THE QUESTION IS OFTEN ASKED ME

Why I don't ship poultry in car lots. The question is simple and easy to answer. As a shipper I would be more than delighted to ship a car load of poultry every day or even one car a week or one a month. But unfortunately there is no such production of surplus poultry sent out from the confines of Cleveland county. One rough guess right off the reel, I would say about four car loads of poultry is shipped from this county yearly, outside what trucks haul to nearby cities, Charlotte, Gastonia, Spartanburg, Greenville and Asheville, which pay as much or more than Philadelphia, Baltimore or Richmond of the four car loads shipped to Eastern points,

I will say I ship about two and other shippers two. To ship my two car loads in two days would leave 311 days of the year to do nothing, but by other lines of stock in trade with the daily poultry satisfactory with the producer to have a every work day market. It is true there is some reduction in express rates to ship by car lots, but in the long run it is more expensive than a every day market.

The cost of feed to feed poultry undue length of time when you wish to sell, makes more expensive than to sell on the every day market. Then you don't want to be confined to certain two or three days in the year to market your poultry. You wish to sell at your convenience, or when it would be more convenient for you to have the cash instead of the poultry, then the every day market is by far the most satisfactory to the consumer for he has a chance to get poultry every work day in the year.
