ONLY AN INCIDENT IN LIVES OF THE MEN WHO OPERATE FAST TRAINS

Labor. When the world's fastest train (the Twentieth Century Limited) was entering Syracuse one day last week the engineer leaned out of the cab window to watch the escape valve as he pushed the ejector to force more water into the boiler. He was struck on the head by a water plug and fell unconscious to the cab floor.

The fireman heard the sickening thud as the plug hit the engineer. The uncontrolled train rounded a curve and hurled the fireman almost out of the cab as he started toward the engineer's seat. In a moment he reached the throttle and put the train under control.

Edward H. Peck, of Buffalo, the engineer, was dead in a few moments after being struck. G. H. Schoolmaster, also of Buffalo, the fireman, ran the train into the Syracuse station, while the conductor, James Leonard, shoveled coal and fired the boiler.

Hundreds of passengers on the train never knew of the tragedy on the engine or how their lives had been saved by alert and efficient employes, themselves in the presence of death.

The impression seems to prevail that in regard to Ontario's 4.4 beer, the A may be conceded but there is some doubt about the 4.—Detroit News.

Is a picturization of Lawrence Sanders' popular novel—a highly entertaining treatment of the love problem, which touches every man, woman and child. It challenges the "I-DON'T-CARE" mood in which we all find ourselves at times, when it comes to choosing a life mate, and conclusively that whether we will it or not—we cannot escape the dictates of our own heart. Such is the situation with haughty, aristocratic Fernanda. She has all the gallants of Spain at her feet, but she could not cast off the Caesar-like ambition of an Irish-American plumber. It is directed by King Vidor, and the cast includes Eleanor Boardman, Pat O'Malley and Harrison Ford. EXTRA—FOX NEWS.

A NATIONAL BANK

A National Bank is required to carry the word "National" in its title.

This bank operates under a charter granted by the United States Government, and, being a National Bank, is compelled to be a member of the Federal Reserve System.

This bank is under Government supervision; it not only must make reports of its condition to the Government, but is examined at least twice a year by a corps of examiners who usually remain a week, auditing accounts, balancing the ledgers, and inspecting the loans.

As a member of the Federal Reserve System, this bank is required to maintain a reserve account with the Federal Reserve Bank, upon which this bank receives no earnings. This bank is required to make daily reports to the Federal Reserve Bank of the amount of its deposits, and these reports are verified when the examiners visit the bank. The reserve required is based upon the amount of deposits, and a member bank may not allow its reserve to become deficient. This reserve must be in the form of actual cash.

These are some of the reasons why you are justified in having chosen this bank as your banking connection.

BRANCHES AT LATTIMORE LAWDALE AND FALLSTON

Those who read our advertisements have grown accustomed to seeing the above wording as our signature.

We like to emphasize the fact that, though bearing the term or title "branch," and being apparently separate institutions, each one of them is a valued member of THE UNION TRUST family.

For your convenience, these branches have been housed as such at convenient sections of the county. For your convenience, they maintain separate records, money vaults and have their own local officers.

Yet, each day, communications pass from bank to bank; each month the records of all the Union Trust Company Banks are merged into one. Knowing this, one can fully comprehend that the patron of a branch is a customer of the institution as a whole.

President Blanton and his official family are just as pleased to have a new account at one of the branch banks, as in the head office; and they are all just as much concerned to know that satisfactory service is being received by the friends of the branch offices as they are anxious to please the patrons of the main office.

Each one of the branches has the same facilities for modern service that one finds in the head office. They all have the same financial strength, the same stockholders; in fact, it is all one bank, with the several offices maintained that the transaction of your banking business may be facilitated.
