Says Tull Morgan
Dies In Virginia

George A. Gold Writes from Virginia, Saying he Has Cotton Stalk With 300 Bolls.
To Editor of The Star.
Crewe, Va., Oct. 9.—Just a few lines from Virginia or the Old Dominion.
I am living in Nottoway county, Virginia now, near Crewe on the Norfolk and Western railroad. The railroad shops are here and this is a nice little town of nearly four thousand population.
It is a town of fine churches and schools and a good deal Baptist. There are some good farms and a pretty country round about. The people are fast beginning to raise cotton and this year would have been a banner year for the staple but for the hard season. It was about the worst I ever saw, but still we have some good cotton, although it is late.
I have a real good crop and the best fruited crop I ever saw. I have one stalk with three hundred bolls on it, something I never saw before.
I am sorry to hear of the deaths of so many of my old friends down there: John Cline, Bailey Eskridge and Amos Cornwell and our long-time friend T. W. Morgan, died here August 3rd. I know you all remember him. He married Miss Laura Harrelson of Double Shoals back in the '80s. His wife survives with 12 children.
Let The Star keep coming. This is a letter from
GEO. A. GOLD.

Has A Cupboard That Is 200 Years Old

The following from the Coweta Times, Coweta, Okla., will be of interest to friends and relatives in Cleveland, Mr. P. Lorenzo Newton being a native of Cleveland who is now practicing law in Oklahoma:
"An old fashioned corner cupboard, of solid mahogany, and over 200 years old, is being revarnished and fixed up by Earl Wright, the furniture man, and when the work is completed, it will be installed in the home of P. L. Newton.
"The cupboard was brought to America to North Carolina over 200 years ago by the great, great grandmother of Mr. Newton and has been in the family continuously since then. Mr. Newton's mother recently passed away and he had the cupboard shipped here, and is now getting it put in shape to install in his home."

It is important that Cleveland county sows a big crop of grain this fall. O. E. Ford Co., will furnish you with a grain drill, agricultural lime and fertilizer.
