MANUFACTURING CONCERNS, FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, RAILROADS, ETC., USE THE BUDGET SYSTEM

By means of a budget system all expenses are determined upon a fixed income. A great many individuals are adopting the budget plan—it is nothing more or less than a systematic control of their expenses, which is a much better means than drifting along in a "HIT or MISS" fashion.

A simple method is to set aside 10% or more of what you make and figure to live on the balance, and often then there may be some left to add to your 10% fund.

Try the budget system for awhile; it may be beneficial.

CHARLOTTE WOMAN INJURED IN WRECK

Mrs. Patterson Badly Hurt When Fire Truck Crashed

Charlotte, Nov. 25.—Tragedy rode with Charlotte firemen shortly before noon today as they were making a run to Edaleville, a negro section, in answer to a call. Mrs. Bessie Alexander Patterson, 53, well known throughout the state, was perhaps fatally injured when the small coupe she was driving was struck by the speeding truck at the intersection of Graham and Trade streets, near the heart of the city.

Several firemen were slightly injured and the fire truck was badly damaged, when, after striking the automobile, the truck careened across the sidewalk and crashed into the C. C. Coddington automobile building on the corner.

Mrs. Patterson is the wife of the late Samuel A. Patterson, of Roanoke Rapids, who was former president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, and one of the leading business men of the state. She is a sister of Dr. Charles I. Alexander, prominent dentist of this city.

Mrs. Patterson was said to have been driving about the city while waiting for her son, Francis Patterson, who was coming in on a train from Providence, R. I. He arrived in the city shortly after the accident and went immediately to the hospital where he identified his mother. For some time after the accident officials were unable to establish her identity, there being nothing on her person to indicate her name.

Mrs. Patterson is a resident of Blowing Rock, where she has extensive property holdings and conducts a private real estate agency. Some time ago she planned to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. George Hanna, on West Tenth street.

After an investigation this afternoon Fire Chief Wallace said that the accident was unavoidable. He said the firemen took the only course open to them when the driver of the truck swerved his machine in an effort to miss the automobile and crashed into the Coddington building.

SERVICES SUNDAY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The superintendent of the local Presbyterian Sunday school, J. S. McKnight, asks all its constituents to continue to manifest the spirit of gratitude by using the privilege God has given to attend Sunday school at 9:45 Sunday morning. All officers and teachers are urged to attend the Workers Council at 9:30 a. m. for prayer and making plans for the day. The pastor, Rev. H. N. McDiarmid, will preach at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., his sermon subjects being "Proprietary Rights" and "Kingdom Builders." Good music will be an attractive feature of both services. The anthem "The Heavens Declare the Glory" by H. W. Petrie will be rendered at the morning worship. Junior and senior Christian Endeavors will meet at 6:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended the public to all these services.

Old Man Refuses Easy-Going Life

San Francisco—William King, a bent old figure of 73, who was mourned as lost in an Alaskan snowslide, 36 years ago, renewed old acquaintances at a cheap lodging house here today after having refused to return to a life of luxury offered by his sister, Mrs. Leslie Sutherland, society matron of Yonkers, N. Y., who recently found him in a pauper's home here.

Karg moved to the lodging house yesterday as his only concession to a new found prosperity. He refused to return to New York because of the cold weather, and refused to move anywhere except to that particular lodging house because the others were "too ritzy for me and I'm not used to it."

Years ago Karg ran away from Fordham, N. Y., where he was attending St. John's university, to join the army. The reunion with his sister was brought about through a brother of the two to whom William wrote when in needy circumstances. The brother died several years ago, but his secret as to the whereabouts of William lived, with the result that Mrs. Sutherland recently learned it.

"Maybe I'll go back next April, but not now," Karg told his sister. She returned home yesterday. Karg is known here as Edward P. Harrison.

HIGH YIELD AND NOT BIG ACREAGE

Average Yield Per Acre This Year 186 Pounds. Bolls Some Larger. Picking Cost $1.02.

Raleigh, Nov. 22.—If the government had last summer estimated the present forecasted 1,260,000 bales of cotton expected this year in North Carolina, and if the United States crop had been estimated at 18,399,000 bales, which now seems probable, congress would have been called in special session and the cotton crop reporting work might have been severely criticized.

This big crop is not so much due to increased acreage over last year as it is to the high yield per acre brought about by favorable cotton growing and harvesting weather prevailing from Virginia to California. Already the ginnings have reached 863,417 bales in North Carolina and almost 13,000,000 bales for the country at large.

Instead of taking 4,000,000 bales off the market and reducing the acreage one-fourth next year, it looks like the reach will need to be greater if the price is to be improved much during the next season. The average yield per acre this year is estimated at 186 pounds of lint which is 20 pounds heavier than last season when such a big crop was made. The North Carolina yield is now estimated at 296 pounds and is 35 pounds per acre higher than last year, while the acreage is about the same as for the preceding season. Incidentally, this state's per acre yield is about double that of Texas and is almost three times the yield Texas made last year.

The condition reported as of November 14th was 76 per cent for North Carolina; the per cent picked at 75 and the percent ginned at 65 per cent of the expected crop. The size of the bolls are appreciably larger than a year ago and the $1.02 average per hundred pounds of seed cotton for picking is about the same as last year's price, while the price of lint is almost half of that of last season.

While a few cold snaps have occurred in this state, the weather in general has been favorable for the harvesting of the lint and there has been a minimum weather damage to the lint exposed in the fields. It is probable that quite a considerable amount of the cotton will not be picked after it becomes damaged in the fields. Much now remains unpicked.

Shipping Turkeys.

Lincoln county turkeys will adorn many a Northern banquet table during the Thanksgiving season, says the News.

One of the largest shipments of turkeys and poultry ever made from Lincoln county, 6,450 pounds to be exact, was made Tuesday of this week. The entire shipment was mostly turkeys with a few chickens, and placed $1,903.51 into the hands of the farmers who made the shipment.

The Lincoln county farmers who are shipping turkeys and chickens are not worried much about the low price of cotton. Cleveland county is also shipping carloads of poultry to Northern markets.

When we get to loading a car of poultry and eggs every month or so in Gaston county and hauling in milk from the farms to our creamery, we, too, shall be able to forget about the price of cotton.—Gastonia Gazette.
