

WOMAN IS INJURED AT RUTHERFORDTON

Several Accidents In That County. Harrill Sells Big Tract Of Land There.

Rutherfordton, June 17.—Mrs. Teer Antisell met a most unusual and serious accident here recently when she was driving a roadster up Hospital street alone and lost control of the car and hit a telephone pole breaking her nose, inflicting an ugly cut on her face and hurting her right eye to such an extent that it had to be removed at the hospital immediately after wreck.

She is now slowly improving at the Rutherfordton hospital.

Mrs. T. J. Osborne, of Asheville is in the Rutherford hospital here nursing a painful wound as a result of an automobile accident on the Chimney Rock road, twelve miles west of here. It seems that she had a puncture and hit a sandbar at same time, causing the car to go over and stand on the radiator. She was painfully cut on the forehead but is improving.

Sheriff Hardin and his corps of deputies are making it hard on violators of the law. F. R. Turner captured a still in Golden Valley township recently and destroyed about 400 gallons of beer.

Deputy Roy Waters cut up a sheet iron still in the Golden valley town and captured about 1,200 gallons of beer.

Deputy Thomas J. Vickers captured a still in Duncan's Creek township and also four gallons of whiskey. Deputy George F. Green, of near Harris, captured a negro Tuesday night with 39 pints of "Joy Juice" in his possession. He gave bond for his appearance at court.

Rural Policeman Garrett M. Edwards arrested a white man, his wife and three little girls near Lake Lure dam Wednesday afternoon charged with immoral conduct on the highway. They claimed to be from Asheville en route to Gastonia to work. They had three attractive little girls, ages thirteen, nine and seven years.

It is the first time in years that an entire family has been locked up in jail here.

W. A. Harrill sold Laurel hill, 130 acre tract near the Seaboard depot, last week to Mr. G. F. McNeely, of Charlotte, for $100,000. Mr. McNeely plans to develop it at an early date. The property cost Mr. Harrill a few hundred dollars about 25 years ago.

The Presbyterian congregation decided Sunday to erect a $7,000 manse on the location of the old manse at an early date.

Auto Owners Asked To Rush Buying Of Their New Plates

Raleigh, June 16.—Have you gotten your automobile license plate yet? If not, you had better send for yours at once, for there are but two weeks left in which to get them. And to date only 30,000 license tags out of 400,000 have been issued.

"If people will only send in for their tags right away, we can take care of them at once, as fast as the applications come in," said an official of the Automobile license bureau of the department of revenue today. "But if they all wait, until the last week or last few days, we will not be able to take care of them. We have an adequate force to supply the needs of the automobile owners if they will spread their applications over the next two weeks and hope that they will do this. Otherwise we will be greatly delayed in getting all the license plates to the car owners by July 1."

The State is going to be more particular than ever before in its enforcement of the law requiring all new license plates to be in place on all automobiles by July 10 and all who do not have them by that date must pay the penalty.

Another Charlie Ross Bobs Up To Public

Chicago, June 16.—The Charley Ross kidnapping case, a mystery for upward of two score years since Charles E. Ross, scion of wealthy parents prominent in Philadelphia society, was stolen from the Ross residence while asleep in his crib, bobbed up in Chicago again today.

The police received a letter purporting to have been sent by Charles E. Ross, 1125 South San Pedro St., Los Angeles, which contained statements that skeptical detectives said might result in solution of the famous case.

Ross said he was born in Chicago about 35 years ago and was given to a man of the name of W. G. Harper, who took him west. When his foster mother died recently he said she told him his real name was Charles E. Ross and that his mother resided in Chicago. He said he had been employed as a cowboy in the movies and requested the police to try to find his mother.

Another good test of will power is to finish June as a bachelor.

How the Russians must despise anybody who isn't mad at his boss! If it's like work, only harder and you get no pay for it, it's recreation. How time flies! Only yesterday a girl was happy if you bought her a lemonade.

Anger Makes The Heart Beat Faster

An Untamed Emotion Takes Its Toll, Says Dr. Copeland.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, writing for the Washington Herald, says that anger is one of the most dangerous enemies of mankind.

I do not mean that anger stalks about as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour. But in your heart of hearts is an evil spirit, imprisoned most of the time but alert ever and ready to attack you on the first opportunity.

So many times you pick up a paper to read that this man or that has been stricken suddenly and died perhaps before help could reach him. Of course he might be asleep or calm when death came. In many cases, however, a fit of anger produced conditions which caused a blood vessel to break in the brain.

Anger makes the heart beat so violently that it may feel sore and strained for days afterward. The emotions may involve the heart just as running, lifting, or hard labor may do.

The blood vessels have wonderful walls, elastic and firm. They are made this way to resist pressure. For 60 years they may serve you well. But all at once the vessel wall breaks and the blood rushes out to put pressure on the brain perhaps.

Did you ever see a man with the white of the eye red or purple from a broken blood vessel? Usually a blow or other injury is responsible for this condition. But some of the worst cases I ever saw followed a fit of anger, with the breaking of a blood vessel.

For the sake of good health, the child should be taught to be even tempered. Poise and self-control are essential to the well-being of the individual.

Nobody admires men and women subject to fits of anger. They fly off the handle on the slightest pretext. When well trained in youth they do not bring shame on themselves by these evil performances.

Many a day of headache, weakness and ill feeling has followed a spell of violent anger. Many a grave has been filled in consequence of it.

When you see a friend about to break out in the antics of a fit of anger, put your hand on his shoulder or pat her on the hand. A moment of distraction may result in the quieting of disturbed feelings. This may prevent a spell of sickness.

Boll Weevil Causes Death Of Chicken

Series of Freak Stories Came Out Of Kinston Section—Woodpecker Attacks Person

Kinston, June 16.—Freak stories poured into this city from all sides during the past three days.

A negro named Sutton reported the death of a hen at his Lenoir county home from a boll weevil's "bite."

The fowl was ailing for some days. Sutton discovered a small hole in her head from which blood was oozing. When she died he performed an autopsy and discovered that a weevil had bored into her brain.

From Washington came a comical account of a near-sighted woodpecker's foolish stunt. A second street woman was watering the lawn before her home when the bird flew down from a tree, alighted on her head and pecked her severely. Her screams brought her husband, who muttered something about his suspicions of blockheadedness being confirmed. The incident was verified.

The same town reported an attack by a squirrel on two children. The squirrel ran down a tree and leaped on the head of a small boy. The little girl with him started to beat off the squirrel, which turned its attention to her dress and scratched her severely on the head and arms.

Millard Hood, who resides near Pink Hill, sweltering from the recent intense heat, dreamed his home was afire and he was about to be cremated. He leaped out of bed and through a second story window. He awoke with a "sickening thud." He was slightly injured.

Wife To Live Where Her Husband Says

Magistrate At Greensboro Declares She May Not Choose Residence For Self.

Greensboro.—Does a man have to support his wife if she will not live where he chooses to live, but desires to pick the place herself?

Magistrate W. S. Lyon today decided that a man doesn't have to support his wife in a case like that. He dismissed a warrant against Jesse Hays, young white man, charged with abandonment of his wife and child. Hays is a resident of Kannapolis. His wife's father-in-law, R. C. Prince, of Guilford county, was the prosecuting witness.

Young Hays assured his friends that there is one thing he intends to do at once:

"I'm going home and get my name on the Baptist church books and keep it there until the day I die," he said.

Married One Day, Deserted Next

Gastonia, June 15.—Claiming she was married one day and deserted the next, Bessie V. Bumgardner secured a divorce from her husband Ed Bumgardner, the case taking up less than 10 minutes of the court's time. Fifteen divorces were granted here yesterday afternoon.

THEATRES

Zane Grey's latest is due at the Princess tomorrow (Saturday). "Born to the West" is the title. Jack Holt plays the lead supported by Margaret Morris, and a large competent cast.

It is a typical Grey picture, featuring a better story.

Here is a descriptive line from the press sheet: "A Zane Grey western that combines the thrills and fastidiousness of the great outdoors with a delightful love story."

Monday brings "Rustling for Cupid" a Peter B. Kyne story. "She was only a poor school teacher and he was the son of a cattle baron, but there was a skeleton in his closet.—He had traided the old rustler for months—and then he found out it was his own father."

That outline reveals the type of story—a good one, well screened.

Lon Chaney, super star, and Priscilla Dean, entertained a big house at the Webb last night in "Outside the Law," a picture revealing the tumult of underworld life, and threads of fine character inherent in the hearts of the unfortunate denizens of the slums.

It is a picture peculiarly fitted to the Chaney art. The great character star portrays a double role. He is ably supported by Priscilla Dean.

Out of the picture—a melodrama—full of pen and action and life—comes the moral that inhere in all human beings, no matter how low they fall—thieves, crooks, hold-up men—is a streak of loyalty and devotion.

The story brings out these traits, and Chaney is a master of this contrast.

A good comedy and News reel accompany the main bill.

Saturday brings Pete Morrison, who will have as his side kicks on the program the regular good Saturday comedy and the ever popular Fables.

Dixie Powder Aided In Bunker Hill Fight

Savannah, Ga., June 17.—Although the Battle of Bunker Hill, the 151st anniversary of which is today, was fought in Massachusetts and by New England folks, Georgia in the far South played an important part in it by furnishing the major portion of the all too scant supply of gunpowder.

On May 10, 1775, a special courier arrived in this city bringing the first news of the battle of Lexington on April 19. Some of the men of the colony of Georgia took immediate steps to "do their bit," even if the scene of action was a thousand or so miles away. In the magazine, built of brick and buried twelve feet under ground, was stored a comparatively large amount of ammunition which Gov. Wright deemed unnecessary to protect.

The colonists felt there were British to be killed and they argued they might as well be killed with their own gunpowder. A party composed of Noble Wymberly Jones, Joseph Hammersham, Edward Telfair, William Gibbons, Joseph Clay, John Millidge and others whose names are indelibly written in Georgia's history, was organized. They broke into the magazine and took 600 pounds of gunpowder.

Governor Wright offered a reward for the arrest of the offenders, but found no takers. The gunpowder was sent to Beaufort, S. C., for safekeeping and was then sent on the next boat to Boston, where in the Battle of Bunker Hill it illuminated the opening drama of hostilities.

CLUB OF GASTONIA AT CLEVELAND SPRINGS

The Gastonia Rotary club will meet tonight at Cleveland Springs as the guests of Alfred P. Marshall, Florida, Rotarian, and developer of Cleveland Springs estates. A program of entertaining features has been arranged for the visitors, and among the talks will be an interesting one by O. Max Gardner on "Yarns—Cotton and Otherwise."

Gastonia—The weekly meeting of the Gastonia Rotary club will be held at the Cleveland Springs hotel on Friday evening, June 18, at 7:30 o'clock. Rotarians of this city, their wives and lady friends will be the guests of Alfred Marshall of the Cleveland Springs estate.

All Rotarians who do not expect to go are urged to notify Secretary Fred Allen by four o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mr. Marshall, who is a member of the Clearwater, Florida club invited all to come over to this estate at any time during the afternoon and avail themselves of the fine golf course, the swimming pool and the spring of blooded saddle horses that are kept at the Cleveland Springs stables.

Past President A. G. Myers has charge of the program and indications point out the fact that it will be a good one. The program will not be long but it will be lively and entertaining for all.

If a man scorns everything you can't tell whether he's an intellectual or just a grouch.

"Look at that family! Spending money for steak, when the boys haven't a pistol to their name."
