Entered as second class matter January 1, 1905, at the postoffice at Shelby, North Carolina, under the Act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that it is, and has been our custom to charge five cents per line for resolutions of respect, cards of thanks and obituary notices, after one death notice has been published. This will be strictly adhered to.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 26, 1924.

One thing about Winter, the grass on the court square will not need mowing.

Canton Meigs seems to be the biggest 3rd party influence in North Carolina, but how?

The South Carolina jurist who sentenced King and Harrell does business according to the plan we call ideal.

The Wake county boy who married a woman twice his age evidently sees something in the "better half."

Pity the law when it tries to keep suckers from being followers of the Barnum theory.

Pretty soon our advertisers will be informing you "only So-many Days until Christmas."

Pity Coolidge, Washington may lose the World series and the Republican party a president.

Another good way to teach a boy the art of defending himself is to let him wear long curls.—Wichita Falls Record-News.

Max Gardner says the working people of this state hear in the Republican slogan an echo sounding like "Keep Cold with Coolidge."

There's one hopeful thing in the future place of the airplane in passenger transportation, they won't skid on wet roads.

"You tell 'em Charley," is the slogan of an advertising firm, the statement being addressed to the next vice-president.

At the present pace Shelby will be rated as a city of near 15,000 people by 1928. Sounds optimistic, but look about you.

The Masons of this section are keeping step with the progress of the county. In fact, their new temple when completed will be one of the most attractive buildings in Shelby.

Cleveland's first fair promises to be all that it should be since the ladies are showing added interest and enthusiasm.

Educational leaders estimate that every day a child spends in school is worth nine dollars to that child. If your child is attending the Shelby schools he or she is making $8.94 per day, it being estimated that the pupil cost in the Shelby schools is six cents each day.

Shelby has two prospects in one: If the people continue to break the Federal laws we may have a Federal court building. If the violations decrease court may only be a formality. A case of take it or leave it, it seems.

The Lincoln Times this week issued a special school edition telling of the new high school building in Lincoln and educational work over the county. A perusal of Mr. Mullen's paper increases our pride in Cleveland's neighbor county.

A public speaker once said: "Those in hearing of my voice," but now they should say: "You who are not bothered with static."

Sometime in the past we remember reading a lot in the papers about King Tut, and with the silence nowadays we are inclined to get him mixed up with Hiram Johnson and Lodge.

Now since The Star has unearthed an interesting story about the battle of Kings Mountain we are looking for Mr. Page to uncover a freak for the Cleveland Fair.

John W. Davis says the real enemies of the constitution are corrupt public officials. Now some Republicans will get "sore" because the Democratic candidate talks about Fall and others.

Colonel Ike Meekins appears to rate second to another North Carolinian—Bud Means—in sidestepping and backfiring. Do you really suppose Ike is after the Federal judgeship in Eastern Carolina.

The Fayetteville Observer says that a Tar Heel when shown how to turn a 50-cent piece into a dollar is not slow to take on to it, referring to the governor's proposed port program. Yes, these wonderful people of Tarheelia are also shy of "water hauls."

COTTON IN CLEVELAND.

When the government's forecast of 12,596,000 bales was flashed over the county Tuesday, the market jumped two cents per pound. Some of this gain was lost the following day and the market steadied around a cent and a half up. This gives rise to the question as to the crop in Cleveland. Last year the county made 39,686 bales, the largest crop the county has ever made. This year we cannot hope to reach this record by from seven to eight thousand bales. At planting time more acreage was put in but because of the unfavorable planting season, poor stands are the rule rather than the exception. Then came the long drought, followed by a protracted rainy season which has cut the crop considerably. The fruit is scarce and the bolls are small this year. Most optimistic farmers outlook are 35,000 bales but we can't see that amount by two thousand. At any rate the crop in the belt is cut and if the south makes only twelve and a half million bales, the price should certainly not sag below the 25 cent level. This leads up to insist that farmers carefully house their cotton if they hold it from the market. Thousands of dollars are lost each year by damage to cotton. A bale is too valuable to be allowed to stand in the weather. A bonded warehouse receipt is the finest collateral a bank wants and liberal allowances are made, enabling the holder to systematically market his cotton to the best advantage.

"Goin' to School Today." (By Pat McBrayer.)

I've got a new cap and brand new shoes, A satchel for books I never can lose, Some pencils, a ruler and a tablet too And a pretty new book to read all through:

I'm just as happy as a boy can be 'Cause last week I was two times three And I'm going to school today.

But I wonder why mother aint as glad She seems choked-up and kinder sad; Last night when dad brought all my things

Saying "all set, kid, when the old bell rings," Mother got up and went outside And I believe to my soul mother cried, Cause I was going to school today.

It's strange to me why mother is sad And daddy seems tickled and mighty glad: I'll bet I know the reason it's true, Y'know dad's away the whole day through

And mother has need for her "little man" To kill old bogies and help her plan— Wish I wasn't going to school today.

Brydges-Morrison Wedding.

A wedding of much interest to a wide circle of friends (was) that of Miss Ruth Brydges to Mr. Clarence Morrison on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. Bun Brydges on N. Morgan street extension. The ceremony was a quiet home affair, conducted by the bride's pastor, Rev. Dr. R. L. Lemons in the presence of only a few intimate friends. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Washington and other points north. Upon their return they will make their home in Shelby. The bride is a very popular and accomplished young lady who has been in training as a nurse at the Shelby while the groom is an enterprising young man associated with his father, Mr. C. A. Morrison as contractor.

APPLICATION FOR PARDON OF A. W. OWENSBY.

Application will be made to the Governor of North Carolina for the pardon of A. W. Owensby convicted before the recorder last July of fornication and adultery and sentenced for a period of 12 months. All persons who oppose the granting of said pardon are invited to forward their protests to the Governor without delay.

This 25th day of September, 1924.

Soy Beans and Corn Are Most Excellent for Sow

Excellent results may be obtained from sows with their litters on a combination of soy beans and corn. However, when no corn is planted with the soy beans, the sows may be turned on them, but a supplement of corn or other similar feed should be provided to balance the ration. When this supplement is provided there will be no bad results from the sow's milk upon the young pigs and it will make no difference what age the pigs have attained when the sows are turned on the beans. If the hogs are turned on the beans before they are forming the pods, they should be taken off during the time that the beans are being formed, because they will not produce many beans if the hogs are left on during this period. Most feeders allow the beans to start to ripen before they turn the hogs in, because the greatest feed value is obtained in this way.

Farm Hints

A building worth building is worth planning.

When selling milk, don't sell fertilizer; keep that on the farm.

A roadside sign will help you sell your surplus green vegetables.

A peach tree affected with yellows should be destroyed before other trees become infected.

Crossing dairy breeds is like mixing good ink with good water; the value of each is lost.

Quality production, as well as quantity production, is worthy of more of the grower's attention.

Don't forget that the care with which the crop is produced often has much to do with the results obtained when marketing time comes.

Don't forget to think twice before you sign on the dotted line when some unknown promoter wants your money for something you know nothing about.

All weeds are a nuisance and ought to be cut before they have gone to seed. Our ponds would look better, and fence corners, too, if everyone "swatted" the weed.

When sudan grass is seeded at the rate of 20 pounds per acre for hay it is not necessary to clip it to make it stool out. It will be thick enough and will make more hay if unclipped.
