Lawrence Says Do Not Gin Any Wet Cotton

County Agent R. E. Lawrence advises the farmers of Cleveland county to give particular attention to the ginning of their cotton, more especially the condition of the cotton at the time it is ginned. Mr. Lawrence says that many farmers blame the method of ginning for the low sale grade of their cotton when it is the farmers own negligence. Cotton ginned while damp or green, he says, is always inferior, and he urges every farmer to dry his cotton before taking it to the gin to prevent this, as such cotton will naturally gin bad. In instances where the cotton is damp, wet or green he advises that it be spread out on sheets to dry or be stored away until dry. Farmers who do not follow this advice should not complain about the ginning, the county agent thinks. One big South Carolina planter year after year always dries out the first cotton picked before its is ginned regardless of the condition of the cotton.

Prohibition And Churches Discussed

(By James C. Elliott)

"Evil be to him who evil thinks."

"As a man thinketh so is he: In the progress of the ages, the idea and thoughts of people change as the truth has been revealed to them."

"Truth alone can make a people free."

Mankind learns slowly by observation and experience. Since Noah made wine and got drunk the most progressive people have made and used intoxicant beverages. The old Testament forbid the use of strong drink by priests, Princes and Kings. The prophets warned the people against strong drink. "Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad!"

The more we hate the worse we lie—the more we love, the better we lie. "Love is the fulfillment of the law of life. Temperance and moderation is the happiest state under all conditions in life. In this country, we have progressed from the pioneer stage to the highest standard of enlightenment, through mixed races of English, Irish, Scotch, German, French and others, representing all the Christian sects. With religious freedom of conscience and political equality, freed negroes in the South and sium foreigners in the North have precipitated the need of restraint in prohibition. The Mohammedans in the 7th century declared for prohibition. But the use of strong drink have followed the Christian church down to the present day. Catholics and Protestants have used it more or less. John Wesley in his effort to reform the Episcopal High church of England, preached temperance and holiness, and the Methodism he founded have preached it ever since, while most religious sects have lagged behind but now all stand abreast together in favor of prohibition. When the Baptists turned to the missionary cause they began to preach temperance and free Grace. Old Zion Hill, one mile south of Sandy Plains was broken up—the "wets" withdrawing and founding Sandy Plains about 1850. Big Springs about the same time voted prohibition and her "wets" went to Sandy Plains. Sandy Plains remained wet until State laws stopped them from making brandy. Drury Dobbins who died in 1846 never left the primitive church but he was a leader in the temperance cause the last years of his life. He lived the Christian faith, loved by all that knew him. Uncle Tommie Dixon joined the sons of temperance early but he said his churches would not allow him to preach it for a good while. The Baptists never started up Sunday Schools until about 1880, while Jews, Catholics, Lutherans, Presbyterians and Episcopalians have always taught their children the Sunday school lessons every day. I heard a Baptist say not long ago, that the "Lord would take care of the children until he got ready to call them in His service. By a broad spirit of tolerance, all the sectarians can learn to appreciate the best they see in each other. Only ignorant bigotry hinders a common brotherhood of mankind, where none are preferred above others.

—J. C. ELLIOTT.

Getting The Comforts Of Life.

Happiness reigns and a spirit of contentment prevails in the white, vine-covered cottage around the corner. It is owned by one of the regular fellows whom we all know. In front, half-hidden among the trees, awaits an auto ready to take the family out for an afternoon's pleasure. All his and all paid for.

Surely an inspiration to all that behold. It represents, as do most of the worth-while things of life, a background of hard work, study and thrift.

The comforts of life are within the reach of all. Happiness and contentment can, if you so will, belong to you.

Are you comfortable and happy in your surroundings or disgruntled with your lot in life?

Hard work and systematic savings are the graces that open comfort's door. Regularly setting aside a portion of the income, keeps it open.

We have studied these problems—these problems of life's comforts. Will you let us impart the results of our conclusions to you?
