Boiling Springs Items Of Late Happenings

(Special to The Star.)

Mrs. Jabez Hamrick delightfully entertained the Tongues and Needles club Friday afternoon. Every enjoyable hour was spent in sewing and talking, after which Mrs. Hamrick assisted by Miss Mabel Goode and Miss Coen Wall served the most delicious sweet course.

Mr. M. H. Walker left last Wednesday night for Tallulah, La., where he has accepted a position as book-keeper and manager of a store. Mrs. Walker and children will join him in a month or two.

It seems that mumps will persist in staying with us. New cases are developing almost every day.

The Attie Bostick circle will meet with Mrs. M. H. Walker, Thursday at 3 o'clock.

Child Of Mr. And Mrs. Michael Walker Dead

(Special to The Star.)

The Death Angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Walker Tuesday night January 26th, at 11:30 o'clock and claimed for its victim their darling baby girl Regina Geneva. She was the flower of their home. Although only six months and 15 days old she was a lovely little bud and will be greatly missed in their home.

She leaves to mourn her death, a father, mother, four sisters, Ceco, Bertha Macisbelle and I one, three brothers: Cleveland, Roy and Flay and a host of relatives and friends who extend their heart-felt sympathy to the family. Interment was at Double Shoals Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. H. E. Waldrop.

Our guess is that the "truth serum" is made of a culture in the female of some species.

Thinness Is Menace To Health Of Girl

Under-Nourishment is Leading to Tuberculosis and Physical Break-downs—Wrong Idea of Weight

The champion lightweight of the world, the Modern Girl, if she wishes to hold her fashionable title, will have to put on the gloves against a formidable opponent of quite another class. For the Medical Profession is menacing her with a salutary knock-out.

"The desire of the modern girl to be extremely thin has become an obsession that is threatening her health and happiness," said Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, emeritus professor of Medicine, John Hopkins university.

"The ideal of the exaggeratedly thin figure dictated by the fashion of the moment, is sure to pass, but it may not go, I am afraid, until it has been the cause of many tragedies."

Wrecked physical health, especially insidiously developing tuberculosis and nervous breakdown are frequently the results of under-nourishment, declared Dr. Barker, outlining the dangers seen by medical men in underweight.

"The trouble with young women today is that their ideal of what is proper weight is all wrong. They have developed an obsession against being fat. They say to doctors: I would rather die than get fat. Some of them starve themselves to the point of almost literally carrying this out. Often already too thin, they diet to grow thinner. By unscientific rationing, and thus predispose themselves to food deficiency diseases. They smoke constantly, especially during meals, to take away the normal appetite they have, and by too many cigarettes increase their nervousness.

"These girls, the greater number of them between 15 and 20 years of age, not many of the same mind between 20 and 30, are trying to face a pace of life that makes far greater demands on them than it did on their mothers and grandmothers, with thin scrawny bodies that do not hold the needed reserve of strength. What is the result? Many of these young women are incurring wrecked health that not only forbids their continuing public activities, but that interferes seriously with their eventually fulfilling the responsible of marriage and motherhood."

Dr. Barker was inclined to lay the blame tentatively at the door of the modistes.

"The makers of fashion have sponsored a style that is really as unbecoming as it is unhealthy. It will pass, as have the evils of the hour-glass figure and other unreasonable and unhygienic whims of fashion. "But it is time that someone felt the responsibility for this undermining of the health of our young women. Family doctors and public health officials can do a great deal.

"Parents can at least back these. I am quite out of patience with the silly, frivolous mother, who, because of the prevailing mode will encourage her daughter to go against the advice of her doctor.

"Behind the doctors, the artists could I believe help much, if they would unite in fostering the athletic figure—to replace the emaciated, curveless form sought for today. "Girls make a great mistake when they think they are more attractive when they are scrawny. According to the standards of most men they are far more charming when they are better nourished, although I am certainly not advocating an era of fat women.

"Add to the hygienic and the aesthetic arguments against extreme thinness an economic objection: It is a hideous waste for families and for the state to permit its young women, to crowd the hospitals and sanatoria, at large cost, simply because they harbor wrong ideas about how much they should weight."

Mr. Yarboro Marries Cherryville Girl

(Special to The Star.)

One of the most beautiful and impressive ceremonies of the season was that which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Payseur, of near Cherryville, Wednesday evening when their daughter, Miss Ethel Emma Payseur became the bride of Mr. Percy Loyd Yarborough of Shelby.

The bridal music was beautifully rendered by Mrs. J. O. Fullbright, Gastonia, using as the processional, "Lehighs Bridal Chorus" and "Melody of Love", during the ceremony Mrs. Fullbright was gowned in rust-satin with lace trimmings. Prior to the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Mildred Payseur, sister of the bride, sang, in her usual charming manner "At Dawning" by Cadman. Miss Payseur wore chiffon de chine over satin.

At the sound of the bridal chorus, the two doors on either side of the arch opened and the two officiating ministers entered and found their places, Rev. W. G. Camp of Cherryville, pastor of the bride, who performed the ceremony, and Rev. J. O.

Fullbright of Gastonia who offered prayer. These were followed by the groomsmen, Mrs. Yates Sperling, of Shelby, from the right, and the bridesmaid, Miss Elsie Black of Cherryville, from the left. Miss Black wore a gown of bois de rose charmeuse. Then came the bride and groom, the former wearing a lovely gown of French blue flat crepe and a spring coat of the same color with blonde lid pumps and gloves and a hat of blonde straw with flower and lace trimmings.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Yarborough left for a motor trip, after which for the time being, they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson, uncle and aunt of the groom.

The bride is a lovely blonde, possessing a wealth of winning personalities and a host of friends who will be much interested in this event.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Yarborough of Shelby. Both Mr. and Mrs. Yarborough have the good wishes and congratulations of many friends in their new-found happiness.

Further attesting the popularity of the bridal couple was the large array of useful and beautiful gifts.

A Still in Your Stomach?

The prohibition officers can't get you for it, but the devil should. When we over-tax our nerves, our physique or our digestive organs, we automatically begin the operation of a perfect private still. Our stomach hampered in its work cannot digest, tho' it "does its best." The food starts fermentation and pandemonium breaks loose. You immediately get stewed "on the inside" and from "sour mash," and from the mash, alcohol. Can you beat it? Well, it's true and most of our touches of indigestion are directly the cause of a thoroughly legal infraction of the prohibition laws. Indigestion brings on other troubles. Help the old stomach out in its up-hill fight against odds. To stop this distillation, take a spoonful of Anti-Ferment (adults) before each meal. It is pleasant, soothing and quickly effective. It neutralizes the acids and sets the digestive organs right. Only 75c at your druggist's or by mail from
