does away with the need of carrying several drivers or brasses in the bag as one has a variety to select from in meeting various situations. Slight changes in the weights of the clubs also have proved useful when the player feels out of form.

Estimates place the amount of oxygen in the earth's atmosphere as 1,000 times less than that present in the air surrounding the planet Venus.

Watchdog "Travels Beat" in Aerial-Cable Cage

Similarly to the way in which packages are carried in stores in traveling overhead baskets, a dog makes the circuit of his master's grounds in London at regular intervals in a traveling elevated cage. The dog appears to understand the responsibility of his place and is keenly on the lookout, speedily giving the alarm when he sees an intruder on the grounds.

Lions Tamed by Electricity Instead of With Whip

As a more effective means of training lions that eventually perform in the rings of a circus, lion tainers are reported to favor an electrically charged wire in stead of the whip. When a beast has just begun its education, it often attempts to attack the instructor when his back is turned. Formerly the trainer's security was in keeping a sharp watch over his shoulder and striking out with the heavy piece of leather when the animal jumped at him. But now a charged wire is stretched across the cage, and when the beast touches it, it receives a lesson that leaves a deeper impression than a blow.

Luminous Clouds to Light Bottom of the Ocean

Luminous clouds of artificial light are used in experiments being made to find a method for taking photographs and moving pictures of the ocean's floor, where the "Lusitania" and many other ships, some laden with treasure, lie buried out of the reach of divers. By spraying the water with a chemical designed to reproduce the phosphorescence of waves, a scientist believes it may be possible to light up the sea sufficiently to take pictures of objects many fathoms below the surface. At present beyond a depth of 50 feet, it is virtually impossible to see more than 10 feet in any direction.

Temporary Wire Fences for "Hogging Down" Corn

The drawing shows the construction of a temporary fence for "hogging down" corn or other forage crops on a farm. Each stake is made from a length of pipe, which is flattened at one end so that it can be easily driven into the ground. A number of holes are drilled in the pipe, in pairs at equal distances apart, and a small loop made of wire is inserted into each. The wire fence is then stretched in the usual way, and a long straight piece of heavy wire is slipped down through the small loops to hold the fence in place. With this arrangement the fence may be put up or taken down in a very short time.

For scouring and cleaning aluminum dishes, cakes of soap mixed with steel wool are being made.
