Young Man Faces Highway Robbery

Gaffney Ledger.
William Huffstetler, young white man, was bound over to court Friday on charges of larceny of an automobile and highway robbery. Carl Blackwell, alleged partner of Huffstetler, was held on the larceny charge but the robbery charge against him was dismissed by Captain J. B. Bell, magistrate, who conducted a preliminary examination. Both youths were remanded to the county jail.

The highway robbery charge was preferred by George Gasky, who alleged that Huffstetler struck him in the face with an iron bar, rendering him unconscious, and then robbed him of $27.32 the night of February 15 near the Globe Mills.
Huffstetler, according to officers, charge, which was preferred by Glen Sapoch, of Blacksburg, in connection with the theft of his Ford car last Sunday night while he was attending church services in Blacksburg. Huffstetler and Blackwell were arrested near Kings Mountain, by Chief Allen, of that place, who placed them in jail at Shelby, N. C. After extradition had been waived, local officers brought the two youths back to Gaffney.

Blackwell was released from the Cherokee county chaingang about three weeks ago after completing a sentence of several months for participating in the robbery of the Limestone mills store a year or more ago, according to officers.
Huffstetler, it was said, recently finished serving a sentence on a North Carolina chaingang, according to information here.

Blanton & Greene's

Last Friday we made some more good people happy by selling Mr. J. A. Bridges' valuable farm to Mr. E. B. Lovelace of Mooresboro, N. C. Some time back we sold Mr. Lovelace's farm to Mr. Gus Daves, satisfied customers, sell a man out and then sell him in (see.)

Here is a dandy 62 acre farm that lies between Mooresboro and Ellenboro that we are going to offer to a good farmer that wants to keep a renter or a son who is married or a son-in-law.

It has two good dwellings, out-buildings, two good pastures and plenty of timber, also a fine orchard and one of the best springs in the country close to both dwellings.

It is just one block from where the hard surface highway will be built this year and is close to market, school, church, town and one of the best gin systems in the state.

We are going to offer this farm for ninety dollars per acre on good terms and it will pay any one that wants a good farm of this kind to look it over at once.

We are also going to offer a 50 acre farm at Trinity Baptist church and school that has forty acres in cultivation that is sure fine and has 10 acres of fine timber, so you see there is no waste on this farm.

The dwelling is a new five room bungalow and the out-buildings are in fine shape, the orchard and pasture can't be beat in this part of the country.

One man made 18 1-2 bales of cotton on this farm last year and plenty of corn to do him, so you can judge from that the shape it is in, owing to his health to a quick buyer he will give possession of his farm this year and we are going to sell it for one hundred dollars per acre on part payment, so if you want to get a bargain like this you had better get busy.

These farms are backed up by larger ones all over Cleveland and Rutherford counties, so you see we think nothing, talk nothing, study nothing but Real Estate and the service we give our customers.

Anthony & Anthony
Shelby, N. C.

At the preliminary hearing yesterday Gasky partly identified Huffstetler as the man who, he said struck him in the face with an iron bar about 8 o'clock the night of February 15. Gasky said that after regaining consciousness he pursued the alleged robbers on foot in the direction of Blacksburg as far as Cherokee creek. Finding himself unable to overtake his quarry, he returned to Gaffney and about midnight notified local officers of the robbery.

She Didn't Roll 'Em.

Debonair Johnny Flynn had just been presented to demure Mary Ann. After a few minutes' conversation they found themselves to be of a most congenial nature, so Johnny suggested that they stroll out and view the moon from the veranda.

The soft radiance of the night thrilled them in fact, thrilled them deeply, so they sank with one accord to a modestly chummy position on the steps.

Sweet and low Johnny told of his business and his ideals. Demure Mary Anne, drinking all in, demure closer toward him. But just as her eyes came to a sweet level with Johnny's something snapped.

"What was that?" Johnny inquired, startled.
Mary Anne blushed.

"What was that?" demanded Johnny.
"W-w-well, if you m-must know," Mary Anne stammered, m-m-m-my g-g-garter broke!"
"Henry," pleaded Johnny fervently, sinking to his knees, "will you marry me? I've been looking for an old-fashioned girl like you."

Save On Fertilizer By Cleveland Plan

Some years ago members of the Farmers Union in a dozen or more counties of North Carolina decided that the prevailing prices of fertilizers were too high. Therefore, instead of using ready-mixed fertilizers they bought acid phosphate, nitrate of soda, tankage and potash and mixed the ingredients at home thereby saving $5.00 a ton. Before the season was over the price of ready-mixed fertilizers dropped $4.00 a ton. County Agent Lawrence, of Cleveland county, says farmers can now save $6 a ton by mixing fertilizers on their own farms and hundreds of Cleveland farmers will probably add the $6 a ton to their bank accounts by doing a few hours' work with shovels and hoes or with small mixing machines that are now available for the use of farmers. There is another saving that comes through home mixing. Probably a very large per cent of ready-mixed fertilizers does not come up to analysis as branded on the sacks. Under the law there is no penalty to be imposed upon a fertilizer company for under-analysis. If a consumer goes to the trouble of having his fertilizer purchases analyzed and it is shown that it does not come up to analysis the company can be forced to make good the difference, but there is no penalty. Not one farmer out of a thousand has analysis made of his fertilizers. In many instances the losses that are avoided through under-grades by mixing at home will amount to a considerable item. If 3,000 Mecklenburg farmers can save $60,000 by mixing their fertilizers at home and $40,000 by use of formula that comes up to specific analysis the two items are worth looking after.

Representative Falls Scores Victory

News and Observer.
The right of every voter to cast one ballot, free from observation, persuasion or intimidation ought to be guaranteed by the laws of the commonwealth. There is now no such guarantee. On the contrary, it sometimes happens that voters are embarrassed by being hauled this way and that, and the right to privacy in the sacred duty is denied.

There is every argument for the secret ballot, a booth where all voters may repair and without direction or persuasion vote their convictions. Nearly all the states have such laws. They are called "the Australian" because the first experiment was tried in that country. The principle is in operation in most of the American states. Has not the time come for North Carolina to take this forward step and be in line with other progressive commonwealths?

In the house the Falls bill for such an act scored a parliamentary victory. It came from the committee with a minority report and some of its opponents thought that was its death warrant. Perhaps the most important parliamentary victory of the session was won by Mr. Falls when the minority report received 61 votes with 49 against it. The bill now comes up for consideration on its merits. The merits are so clear that it ought to be passed by a large majority. The fears of those members in the past are not well founded. Instead of deterring voters it will encourage more people to vote. And the more people who come to the polls in North Carolina the greater the victory for the Democratic party.

The Australian ballot has been tried out in a number of counties with satisfactory results. Those "old timers" who hesitate to take this plunge have evidently lost sight of how well the law works. It must come everywhere eventually. Why not now?

EX-SENATOR DEAD IN OBSCURE HOUSE

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—James Edgar Martine, former United States senator of New Jersey, died here late Thursday night in an obscure boarding house. Knowledge of his death was not gained until 7 o'clock tonight.

He came to Miami, January 3, but few knew of his presence, for he lived quietly and was apparently careful not to let anyone know who he was or what he was doing in Miami.
When found in his room, former Senator Martine was in a sitting position with his clothing partly removed. His collar and shoes were loosened, indicating that he had been resting when the end came.

Cherryville News.

Cherryville Eagle.
Mr. W. P. Dellinger, who lives about a mile west of Cherryville on the Shelby road, suffered a stroke of paralysis Thursday morning. He fell to the ground while in the yard. He is in a serious condition.

Federal Prohibition Agent E. L. Houser, Deputy Ella Hoyle and George Hallman with his big Buick car run down R. T. Bratcher of Cleveland county in a four or five hundred yard race last Thursday morning about 18 miles above Cherryville, capturing him, his Ford car and 10 gallons of whiskey.

Some Carrots.

American (to Englishman)—"At home we grow parsnips so big that we have to pull them up with a steam crane!"
Englishman—"That's nothing. We once grew some carrots so high that we couldn't see the tops, and one day they died."
American—"Overgrown their strength, I suppose?"
Englishman—"Oh, no. We had a wireless message from Australia to say that the rabbits were nibbling the roots."

Couldn't Attend His Own Marriage.

Dobson approached his employer and intimated gently that he would like to take Wednesday off.
The employer turned a fierce glance upon him and growled sternly—"Look here, you know perfectly well that we're frightfully busy and I can't spare a man. Why on earth do you want next Wednesday off?"
"Well, you see, sir," exclaimed the young man, hesitatingly, "I'm going to be married on Wednesday, and I-I should like to be there!"

It sometimes seems as if we worried altogether too much about the welfare of posterity, nearly all of whom probably will have good jobs as Federal inspectors or something or other.—Ohio State Journal.

Baby Boy Arrives At The Biltmore House

Asheville, Feb. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. John F. A. Cecil are parents of a son, born at Biltmore house here at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Physicians' reports state that mother and child are doing well. Mrs. Cecil before her marriage last April, was Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt, only child of the late, George W. Vanderbilt. Her mother, Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, is with her daughter. Mr. Cecil was first secretary to the British embassy at Washington and resigned his post following his marriage. The child weighed 8 1-2 pounds and is reported to be normal.

The name given the child is George Henry Vanderbilt Cecil. The first name is from Mrs. Cecil's father, the late George Vanderbilt. Henry was selected for the second name because of Mr. Cecil's brother, Henry Cecil, and also in compliment to Henry Anderson, of New York, counsellor of the Vanderbilt estate. Mr. Anderson was at Biltmore house for the event.

The high announcement was the signal for a demonstration on the Biltmore estate in keeping with English feudal custom. Children on the estate gathered before Biltmore house, gave lusty cheers and presented a large toy stock and a large toy dog.

Wide-spread interest exists over the event, since Mrs. Cecil is the only child on the George Vanderbilt side of the famous Vanderbilt family.

The wedding of the Cecils here last April was an event of international importance, following a colorful romance at Washington. Mr. Cecil, scion of an English noble family has dedicated himself to the management of his wife's estate. The wedding, at All Souls church, was attended by members of the diplomatic corps and others representing a score or more of foreign nations. The couple took a honeymoon trip to England and the continent and since have been residing at their estate here.

Mrs. Cecil came into an inheritance of Biltmore house and valuable property when she was 21, and when she attains her 25th birthday next August will receive the balance of an estate estimated to be worth about $15,000,000. She is the only heir of her mother who also has an estate worth six or seven millions, it is reported.
