Old Dog Is Able To Do New Tricks

Hickory Record. When a man gets well on in the years he concluded, and often says, that he is too old to learn new tricks. That is usually because he is too lazy to apply himself to the task. The following from the North Carolina Christian Advocate will cite the cases of several well known men who made considerable accomplishment of a new sort after they had passed the middle age:

"For some of the boys along in the fifties and sixties who have not yet gone to repeating over and over the same old jokes and have not formed the habit of musing upon the days of their childhood, but may be thinking that it is about time to 'knock off' we prescribe the following tonic which is a brief record of great spirits who were learners until the sun went down. It is an old medicine compounded by some unknown pharmacist. Cato, at eighty, took it into his venerable head to learn Greek and Plutarch, almost as late in life, learned Latin. Theophrastus began his work on the characters of men at ninety. His literary labors were ended only by death. Socrates learned to play on musical instruments when well advanced in life. Colbert, the famous French statesman returned at sixty to his Latin and law studies, and the great Doctor Johnson applied himself to Dutch but a few years before his death. Then there is the now forgotten Marquis de St. Aulaire, who was once regarded as a remarkable prodigy. At the age of seventy he began to write poetry and contemporaries declared that his verses were full of fire, delicacy and sweetness."

The slogan, "Five Cracking Good Cows and One Hundred Cracking Good Hens," for every farm in Madison county is bearing fruit and there is a change appearing in the agriculture of that county.

CARD OF THANKS.

There comes times in each ones life, when hours are very dark, and clouds hang heavy. It is such relief in such an hour to have comforting and cheering words from friends. I take this method of expressing my most sincere thanks to the many, many friends, for their words of consolation and cheer in the hours of sadness, of the passing of our devoted husband and father, William Ellis. The thought of your kindness will ever remain in our memory.
Mrs. W. M. Ellis and Family.

AVERY TERRACE KING PLANTER

Double Jointed—Axle Driven! An AVERY PLUS Feature

B. F. Avery built into this business the ideal that "A thing worth doing at all is worth doing well." The result is a big department of designers and inventors whose chief business is thinking. Avery Plus Features are the result. For example:

Any short coupled planter can do a passable job of planting in hilly places where rows are short and irregular. But passable does not satisfy Avery. Therefore you find in the Avery line the Terrace King Planter—a double jointed, flexible planter especially designed by Avery experts to do a perfect job of planting in the crookedest rows. To do this, many new features were developed—among them a special pivoted frame, with the pivot at a point directly in front of the opener. This permits very sharp turns. In addition, the planting mechanism is driven direct from the axle. All chains, gears and other friction producing parts are eliminated. These are Avery Plus Features—improvements which insure faster, more accurate and more profitable planting for you men who farm under these conditions.

Avery Plus Features Save You Time and Money

Any Avery implement costs what good quality is worth. These Avery Plus Features—created by Avery designers, inventors and craftsmen—are extra dividends which your money earns when you invest in the name Avery. They save both time and money. That is why an Avery Plus Implement is the cheapest implement any man can own.
