IKE'S TALE

SAL TALKS SOME

Well Ike has gone off sum whar agin today and I don't guess he will be back till he comes, so I jist thought I'd write and let you hear from me.

When a man goes off you never can be certain whether hit is liquor he is atter or sum old hussy of a woman that haint no account fur nothin.' Ike use tu be bad tu git drunk but sence he has come out fur a candidate fur office he quit and I haint heard of him drinking a drap since last Saturday nite. He may be gone fur several days this time, fur he put on his clean shirt that I washed up fur him tuther nite while he wuz asleep. I allers wash his shirt while he is in the bed so that he wont ketch cold. Hit wouldn't surprise me much to hear of him being on the tuther side of Wards crick by this time fur when Gus Richard come back in with the mail yesterday he also fetched back sum news with his mail, saying that he seed a track in the road near No-Business mountain and that he wuz willing tu swear that if hit wuz not made by Ike then hit wuz made by sum one else.

Ike wants tu be elected president the worst of any feller I ever seed, and I hope he will be too fur I'll swear I jist believe that we will perish tu death if he don't; fur he jist won't work a lick tu save my life. I do know tu my soul that Ike is one of the triflingest married men that I ever lived with! But he is a good sort of a cuss in sum ways after all, and Casar wood not seem natural without him. I am writing these few remarks in order tu help him out in his campaign, as it were, fur his liquor and tobacco is about played out and the election still far out in the future.

Then, I think too, that he is entitled tu hold office from the fact that he has never held office but twice in his life and both of these terms wuz fur two years each on the chaingang.

While I don't think hit becomes no woman tu brag on her old man, yit I will say that Ike don't look so bad in the face if he wood jist wash the dirt off so you could see hit. I remember I time when he cum a courting of me on Saturday nite, his face wuz clean and he had on store clothes with a blossom pinned on his coat and blamed if he didn't look purty decent. But that wuz a long time ago, and folks do change powerful with the passing of the years.

They say that Ike is purty good when he gits out a electioneering fur office, especially among the women folks fur he jist naturally likes them purty good, whether they vote fur him or not. They say that he splits 'em lots of stove wood an dearies slop tu the pigs fur 'em when the sign is in the mouth, and does lots of other things tu make their harts glad. These air facts what I've writ down here on these lines--there air other facts that could be told but these air enough.

Now when you have read this tu your entire satisfaction, you may retire away off in the woods alone and study over the mater till you drap off tu sleep, then if you can make up your conscience that hit is the right thing tu do vote fur Ike fur president, and we will make Casar the seat of government and start everything anew from now henceforth and forever.

BOY GIVES HIS LIFE IN RESCUING FRIEND

Asheville, May 6.—After he had rescued another student from drowning, Roy Woodrow Wingate, 18, member of the senior class at Christ school near Arden, sank exhausted in the water above the power house dam yesterday afternoon and perished before aid could reach him.

Wingate was not an experienced swimmer, but when he heard the cries for help of the boy, and saw him struggling he lunged into deep water to rescue him. Wingate shoved the boy into shallow water where he was seized by other students. Wingate then sank to his death before the gaze of half a dozen of his comrades who were powerless to aid him. The body was found later but efforts at resuscitation failed.

Wingate lived with his mother in Asheville in another month he would have been graduated from the school.

The supreme court held the Nebraska bread law invalid—probably on a rising vote.
