Too Much Efficiency By E.J. Rath

BEGIN HERE TODAY JOHN W. BROOKE, widower and hardware magnate, arranges with a firm of efficiency engineers to manage his home for two months while he is away He fails to inform his three grown children, Connstance, Bily and Alice. They learn of their father's arrangements, how

H. HEDGE, efficiency engitakes control of the Brooke household, occupies John W.'s suite and turns the library into an office. Hedge has cut off Billy's allowance because he re-fuses to work and reinstated Constance's since she became his secretary. Alice draws an allowance because she is still attending school.

Alice and Billy are indignant because Constance has apparently gone over to the enemy, especially in view of the fact that Hedge prevented Constance from cloping with Tommy Treadwell. Teday Hedge is accompanying Constance on a shopping expedition. They have just started. Constance has purchased everal pairs of gloves contrary to all expressed rules which Hedge insists in charging of "efficient management."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY As they left the glover's and reentered the car Constance was trying to get a grip on herself.

"Steady," she whispered to her beating heart. "This is only a little said. "What is you think I wast - er look a skirmish. It's not event an outpost I mean need. taken. Don't be too sure."

"Where next?" he demanded. Constance pursed her lips doubifully and studied the extendedd tip of her shoe.

"Shoes?" he asked. "How wonderful you are at guessing," she murmured. "Really, I need a pair of walking shoes." H. Hedge left her in the shocshop while he returned to the sidewalk and delivered a sharp lecture to Frank, the chauffeur for allowing the motor to idle and thereby consume gasoline. "It saves the starter, sir," explained Frank. "Using the starter runs out the batteries."

"Use the crank," advised the efficlency man, "It's good exercise."
Frank said that he would, but did not explain how he would most like Back in the shep, he f und Con-

"Yes," she admitted ruefully. 'It's economy not to wear a single pair of shoes continuously." he added. "That has been demonstrated."
"I—I think I have heard that." Of course," Then to the clerk:
