Orchestra At Springs Broadcasts On Radio

The Alabama Melody Kings from Birmingham, Ala., are delighting the throngs which come and go to the springs. The eyes of the young artists range from 17 to 21. For three years the boys have played together, previously playing in well known orchestras. They have toured nine states, adding fame to their laurels in each.

The orchestra is composed of Alabama talent, having its own quartet and individual singing for different occasions. It is making a great hit at Cleveland Springs, and is one of the many attractions to the far-famed resort. The members of the orchestra are as follows: Steward Revis, drummer, doubles on piano, trumpet and tuba. Lovie Thornhill, trumpet, doubles on drums, Victor Garber, saxophonist, doubles on clarinet and baritone saxophone. Richard Rust, saxophonist, doubles on soprano and bass saxophone. Eddie Goodman, doubles on alto saxophone. Chris. McCreary, piano.

BACK GIVEN OUT?

Then Follow the Advice of This Shelby Resident.

Are you dragging along day after day with a dull nagging backache? Do you feel tired, lame and aching; suffer sharp, torturing pains at every sudden move? Then look to your kidneys! Colds, strains and overwork weaken the kidneys and bring on throbbing backache and knife-like twinges. Don't risk serious kidney disease! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Read what this Shelby resident says: C. W. McMurray, 517 S. LaFayette St., says: "I had backaches so I could hardly straighten or bend over. When I got through my day's work my back felt as if it were broken. I had headaches most of the time and my kidneys never acted regularly. I used Doan's Pills getting them at the South Shelby Pharmacy and it wasn't long before my back was strong and well. I could do a day's work without my kidneys troubling me."

The good that men do lives after them; but the bad they do usually sticks out all over them.

The child who used to carry a penny in its hand now goes around with a silver spoon in its mouth.

ARROWS FROM A QUIVER

(By J. Marvin Nichols.)

He is a fool who wastes his nerve force in one vast wave of anger. How long will the world continue to sacrifice her saviors?

Stand your ground—only the brave can do that.

It is so easy to rejoice in afflictions if the other fellow has them. It pays to keep your eyes on your clothes while you are in the swim.

Haste often trips on its own heels. In life's game be sure to play the winning card.

However lame the river flows, at last it will reach the open sea.

It would pay some of us to ponder more on the thought of Carlyle: "The greatest of faults is to be conscious of none."

He is infinitely better off who sits in a dungeon made by another than one made by his own hands.

Is it true that in this age the charms of woman are purely physical? The patronizing effort of the streets would seem to argue it.

If we could ever get the clearer vision, the one we dislike so much lowers head and shoulders above us.

If everybody thought exactly alike it would be no sign in the world that that thinking is right.

If some people would cling to the cross just like they cling to their opinions they would never lose their grip on the Lord.

It ought to inspire you—that no one but yourself can fill your destiny but yourself.

If you want a woman to admit our superior order of intelligence you just admit that she knows more than you do.

If you want the clearer vision when looking through the telescope, first put out all the lights. And in the night of sorrow don't complain—it brings out the stars.

In the reign of Justinian and Theodora the Roman law contained five thousand volumes which no fortune could buy, and no intellect could comprehend. And we are about to reproduce that age.

Lern Chifton meant much when from her heart she said: "A husband carefully and tenderly placed a flower in the pale still hand of his dead wife, when some one remarked: "That is the first flower he ever gave her." The living, not the dead, crave our kindness.

Every thing that falls in with the supreme plan is forwarded and leads on to nobler and vaster issues. Everything which stands against that plan goes into silent decay under its awful impact. This is the logic of events.

Some Cotton Affected With Growth Trouble

Tomosis is a Growth Which Shows up by Crumpling of Leaves Reduces The Yield of Cotton.

Rickets and scurvy in human beings because of improper nourishment or lack of food find a counterpart in plants, states Dr. F. A. Wolf, plant pathologist at State college, who has recently received several specimens of cotton plants affected with a growth trouble known as tomosis.

Tomosis seems to be prevalent this year in the territory extending from Stanley to Franklin county and in some fields of this section over half the plants are affected. They appear to be dwarfed and there is a crumpling and distortion of the leaves and branches much as rickets affects the human being.

Dr. Wolf states that this trouble was discovered first about 12 years ago and since that time it has been found, at times, over the entire cotton growing districts of the world. The worst injury usually occurs at the seedling stage though a few injured leaves may be found later. The bad injury affected and normal plants may occur side by side on the row and there is no evidence to show that the fertilizer will have any effect. When the injury is severe, the terminal bud is thrown off and several branches are formed in its stead so that the plant is crippled or deformed. Such plants will not recover and will produce fewer bolls than their normal neighbors.

Dr. Wolf states that the most hopeful feature of the whole matter is that the disorder is temporary and that here is generally a rapid and complete recovery under ideal weather conditions for cotton. It is not a disease, states Dr. Wolf, but a growth disorder and though it may affect the total yield of cotton in the field, each plant so affected will generally produce some seed cotton.

COWS AND POULTRY

How many Ridenhours are there in Piedmont North Carolina? We suspect that Cleveland and Gaston and Catawba could develop quite a bunch of them. The Ridenhour we are talking about lives in Rowan county, now gaining reputation by its increasing number of farmers who are making money. The Market Review, of the agricultural department, tells how four cows and a flock of Barred Plymouth Rocks "transformed the grain farm of Joe Ridenhour, of Rockwell, from poorly paying enterprise into one which keeps the level of work about the same during the year and in addition pays a handsome income to the operator.

The story is told by W. G. Yeager, county agent for the agricultural extension service of State college, who says, "Mr. Ridenhour moved to his present farm about four years ago. He began his farming operations by growing wheat, corn and other grains. He kept one cow. Two years of grain and cotton farming convinced Mr. Ridenhour that he needed something to supply him with more money. Casting about for a solution, he and his wife decided to add more cows and start a flock of pure-bred poultry. They did. I visited them last week and found that the dependent grain farm, with its seasons of overwork and underwork, has been transformed into an independent farm with the level of work more nearly uniform throughout the year and with an established weekly cash income. "Mrs. Ridenhour takes good care of the cream and they now have a good butter trade in Salisbury. They sold 996 pounds from the four cows last year for a total of about $500 in cash. The poultry brought in about half this amount and according to the increase in flocks and the better production now being secured from the cows, they expect to raise their income to over $1,000 this year."

Mr. Yeager states that this is only a small one-man farm but that it is bringing to its owner success and financial independence. The cows and the poultry pointed the way, he says.

Even if federal judges all thought alike, it would still be a funny world.

SUFFERED AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Trouble Caused by Getting Up Too Soon. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Taleville, New York. — "I thought it would interest you to know what benefit I have derived from taking your medicine. A few days after the birth of my third child I got up too quick. Then just before my fifth child was born I had inflammation of the bladder and displacement. Seeing your advertisement in a Liverpool (England) paper I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and that was the best confinement I had. Whenever I feel run-down I always take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic. We have just removed from Brockville (Canada) so I was pleased when the store ordered the medicine for me and I got it today. I would not be without it for any price and I recommend it to ladies around here because I feel so sure it will benefit any woman who takes it." — Mrs. AGNES WIGNALL, Taleville, New York.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve them from its peculiar to their sex. For sale by druggists everywhere.
