GOOD PLANS ESSENTIAL IN HOME BUILDING

Design 1991

M. L. KEITH

HERE is no problem so difficult of solution for anyone as that presented in the decision to build a home. It must be remembered that in selecting the plans for your home many influences are to be considered. Location of the property, its size, and the character of the buildings on adjacent property, are just as important questions to the home builder as the size of the house to be built, the number of people in the family the home will serve, and the material with which to build. All of these considerations are relative to the amount to be expended for the new home. It will be evident then how the judiclous selection of good building plans for the home are absolutely essential.

In the selection of the plans for the home, economy has its beginning. Interest in home building is a healthy indication for any community. Its citizens, in becoming home owners, are thereby becoming better citizens sharing their burden of responsibility in the community.

Too much attention to style should be studiously avoided. Simplicity of design and execution give character and distinction to any home. Much time should be spent in selecting the plan best suited to serve the needs of the family.

The American Home Plan Bureau makes it possible for the prospective builder to study the merits of many plans in their home plan book and select therefrom the plan desired. One could not ask for anything mere in the design of a four-room cottage than given in this most charm-ing little home. It has just enough of the artistic treatment in entrance and windows to give it "caste" without running into expense. It is a good demonstration of what an artist's touch will accomplish in the designing of small houses The roof has just the right pitch and the dormer the proper lines and proportion. The windows complete a splendid balance. The grooved siding a another touch of interest.

Just a little smooth surfaced cement is used for the porch facing with a twelve inch coping on a level with the cement porch floor. Entrance is direct to living room which surprises one as to size in so small The outside chimney is cement faced. Roof may be either cypress shingle or covered with prepared roofing.

The floor plan cut shows a most practical use of space and gives an arrangement that will take care of a family of four. Kitchen is provided with ample cupboards and Ice-box. Grade entrance to busement which extends under entire house. Furnace intended with laundry and large drying area in addition to laundry. We call this a perfect little home.

The plans of the home pictured on this page can be obtained at a very nominal price by writing to the American Home Plan Bureau, an organization having at its disposal tested plans of leading architects of the country, which have been arranged for your re quirements by M. L. Keith, Architectural Supervisor of the Bureau and a recognized authority on home

Mr. M. L. Keith will answer questions and give ad vice free of cost on all subjects pertaining to plan ning, building and construction of homes for the read ers of this paper. By reason of his forty years' experience as an Editor, Designer and Builder, Mr. Keith is ranked as the highest authority on home planning

All inquiries should be addressed to American Home Plan Bureau, 220 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.
