Cotillion Club Dance Much Enjoyed. The Cotillion club dance was a delightful affair on Friday evening at the Cleveland Springs hotel. From 9 to 1 o'clock the music was entrancing and with the large crowd of dancers the evening was one of much enjoyment. These dances are always anticipated with much delight by the young social set.

Birthday Party. One of the most beautiful and enjoyable birthday parties was the one given last Friday afternoon by Mrs. W. A. Pendleton at her lovely home on S. LaFayette in honor of her little granddaughter, Dorothy Pendleton. Little Miss Dorothy's teacher, Mrs. Letimore and the class were invited also other friends and neighbors. Many and lovely were the presents, and all enjoyed the hour.

Picnic at Patterson Springs. On Thursday evening a number of the young social set well chaperoned enjoyed an old fashioned picnic at Patterson Springs hotel. The couples left town late and cooked much of their supper in the open air on a wood fire made of sticks and pine knots. This afforded much fun and the keen pungent air whetted the appetites of all. They returned to town about nine o'clock.

Miss Alice Sanders Celebrates Birthday. Miss Alice Sanders celebrated her birthday on Friday evening with a lovely party asking about 30 of her young friends to be with her on this happy occasion. The rooms were most attractively decorated with spring flowers beautifully arranged. Music and progressive conversation went merrily for quite awhile and punch was served all during the evening. At a later hour Miss Sanders, assisted by her mother served a delicious ice and sweet course. Miss Sanders received many lovely gifts from her friends.

Valuable Books at Shelby Library. The Shelby Public library has just recently purchased a set of most valuable books, the name being "The World Books, Organized Knowledge in Story and Picture." Every kind of information can be found in these books which compose ten volumes and the librarian president and committee will be glad for the clubs of the town and the school boys and girls to use them when the library is open on Tuesdays and Saturdays. These books cannot be taken from the library, but may be used all during the library hours at the library room. They are indeed a much needed addition to the library and possess much value.

Propst-Hicks Surprise Marriage. A marriage which came as a surprise to the many friends of the young couple was that of Mr. Boyd Propst to Miss Elsie Hicks on Thursday April 8. The young couple motored to Gaffney, S. C., and were married by Probate Judge Lake W. Stroup at that place. The marriage was kept a secret for a week.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hicks and is a beautiful young lady with a charming personality. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Propst and was a senior high school student, and a promising young business man. They will make their home for the present at the home of the bride.

lovely with all kinds of beautiful spring flowers. After the roll call and minutes, Miss Yarborough, the capable leader called for the following program, the subject of the program being "The Doves Nest and Other Stories" by Katherine Mansfield. Miss Mayne Jones and Mrs. Irma Wallace gave entertaining papers on "The Day" and "A Cup of Tea." "The Doves Nest" was discussed by other members in a most enlightening way. A musical program had been arranged and this part of the evening's entertainment was much enjoyed also. At the conclusion of the program the most delicious viands were served.

Mrs. S. R. Riley Honors Brides-to-be.

Mrs. S. R. Riley was hostess on Saturday afternoon to the members of the South Washington Bridge club having as her honor guests Mrs. Margaret Morgan and Miss Eugenia Holland, two charming brides-elect of June. The spacious home had its decorations sweet peas, snail dragons and ferns. Six tables of bridge was played and on each table silver vases holding sweet peas and ferns were placed. The cards were matched with verses and tied with varicolored ribbons with a sweet pea attached on each card. The place cards were cut in the shape of hands with clubs, spades and diamonds and hearts set on them, and these were tied with ribbons with the sweet pea colors. The little nut cups were made of the sweet pea colors with the card emblems scattered around them. The dining room table was covered with a lace piece and a runner of pink. The center piece a large silver basket, filled with snap dragons in pink and lilac colors and the varicolored sweet peas rose from a large cuff of lavender and pink, dotted with card emblems. On the four corners were silver candle sticks holding pink tapers and at the head Mrs. W. F. Mitchell poured coffee from a silver urn. The refreshments carried out the sweet pea color scheme and the card emblems, the salad being in pink and green, the beaten biscuits and croissants made in the shape of hearts, clubs, spades and diamonds and the creamed chicken on the card emblems was embellished with the red and green hearts, the legs were frozen in pink hearts and the individual wedding cakes were in the shape of baskets iced with the little lattice work and on the top, the icing was made in the colored sweet peas, and the raisins were stuffed with pink and green food. On each plate was an orange blossom with its fragrant scent, and this was tied with white satin ribbon. The plates were embellished with the card emblems also the cups in which the coffee was served. At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Ralph Royster made high score and was presented with a prize. Miss Mildred Hackney of Charlotte made low score and she was given a prize, and Miss Elizabeth Suttle received the consolation prize. The two brides-to-be, were presented with lingerie and Miss Fan Barnett of Gastonia, house guest of Mrs. Riley, was also given a guest prize. Assisting Mrs. Riley in receiving and serving were Mrs. James L. Webb, Mrs. O. M. Gardner, Miss Fan Barnett, Mrs. W. F. Mitchell and Mrs. L. P. Holland and Mrs. Fred Morgan, Miss Moran.

Miss Morgan was extremely handsome in a beautiful yellow georgette with incrustations of lace. She wore a charming yellow hat and a shoulder corsage. Miss Egeria Holland was lovely in a blonde georgette with silver lace and varicolored shaded snail. Her hat was horsehair braid in tan and green. Mrs. Riley received her guests in a lavender beaded georgette.

One good way to insure some exercise is to place the garage at the very back of the lot.

Motives For Getting Married That Bring So Many Divorces

(From the Baltimore Sun.) There were, at the last count, 876,432 reasons why people should get married.

Two of them will occur to you at once. A man begins to get along in years. His friends begin to pull him an old bachelor. His friends begin to accumulate a fortune. He begins to be lonely. And he says to himself: "I ought to get married and settle down. I'll pick out a girl."

Just like that. "I'll select a new cravat," or "I'll buy a saddle horse." That's one of the many reasons. Then there's the girl whose friends feel charitable when they call her a girl. She's getting wrinkles. Her make-up requires time and a touch of cream. People don't call her an old maid—not nice, people. They call her a bachelor girl. And they speak in envious tones of her efficiency and her good job and the "contracts" her job affords with "the man in the raw." You know the kind of people.

But the girl isn't fooled. She sees the years coming, and she shudders. It is very trying to face coming years alone if your purpose is thin.

So she decides it would be a good idea to marry—and thus by God's grace, insure herself against want in her old age. But such means as are orthodox she selects the man.

That's another of the many reasons. People who are old and hard boiled and cynical—all of which means merely "disappointed"—need read no further, for this is about to become romantic. You can't select a husband or a wife as you select other things—like saying "Give me six of those." Love just happens. It happens invariably as a result of association, but a few other things are essential also. Common tastes, or common prejudices, or a mutual physical attraction, and things like that. But in any case you can't make a resolution and say: "Today I shall fall in love." It isn't done. It can't be done.

Well, then, how shall young people know when they are really and truly in love and have a right to marry? In the case of the man no specifications are necessary. He knows. You can't fool him. His reasoning isn't clouded by the prospect of bettering his case in a material way.

Girls need but one word: Never marry until you find the one shouder on which you would wish to cry if you wished to cry.

Chicago.—A dead man won the republican nomination for clerk of the appellate court of Cook county (Chicago) in Tuesday's primary by a plurality of more than 9,000 vote, belated returns showed today.

Francis P. Brady, republican candidate, died before the ballots were cast, but the elections commissioners ruled they had no authority to remove his name from the ballots and the voters gave him an overwhelming plurality.

Anyway, dry debate by congress brings out a lot of good high-power adjectives.

There are South American Indians that destroy their young, but they don't do it in the name of speed.
