FOREST CITY GETS ORPHANAGE FROM SOUTH MOUNTAINS

TRUSTEE OFFERS $50,000.

To Be Baptist Institution And An Industrial School For Motherless Children.

Forest City is to get Baptist orphanage, according to plans first made known public Sunday at the First Baptist church Shelby by Miss Bertha Moore, one of the promoters of the South Mountain institute in Rutherford county, Miss Moore said a certain trustee of the South Mountain school had felt that the South Mountain school's usefulness could be broadened by moving out of the mountains and that this trustee, whose name she withholds for the present, has offered $50,000 and 150 acres of land. According to Miss Moore this will be the only institution of its kind in the southern or northern Baptist conventions. She declares that it will not in any way interfere with the Boiling Springs school because the institution to be established at Forest City will only take students who are unable to pay for their education and are willing to work their way through and because it will make special arrangements to care for motherless children. The Thomasville Baptist orphanage takes children whose father's are dead but does not take motherless children, so this new Forest City school will cater especially to motherless little ones.

Five years ago Misses Bertha Moore and Ora Hull established the South Mountain institute, a typical mountain school which has done a wonderful work, but the buildings have become dilapidated, the location serves to limit the usefulness of the school and the Misses Moore and Hull have decided to move to Forest City. The money and land offered by the unknown trustee will make a fine start and the churches will be called on later for other help to erect and equip the necessary buildings. The lady promoters expect to maintain the institution at South Mountain and keep two teachers there who will carry on the community work which they started five years ago. Many of the present students have consented to come to Forest City and continue their studies, for says, Miss Moore an ambition for an education has been inspired in hundreds of mountain children.

The new institution at Forest City while an orphanage, will stress the junior college idea with the hope of having a curriculum which will give it this standard among the colleges of the east. Miss Moore says negotiations are still under way with the trustee who has offered $50,000 in cash and 150 acres of land and that she expects to be able to make some definite announcement this week. If the plans carry as outlined, she hopes the school will be ready to open its doors by next September at Forest city.

MAY BUILD A SIX STORY APARTMENT

B. F. Curtis Buys Old Archer Home And Plans Six Story Apartment

House-Thompson Buys Lot.

B. F. Curtis has purchased for $5,500 from David A. Beam through Anthony and Anthony, the Old Archer house on East Warren street, better known as the Thomas Dixon house and is planning to build a six story apartment house. He drew plans before he purchased the property and says he will carry his plans through if there is no further advance in building material, but if there is a big upward swing in material prices, he will change his building plans or delay construction work indefinitely. The Archer property has a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 133 feet. Mr. Curtis says his present plans call for six stories with a basement, the ground floor to have a large dining room which can be converted into store rooms later as the demand for such property comes into existence. His apartment house will be of brick. There will be in all about 12 apartments with three and four rooms to each, together with private bath. The building will be steam heated throughout, with nice floors, electric fixtures and many conveniences, making this an ideal place for small families.

W. R. Newton who owned 50 feet frontage between the Curtis property and the Washburn property where a filling station is now in process of erection, has sold this lot to Carl Thompson for $4,500.

COUNTY-WIDE MILK CAMPAIGN NOW ON

Every School in County Will be Visited. Poster Winners are Announced.

The first county-wide "Milk-for-Health" campaign in North Carolina started with a rush in this county Monday morning, with national, state and county extension workers cooperating with school officials and others in making the campaign a success. For some time the majority of school children in the county have been devoting their artistic talent to the drawing of posters showing the value of milk as a food and with this initial interest by the children the workers staging the campaign will this week visit every school in the county.

The winning posters drawn by the school children will be placed in local store windows, where it is hoped they will secure added interest in the campaign. Thursday night the benefits of a successful milk campaign will be stressed at the meeting of the Kiwanis club, where Miss Florence Hall, of Washington, will use the club motto "We Build" in telling of the results of similar campaigns elsewhere and of the needs of such a campaign, using statistics of the town and rural schools of this county. Saturday morning at 10 o'clock free moving pictures will be shown at the Princess theatre here in interest of the campaign and also at Kings Mountain. The value of milk as a food is woven into a love story in the films to be shown through the courtesy of the state department of education and local theater owners.

Wide attention is being given the campaign as it is the first of the kind in the state. Quite a number of out-of-town extension workers are here assisting in the work, the latest arrival being A. C. Kimrey, of the State college dairy extension.

WIDOW OF FORMER GOVERNOR IS DEAD

Mrs. T. J. Jarvis, Sister of Rev. C. J. Woodson and Widow of Former Governor Dies at 83.

Mrs. Mary W. Jarvis, sister of Rev. C. J. Woodson of Shelby and widow of Thomas J. Jarvis, governor of North Carolina from 1879 to 1885, died Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the Fifth Street Community hospital, Greenville, this state. She was 83 years old.

Mrs. Jarvis who had been in declining health for several years, was carried to the hospital about two months ago. While her advanced age allowed little hope for her recovery, her death was not immediately expected. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, Greenville, named for her husband who was one of its most prominent and influential members. Rev. V. P. Scoville, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. F. Harding, pastor of the Presbyterian church, conducted the service.

Mrs. Jarvis in her younger days was a woman of great activity both in the social and the church life of her community and the state. Several years ago, the general assembly of North Carolina voted her a pension of $150 monthly, the first ever allowed by the state for the widow of one of its governors.

Mrs. Jarvis was the daughter of Hon. John Woodson, of Pulaski county, Va., the head of an honored family. She was married to Governor Jarvis in early life. She was a highly cultured woman and was much admired for her good common sense, adroitness and diplomacy aiding him with distinction not only during his service as governor but also during his term of office as United States senator and United States minister to Brazil. He died about ten years ago.

Mrs. Jarvis occupied the governor's mansion, as first lady of the state, during a period which was devoted to the inauguration of a great many of the internal improvements of the state. She was a close ally of her husband, standing with him through many battles.

Mrs. Jarvis is survived by three brothers and one sister. They are Louis Woodson, Birmingham; Byron Woodson, Kansas City; C. J. Woodson, Shelby; Mrs. B. W. Baker, Vaiden, Miss. She is survived also by a number of nieces and nephews in Greenville.

DISTRICT GOV. ADAMS IS KIWANIS CLUB GUEST THURSDAY

MEETING IN SOUTH SHELBY

Elegant Meal is Served By The Ladies Of LaFayette Street Methodist Church.

District Governor Harry Allen of the Carolinas district was the guest of honor at the Thursday night meeting of the Kiwanis club held in the Sunday school addition of the LaFayette Street Methodist church. The good ladies of the church served an elegant and beautiful feed to the 100 or more guests. Kiwanis members invited their wives, which with the other guests, made the attendance unusually large, but the church ladies handled the matter of feeding in becoming style, serving a faultless dinner which was the subject of much favorable comment by their visitors. The dinner was served in the Sunday school department, an addition to the church which is growing rapidly under the pastorate of Rev. J. W. Ingle who delivered the address of welcome. Rev. W. L. Lemons made the response, while Harry Adams, guest of honor, was the chief speaker of the evening. He announced the meeting of the Kiwanis International to be held in June in Denver, Colorado, to which each club must send two delegates. He outlined the trip both to and from Denver and urged that not only two go as delegates, but as many members of the Shelby Kiwanis as possible attend this meeting. Mr. Adams is a striking looking man with a fine voice and in a brief speech he stressed the meaning of Kiwanis and its purpose to build character. He urged the club to take a more active interest in the club's program to help the underprivileged child in this community—a matter to which other clubs have devoted much interest and attention with marked achievements.

J. S. Dorton presided over the meeting with his usual grace and humor in the absence of President Mull who was sick and Vice President Gardner who was out of town on business. Rush Hamrick gave two bottles of flavoring extracts which were drawn by Mrs. Harry Adams and Miss Elizabeth McBrayer. Peter Grigg of the firm of Grigg and Hamrick gave a half ton of coal which was drawn by Mrs. Paul Wootten, Mr. Wootten, manager of Gilmer's being a new member of the club.

The Kiwanis quartet furnished a couple of good selections and after adjournment the visitors inspected the new Sunday school department of the LaFayette street church upon invitation of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Ingle.

Mrs. Mary Newton Dies Buried On Saturday

Saintly Old Fashioned Mother Passes To Her Reward. Husband And 5 Children Survive.

Mrs. Mary Elmina Newton died Friday February 22nd at her home near Casar at the age of 87 years, five months and 5 days. Mrs. Newton was born in upper Cleveland August 24, 1836 and when a small girl professed faith in Christ, joining Clover Hill Methodist church of which she remained a faithful member until the Casar Methodist church was organized. She moved her membership to the Casar church and was a most faithful and consecrated member. Mrs. Newton was the old fashioned type of mother, greatly beloved by all who knew her. Rev. E. M. Avett who conducted the funeral amid a crowd of sorrowing friends on Saturday paid a beautiful and deserved tribute to her noble life and to other old-fashioned women of her type who suffered hardships of days of stress and poverty, yet remained loyal to family and ambitious for loved ones.

Mrs. Newton was first married to Thomas Newton at the age of 21 years. She was left a widow by the Civil war in which her husband as well as many others sacrificed a life for a great principle. Later she married Andrew Newton who survives with four children: Mrs. B. T. Bumgardner of Belmont, N. C., B. A. Newton of Little Rock, Ark., P. Lorenzo Newton a prominent lawyer of Coweta, Okla., and Mrs. John Parker of Casar.

The funeral was largely attended and a rich floral offering attested the high esteem in which she was held.

Card Of Thanks.

We wish to thank the many good people who were kind and tender in their ministrations during the protracted illness of our devoted husband and father and those who were so sympathetic during our great bereavement.

RUTHERFORD WANTS HARD SURFACE BUILT

Urges Next Work To Be Done From Cleveland Line To Forest City. Supt. Allen Speaks.

Rutherfordton, Feb. 21.—The largest crowd since it was organized attended the February meeting of the Rutherford Country club at the Iso Thermal hotel luncheon yesterday afternoon. Ninety four plates were served, or a total of 109, including the high school glee club and orchestra, which made music for the occasion and dined prior to the club dinner.

Fred D. Hamrick presided over the meeting in the absence of President Z. O. Jenkins, Rev. J. O. Erwin read resolutions of respect to the honor and memory of the late P. J. Spencer Tanner, which were adopted. It was moved and carried that the club ask the state highway commission to hard surface the road from Second Broad river to Forest City and the rest of the hard-surfacing money coming to the county be applied on the Charlotte-Asheville highway, west, beginning at Rutherfordton. It is understood that the county will likely get about five miles more of hard-surfaced road out of the $65,000,000 state bond issue.

A recitation by little Angeline Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Harris, on "Boosting North Carolina" and music by the local high school were special features of the meeting.

A. T. Allen Speaks. County Superintendent of Schools W. R. Hill reviewed briefly the growth of the county educationally from 1913 to 1923 and introduced the speaker of the day, State Superintendent of Public Instruction A. T. Allen, of Raleigh. Mr. Allen delivered an instructive address. He discussed three main points: Uniform tax rate for the support of the public schools so as to make the minimum school term eight months; second, countywide tax for building purposes, and third, a consolidation scheme that takes in every child and every district in the county.

He discussed the changed conception of a school house in this state and that no one longer boasts of building a new house everyday in the year. He told of the marvelous growth of the high school students of the state. Public education and democracy came in for much discussion by the speaker. He declared, "When you think of democracy, you think of education and when you talk democracy, it means education."

Jesse Harrill Dead.

Jesse J. Harrill, well known land owner and mill man, died Sunday and was buried at Concord church, near Bostic, Monday afternoon. He had been ill for some time. He was 67 years old and is survived by three brothers and four sisters: Messrs John and T. L. Harrill, Bostic and W. Amos of this place; Messdames John A. Martin, Ellenboro; C. S. Duncan, Spindale and Priscilla Harrill and Cordia Bostic of the home place. He was a bachelor and made his home with W. A. Harrill and family here, brother.

An epidemic of measles and sickness in general is sweeping the county. There are several cases of measles here. One or two schools have had to close for a short period.

Augustus A. Seagrin was buried at Mt. Vernon recently. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Much Building. W. O. Greer is erecting a nice brick veneer bungalow near the hospital opposite the residence of Dr. Robt. H. Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harrill are erecting a beautiful brick colonial home near the hospital.

Oliver Hill, contractor, is erecting a handsome large residence near the edge of town on the highway towards Chimney Rock.

Work is going forward rapidly on the new $50,000 Methodist church.

A. L. Morris and Matt McBrayer are building new handsome homes on Washington street.

K. S. and S. B. Tanner have donated the sample room of the old Iso Thermal hotel to the town for a library. Mrs. Henry Norris is having it painted and new shelves and book-cases installed. A separate reading room is being provided. The town will soon have a modern library.

S. P. Dunagan, ex-service man, delivered a stirring address at Ellenboro school last night, favoring the soldier bonus now pending in Congress and assisted in organizing a new post of the legion there.

Advance In Open Studebakers. An advance of $50 in the price of all open model Studebaker cars, effective February 20, was announced Thursday by Doggett Bros., who said they had just received notice of the change. No change was made in the price of the closed cars, according to them.

HIGHS PREPARE FOR BASEBALL PRACTICE

Coach Gurley Expects to Have Fast Diamond Aggregation in High School This Year.

With basketball hopes erased by their recent defeat in the elimination series, local high school athletes are turning their minds toward baseball. Although the diamond season is some time off early training has started for a diamond aggregation that Coach Gurley hopes will equal or better the record of last year's team that battled its way to the semi-finals for state honors.

Battery men have already started warming up the whip arm and a call for candidates has been issued preparatory to actual practice, which will get underway this week. The intermingling of a few spring-like days in with the ground hog weather has all the boys eager to trot on the field and toy with the familiar horsehide. Some rood material may be in the 20 or 25 men, mostly new, that are out and Coach Gurley expects to develop from this lot enough to plug up the pierced ranks of the 1923 team. Prospects already point towards a fast-fielding bunch, but one rather weak with the bludgeon.

The first game will be in March with another Cleveland county team with county honors at stake, the final and deciding game to be played in Shelby on high school day. Among the more important games already scheduled to be played here are: two with Asheville highs; two with Bingham military academy; one each with the Blue Ridge school for boys, Spartanburg, Charlotte, Gastonia and Monroe.

Some Likely Talent. McKee, trusty hurler who delivers from the fork side of the mound, and who bore the brunt of the hurling duties last year, has been lost to the team, but the mound duty will descend on three likely young pitchers in Wall, Lee and Desmond. Wall, last year with Boiling Springs established a remarkable record, and is expected to swing several victories to the local highs. The receiving is more than likely to be done by one man, Fred Beam, football and basketball star, unless other catching material develops. Two men, Doggett and Magness, are out for first base, while four youngsters, C. Wilson, Hopper, Hoyle and J. Wilson, are attempting to fill Hennessy's shoes at the midway base.

Max Connor, last year's incumbent in the short field position, is expected to have considerable trouble in keeping down Cline, a flashy young fielder. Self is contesting his wares with Ross last year's guardian of the hot corner. With the exception of Arrowood all of the outer garden candidates are new men and include: Costner, Brooks Mauney, Hardin, Kendricks and Peeler.

And Sells It. J. E. Webb on yesterday sold the Central Methodist church to Cleo Lutz and Tom Webb, contractors. The Star reporter was unable to locate either of the parties and ascertain the exact consideration, but Mr. Webb says he made enough "to buy an automobile." There was some misunderstanding between J. E. Webb and Tom Webb over the first purchase mentioned above from the church authorities. Mr. Tom Webb says he suggested to Mr. J. E. Webb that they buy the property together and they went to J. F. Harris, real estate man and made a joint proposition, Tom Webb admits he did not sign the proposition to the church with J. E. Webb because he says he thought J. E. was acting as their agent as well as for himself. J. E. Webb says Tom Webb excused himself and said nothing to him further about the trade until after he (J. E. Webb) had made the purchase, so he concluded that Tom Webb had withdrawn from the transaction. At any rate J. E. Webb has sold out lock, stock and barrel to Webb and Lutz.

PLANTS HERE ARE MAKING FULL TIME

Local Mills Have Not Curtailed Output. One Plant Has Increased. Time Schedule.

Although reports from Charlotte have been issued to the effect that several big textile plants there have curtailed 50 per cent, and that many mills throughout the textile section of the Piedmont had made like curtailment, no such condition seems to exist in Shelby or the surrounding mills, according to local mill men. Furthermore there seems to be no apparent anticipation of any curtailment.

Instead of any curtailed schedule, one mill, the Ella, of the Consolidated Textile corporation, has started running full time after having been on a four-day week schedule for some time. The Ella mill is the only plant in and around Shelby that is not owned by local interests, being owned by northern capital and operated under local management.

The Belmont and Double Shoals mills, locally owned, are making regular time, while the Eastside, Dover and Katherine mills, locally financed and under the Dover management, are still running full-time. As are the Shelby mills locally financed, the Lily mill, owned by the Schencks, and the Janet hosiery mill, belonging to a New York corporation.

However conditions are not encouraging considering the recent slumps in the manufactured goods market, although there is yet no evidence of curtailed programs.

Take someone with you to see "Smilin' Through", last Lyceum number, at Central school Wednesday evening.

J. E. WEBB BUYS METHODIST CHURCH FOR $35,000

FOR BUSINESS PROPERTY

Church Will Retain Its Property Until New Building is Completed. Harris and Son Sell It.

J. E. Webb on Thursday evening at sundown purchased the Central Methodist church property for $35,000 cash the deal being made through W. A. Harris and Son, realtors. Central Methodist church is located at the corner of Washington and Marion streets adjoining the city hall property and has been on the market at $35,000 since the congregation subscribed $100,000 last summer with which to erect a larger and more modern church on the opposite corner of the present church site, this building being now under construction. J. E. Webb, better known as "Jim" is one of Shelby's outstanding traders. For years he confined his operations in trading stores. Recently he has branched out in business property and as built a number of store houses on South LaFayette street. Mr. Webb also owns outright the College Inn property which is now operated as a boarding and rooming house.

Jim has not made up his mind yet just what he will do with the church. Certainly he has no idea of preaching or starting a new church. His mind at present is to turn the church into business property with an inclination to provide a picture show house. He feels that the auditorium is well suited for such a purpose and with little expense he can make it a revenue producer. His mind may change as time goes by, however, as it was stipulated in the sale that the church should have use of the property until the new church building is completed. Rev. A. L. Standard, pastor of the church thinks the new building will be ready by Fall so that the present property can be turned over to Mr. Webb. The Methodists retain possession of the pews, loose chairs, bell and pulpit stand.

Before Mr. Webb purchased the church, many local people urged the town to buy it, since it adjoins the City Hall and they feel that in a few years the town will need larger quarters, but the city fathers say the treasury would not permit of such an outlay and they did not deem it wise to issue more bonds on the heels of the bonds that have been issued within the last few years for streets, sidewalks and schools.

And Sells It. J. E. Webb on yesterday sold the Central Methodist church to Cleo Lutz and Tom Webb, contractors. The Star reporter was unable to locate either of the parties and ascertain the exact consideration, but Mr. Webb says he made enough "to buy an automobile." There was some misunderstanding between J. "Smilin' Through" Wednesday Night

The last Redpath lyceum number of the season will be given Wednesday evening at the Central school auditorium in "Smilin' Through," Allen Langdon Martin's three-act play. Shelby people who have seen "Smilin' Through," the appealing motion picture in which Norma Talmadge starred, need no inducement to see the story of human appeal presented in play form. That the play will be artistically handled is assured in the Redpath actors.

When introduced in the larger cities, such as New York, Chicago, and San Francisco, the play was a headliner and played to capacity houses. Although as a whole of the emotional type the play is replete with humor, one of the best comedy scenes ever written coming at the outset of the story.

Let the boy have a radio. You will be surprised at the valuable information he will secure from the air, say engineering workers of the State college.
