Officer Saves Day Giving Himself Up

True men recognize and respect one another, even through the mists of enmity. It is in warfare that we find the most striking illustration of that fact. Sir Frank Benson tells a delightful story of the sort which is quoted in Joseph H. Oldham's "Christianity and the Race Problem." A British officer had been sent forward in some fighting with the Zulus, leading a contingent of men. The Zulus sent out a messenger of peace. By an unhappy blunder the British outposts shot him. The officer was greatly distressed. So he handed over the contingent to the second in command and walked straight out, unarmed, to the Zulu lines. He was led to the chief. "I have come," he said to give myself up because we shot your peace messenger by mistake. It is a thing brave warriors never do. I am very sorry. To make amends I place my life in your hands; do with me as you will." The Zulu warrior chief was silent for a moment. Then he said: "You are a man and your people are men and the sons of men; we, too, are men. We will make peace."—Youth's Companion.

MISSING MAN TURNS UP ALIVE AND KICKING

Greensboro, April 14.—John S. Michaux public administrator of estates of the dead in Guilford county when there is not provided other administrators, was dumbfounded when Ed. Wharton, thought dead two months, rolled into the city from Jonesboro.

Mr. Michaux had gone in due order about the business of setting up the estate of Wharton, who was supposed by his relatives to have passed over. It upset his calculations somewhat of course to have a "dead" man turn up, but fortunately the legal processes had not reached the point where it would be necessary to get a court order resurrecting Wharton.
