BIG KANSAS WOLF HUNT
NETS 15,000 JACKRABBITS

By I. N. S.
Oberlin, Kan.—Five wolf hunts were launched here recently.

Forty coyotes and fifteen thousand jackrabbits comprised the casualties.

So great was the jackrabbit slaughter that no attempt was made to gather up the carcasses and to market the furs and dress game. They were left on the prairies and in the fields where they were killed.

Chasing the dollar so much is probably what makes it shy and hard to catch.

RECORD SNOW COSTS
STATE PRISON MUCH

Raleigh.—(INS.)—North Carolina's recent record-smashing snow will cost state prison something like $12,000, according to an estimate by George Ross Pou, superintendent.

The loss to the state prison was incurred largely because of a number of the convicts being employed by road contracting companies and are paid for the number of days they work.

"One day's idleness means the loss of $200," Pou said.

Any oil company would be proud to turn out a product of the uniform excellence of "STANDARD" GASOLINE

Forest City, N. C., Aug. 27, 1926

"Two years ago I bought what was considered a worn-out farm. Knowing my success as a farmer depended entirely on bringing the land back to its original state of fertility, I set out to find a fertilizer that would do it.

"The first year I tried a well-known make and was disappointed. The second year I tried only 200 pounds of 'AA Quality' Fertilizers and in spite of an extremely dry season and pests, I am gathering around one bale per acre.

"Old, experienced farmer-neighbors say this farm has never produced such a crop even in favorable seasons. I am convinced that the secret of successful farming lies in the selection and application of good fertilizers, and I have decided 'AA Quality' Fertilizers contain this secret."

—J. M. Williams

Cut down cotton-growing costs and make more money from your crop

IN YOUR cotton production, cut down costs by getting a full, hardy stand. Make each plant produce more bolls. Force these to an early maturity and escape the boll weevil season.

It takes top-quality fertilizers to do these things! That's why you find most successful growers using "AA Quality" Fertilizers. Not only do they provide cotton plants with exactly the correct food elements needed for a good, healthy start, but they also feed the plant during every stage of its growing season.

Famous crop and soil experts have determined the formulas of "AA Quality" Fertilizers for Cotton. Scientific manufacturing, complete curing and remilling put them in perfect mechanical condition for use on your fields. They are made right—and their records, year after year, show it. They give you exceptional yields of fine-grade cotton. They stimulate early maturity.

Sixty years of fertilizer manufacturing experience goes into every sack. The "AA Quality" label on each bag is recognized by farmers—the country over—as signifying unequalled quality... absolute reliability!
