CUPID AND GOLD

The rattle of gold is more luring to the Columbia senior than the wiles of cupid. At least, eighty-nine of the class of 1925 voted in the affirmative on the question, "Would you marry for money?" while sixty-nine affirmed faith in the ancient custom of marrying for love.

The results of the questionnaire appear in the Columbia Spectator, New York, Monday.

Half of the senior class admitted a taste for drink, and about two-thirds said they smoked. On the question of smoking on the part of girls, ninety gave their approval and seventy frowned on the custom. Prohibition, according to the class is a failure in this country, ninety-four students voting it was not a good thing, while sixty-six believed it was beneficial.

In response to the question, "Do you ever read a metropolitan newspaper?" 105 said "yes" and fifty-two said "no."

When Gain Is Loss

"The thief steals from himself: the swindler swindles himself."
—Emerson.

The great Italian patriot, Giuseppe Garibaldi, who secured the unity of Italy, said to his men: "I do not promise you ease; I do not promise you comfort. I promise you hardship, weariness, suffering; but I promise you victory."

There are many victories that are failures—many gains that are losses.

A boy or girl may neglect school; gain pleasures galore—and lose the real purposes of life—the real purpose being to secure every bit of education and information that is possible, that this, in turn, may be returned to fellow-beings, an hundred fold.

Sometimes gain is loss.

The young man who spends all that he earns has gained a few fleeting pleasures—and lost!

To the young man who is willing to consider the wisdom of a savings account where interest is compounded each three months, at four per cent, we again quote Garibaldi:

"I do not promise you ease; I do not promise you comfort. * * * But I promise you VICTORY."

Somebody Saved---

It may have been a hundred dollars, it may have been a thousand or a hundred thousand dollars—but somebody saved.

Somebody invested his savings in bonds or stocks, and provided money for the development of this City of Shelby; this state of North Carolina, and this great United States of America. Somebody saved.

Somebody was not without his profits. Somebody still had his money so invested in the form of securities, and drew dividends therefrom.

Progress will continue; greater buildings will supplant those now standing; new marvels will appear with the passing years—but it will be only because somebody saved.

The man who would get ahead today must put forth the best that is in him; save something of his earnings, and invest his savings wisely. Though the steps seem slow, they lead surely to the goal.

We can serve the man who is resolved to get ahead, to his entire satisfaction. Our Savings Department offers four per cent interest, compounded each three months; and the advice of our officers concerning investments is free for the asking.

"The heights are not reached at a single bound
But we build the ladder by which we rise.
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to the summit, round by round—Holland
