OPINIONS OF OTHERS

"Honest John" Wins.
Regardless of political views, the come-back of "Honest John Burke" former treasurer of the United States elected to the supreme bench of North Dakota, will be pleasing to those who admire integrity and courage.

After a long and honorable public service, Mr. Burke at the age of 63 found himself "broke," having turned over his entire fortune to pay the creditors of a bankrupt brokerage firm in which he was a partner.

He might have taken advantage of the law and have saved enough out of the wreck for a new start, but he chose to give up everything, so that his creditors might not be losers.

North Dakota voters recognized that a man of such a high sense of honor, coupled with fine legal attainments, was eminently fitted for a supreme court judgeship. Although a Democrat, he was elected in spite of the Republican landslide.

Those who are inclined to lose heart when confronted by misfortune may take courage and inspiration from the story of "Honest John" Burke.—Gastonia Gazette.

Judge Connor:
(From Statesville Landmark.)
"His life was gentle."

He was a gentleman unafraid. But that word "gentleman" is so much abused, those most ready to claim it, even with force and arms, often utterly destitute of all the word implies, that one prefers to think of Judge Henry G. Connor as a gentleman—two words, with the emphasis on gentle. He wore worthily the fine old name of gentleman, but he will be remembered as a kind man, a friendly man, noted for his democratic simplicity, his modest and retiring disposition, and above all for his gentleness. Looking upon his countenance in which was reflected the light of rath, of human sympathy, one instinctively thought of him as without guile, as one who might be blessed as the pure in heart who shall see God. And yet Judge Connor would have been the last man to lay claim to near perfection. He was dignified, but it was that gentle dignity far removed from the arrogance of place and power. He was not condescending, he treated all with consideration moved from subservience, from obsequiousness. Deferential to the last degree, with that courtesy that was innate and so much a part of his simplicity, he favored no body, and in matters of principle he was adamant.

Cabbage Heads.
(From Lee County Messenger.)

If you happen to be inquisitive you may want to figure out how many cabbage heads there are in the 30,000 car loads shipped to market this year. Anyway, you may be interested to know that cabbage has become one of our three most important vegetable. Potatoes are first, and tomatoes are second. Nearly half the cabbage crop comes from the South, and the earliest in the market always commands the best price. Kraut is made from the big-headed northern type, and has ceased to be a strictly German dish; everybody eats kraut now, and physicians say it is full of health-giving vitamins. They argue the cabbage eater is nearly always a healthy person and that cabbage adds to vigor. So we guess we'll have to commence rating this vegetable as among the very best brands of "fodder" the human race can cultivate.

Slow, But Steady.
(From Gastonia Gazette.)

An interesting symposium of reports from the cotton mill centers of North Carolina in Sunday's Charlotte News revealed the fact that the industry is gradually recovering the ground lost last summer, and that better times are promised for the future.

Without exception, the mills have practically resumed full time operation and the outlook for future business is better.

While, of course, the increase will not be felt at once in dividends and increased wages, it is felt that by the early part of 1925 there will be a revival of some of the usual business.

It is especially gratifying that there are to be no more curtailments in this vicinity, with winter coming on. Textile wages as best are nothing to brag about and when they are cut, it's a hard lick to the head of a family of four or five growing children. It was the opinion of a leading textile executive of the county expressed in no uncertain terms a few days ago that "he did not see how some of the folks managed to get along on the wages they were making." On the other hand, he said, the mills were making no profit scarcely on their output and to use a familiar expression, they were "between the devil and the deep blue sea."

However, these conditions are gradually coming around to normalcy, and within the next two or three months a general improvement in every line of textiles is expected.

Wild Game Plentiful In County of York

Sam Wylie, noted negro hunter of York, S. C., has caught 51 'possums already this season and considers himself just getting in practice, planning to bag many more before the game law throws its protecting arm around these shy denizens of the forest. Not only is Sam a widely known 'possum hunter, he enjoys an equal reputation as a hunter of partridges, rabbits and every other kind of game found in the field and woods. He would rather hunt than eat chicken pie and when not following his occupation as a painter, in which line of work he is rated as an expert, he is usually out in the country with gun and dog.

Sam is authority for the statement that in York county 'possums, partridges and rabbits are more plentiful this season than usual. This he attributes to the dry summer, which was favorable to the young of all the different kinds of game. A wet summer causes the loss of many young birds and is decidedly unfavorable to the young 'possums and rabbits.

OVER FOUR MILLIONS ADVANCED ON COTTON

More than four million dollars have been advanced to members of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association, since the beginning of the present season, according to a statement issued by T. W. Chambliss, Director of Information last night. The exact figures up to the close of business November 15 were $4,288,161.29.

The present crop is considerably later than it was in the fall of 1923 but the percentage of deliveries to date is larger and despite the shortness of the crop, Cotton is coming to association warehouses rapidly and the deliveries last week were far beyond the receipts of the same week last year. This week started off with very heavy receipts, Monday bringing reports of over 3000 bales delivered.

BAPTISTS BREAKS GROUND FOR $2,000,000 HOSPITAL

Ground for the initial unit of the $2,000,000 Baptist hospital that will be erected at New Orleans under the auspices of the Southern Baptist convention was broken there last week. Dr. B. D. Gray, secretary of the home mission board of the convention, stated the institution in addition to being a regular hospital would have a large research department which would specialize in tropical diseases, and would place its findings at the disposal of all other hospitals.
