It is Better. I is better to be lied about than to be the liar— To be slandered than to be the slanderer. To be cheated than to cheat— To be imposed upon than to be the bully— To lose your money than to be a thief— To be the victim than the sinner. To be defeated than to stoop to defeat.

Miss Gladys Henderson Celebrates Birthday. Miss Gladys Henderson was a delightful young hostess on Saturday evening at the Cleveland Springs hotel, where she is making her home, when she entertained a number of her school friends with a lovely party and dance. After the assembling of these young girls and boys, progressive conversation was first played then dancing. At ten o'clock Mrs. Henderson served a delicious ice and sweet course. It was Miss Henderson's birthday and she received many lovely gifts.

Enjoys Meeting. The hospitable home of Mrs. Grady Lovelace was the setting in all its spring loveliness with beautiful fresh flowers for the members of the Ishpeming club on Friday afternoon. The rooms were lovely, flowers blooming everywhere, and the fragrance was enjoyed by all who came. The program was most appropriate for the season the first paper being on "Making of a Lawn That Will Last" by Miss Elizabeth McBrayer, this was followed by "Shrubs" by Mrs. D. W. Royster, dealing most intelligently with this subject. Miss Mary Moore concluded the program by telling in a charming manner about "Garden Ornaments and Furniture." When the papers were laid aside a delightful social hour was enjoyed and Mrs. Lovelace served the most beautiful and delicious refreshments to these members and a few invited guests.

Mrs. Will Roberts Entertains 20th Century Club. The 20th Century club attended a "sure enough" (?) circus given by Mrs. Will Roberts at Cleveland Springs hotel on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Heywood Hull told all about the animals that they were to see and Mrs. George Hoyle was the most wonderful dress agent. The members could hardly wait for the date and Mrs. Clyde Hoey, the ring mistress to come. When Mrs. Hoey did make her appearance in the ring, the circus began and when the members were led out into the arena to see the animals in sure enough cages it was found that Mrs. Reuben McBrayer and Mrs. O. M. Gardner were more familiar with the animals and guessed the most names, receiving beautiful red balloons as prizes. When the circus was over the vendors called their wares and the members were given the most delicious things to eat by Mrs. Roberts the manager.

Miss Daisy Smith Marries Mr. Burwell Edgar Blanton. A quiet but impressive marriage was solemnized on Tuesday at high noon when Miss Daisy Smith became the bride of Mr. Burwell Edgar Blanton. Dr. Ashley Chappell officiated, using the Methodist ring ceremony the ceremony taking place at Miss Smith's home at 23 Evelyn Place, Grove Park. Only the immediate families were present to witness the taking of the vows which was very simple, the bride and groom entering together. Mrs. Phil Johnson of Mocksville, close friend of the bride, played the wedding music. Mrs. James Y. Stikeleather sang several selections, and the wedding march from Lohengrin heralded the approach of the bridal party. McDowell's "To A Wild Rose" was softly rendered by Mrs. Johnson during the nuptial service. Attending the couple were Mrs. David Simmons, sister of the bride, who acted as matron of honor and wore a jade georgette gown, trimmed in lace with a bouquet of sweet peas, and Miss Wilfred Smith niece of the bride and Miss Elizabeth Blanton daughter of the bridegroom. Miss Smith wore a gown of pink taffet and Miss Blanton was gowned in pink Georgette. Both carried sweet peas and were lovely in their girlishness. The bride wore a cream georgette with real lace trimmings and hat of old blue, most becoming the trimmings of lace and roses. Her bouquet was of opella roses. A wedding breakfast was served to the small company of relatives and immediateteresting and varied and Mesdames Charles Young, J. P. Austell, L. M. Hull for Mrs. R. E. Campbell gave charming papers on Thomas Nelson Page, G. W. Cable and Ruth McEmery Stuart. Parliamentary usage was discussed after the program. When the program was concluded Mrs. Moore served delicious and elegant refreshments.

Dr. Reuben McBrayer Attends Dinner. At the pre-convocation dinner of the American college of physicians Thursday when degrees were conferred on the newly admitted to the college, Dr. Reuben McBrayer was among those admitted at this time.

Picture in Atlanta Journal. Miss Louise Bailey a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Suttle and a beautiful young girl, was honored by the Atlanta Journal by having her picture on the first page of the social section of the Atlanta Journal and the following lines were written about her: "Miss Louise Bailey lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Bailey who attends high school." Miss Bailey who visits here every summer has many relatives who will be interested in this notice.

Miss Henkel To Marry. Local people will be interested in the following announcement: "Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Vance Henkel of Statesville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Lila Dunavant, to Mr. Robert Redd Spilman of Knoxville, Tenn." Miss Henkel is the niece of Mrs. S. E. Hoey and is known to the younger set here, being a favorite in many sections of the state. A photograph along with the announcement was given a prominent display on the social page of the Sunday Observer.

St. Patrick Parties Feature of Week. The hostesses of last and this week have had no trouble in deciding upon the decorations of the lovely parties being given. Everything is Shamrocks and Irish harps and plenty of green, for as every one knows, March 17th is the birthday of good old St. Patrick, that charitable and amiable gentleman of Ireland who lived as long ago as the 5th century and whose memory is honored not this day, to only in his native Ireland but the whole world over, and so on March 17th we all are "Wearing of the Green" as a tribute to the patron saint of Ireland who sent his life doing good.

An Unusual Coincidence (From News and Observer. A queer story comes out of Paris involving a death curse placed on the late Lord Northcliffe, Maurice Long, late Governor of Indo-China, and Andre Tunesqu, prominent journalist, by a Buddhist priest when they entered a forbidden temple. Tunesqu, last of the trio, died the other day and on his death bed declared, according to a cable to the New York World, "I am marked. There are holy places which one dares not violate. When Lord Northcliffe, Long and I entered the temple despite the efforts of a priest to prevent us, he cursed up and predicted all three would be dead within five years. Long has been murdered, Northcliffe died. Now it is my turn. It is the fourth year." An unusual coincidence, shall we say?

Abernethy Claims He Killed To Save Self

Tells in Burke Superior Court Why He Shot Bert Sides at Connelly Springs. Case Nearing Close.

Morganton, Mar. 13.—Charles Abernethy, on trial in Burke county Superior court, charged with the murder of Bert Sides at Connelly Springs December 31, 1924, was the principal witness in his own defense Friday and told a story that the state in the cross-examination was unable to shake very much. At the beginning of the trial, Solicitor Huffman stated that the state would not ask for a verdict of either second degree or manslaughter.

Taking the stand in his own behalf, Abernethy gave his version of the affair. His testimony was as follows:

He and Sides had been good friends for a number of years. The evening of the killing he was at his home for a time attending to household duties in preparation for meeting his wife, who was away from home and coming in on the westbound train due at 6:30. A neighbor, Mrs. E. Q. McLean, came in her car to take him to the station. As he left the house to go with her, Sides drove up also, said he wanted to talk to him, seemed angry and resented his excusing himself because the train was blowing. Sides followed them to the station, where the east-bound and westbound trains were passing. A telegram informed the defendant his wife had been left in Newton and he decided to go on the eastbound train to meet her. Going to Mrs. McLean's car to tell her of his plans, he picked up her pistol from the bottom of the car, thinking he claimed, to have it as protection when he returned on a late train.

As he was getting on the train Sides accosted him, saying with an oath, "You've got to tell those folks you have told a lie and swallow it." When Abernethy said he could not do as was demanded, Sides threatened him and almost immediately caught him by the shoulder, hit him several times and was backing him against the train. The defendant testified that in a bent position he fired under his left arm and Sides fell back.

Give Out Contract For Lake Lure Dam

Charlotte—Contract for building the dam at Lake Lure by the Chimney Rock Development Company has been awarded to the E. H. Clements Company in association with Dunavant and Gunter, also local contractors, it was announced Friday.

At the recent opening of bids for the construction, J. A. Gardner, local contractor, was awarded the work but Mr. Gardner later asked the owners of the development to release him from the job which it was agreed upon, the contract then being switched to the other two firms.

Both construction firms that will be co-operative in undertaking the new work are well-known here and in this section of the Carolinas. They have not permanently associated themselves, it is announced, but only for the speedy completion of the Lake Lure contract. The Chimney Rock Development Company is converting a large area of the Chimney Rock environs into a man-made lake with a hydro-electric plant, power from which is to be sold to the Spartanburg Company.

Mess and Mees, Charlotte engineers have charge of the designing of the piers for the construction of the dam and electric plant, and the total expenditure expected to be assumed is around $650,000.
