Return From Beach Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nolan and Misses Ione and Kathleen Nolan and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lackey and family returned Saturday from a week's stay at Carolina Beach. They report fine fishing and sailing and the families enjoyed a most delightful outing.

Legion Auxiliary Chapter is Formed The following clipping is taken from the Charlotte News of Saturday: Of interest to members of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will be the announcement that an auxiliary chapter was formed in Shelby Thursday. The members attending from here were: Miss Ona Choate, district committee woman, Mrs. A. B. Justice, State second vice-president, and Mrs. John Slear, the newly elected president. The enthusiastic meeting was held in the Legion club rooms in Shelby. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Frank L. Hoyle, president; Mrs. J. T. Gardner, vice-president; Mrs. E. A. Houser, jr., secretary; Mrs. A. Pitt Beam, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Anthony, chaplain and Mrs. E. A. Houser, historian. It will be interesting to learn that the Shelby Legion post is called the Warren Hoyle Post, in memory of Warren Hoyle, of Shelby, who enlisted with the Marines and was killed in the battle of Chateau-Thierry. Mr. Hoyle was the son of Mrs. Frank L. Hoyle, the first vice-president of the Shelby unit of the American Auxiliary.

hand painted handkerchief. The out of town guests were also presented with lovely handpainted gifts.

At the close of the program the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Tracy Carpenter and Miss Fannie Carpenter served a most delicious salad course.

The following enjoyed the most delightful meeting: Mesdames Clarence and Tracy Carpenter, O. P. Ader, O. B. Carpenter, J. E. Herndon, Dame Rhyme, J. E. Anthony, Lester Hoke, P. D. Herndon, L. P. Baker, R. S. Plonk, jr., E. C. Cooper, Harry Keeter, W. K. Mauney, Byron Keeter, Grant, J. R. Davis, E. W. Neal, D. F. Hord, Harry Falls, M. A. Ware, Booth Gillespie, W. T. Meir, Charles Thomasson, Fuller McGill, Misses Edith Ader, Ruth Ader and Fannie Carpenter.

Out of town guests were: Mesdames W. S. Buice, of Gastonia; Claud Murphy, of Charlotte; Frank Summer, of Lakeland, Fla.; J. Y. Irvin, of Shelby; Mrs. Brown, of Florida, and Miss Aileen Blombers, of Spartanburg.

Best Looking Sponsor. Friends in Shelby of Miss Betty Suttle, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Suttle, will be pleased to know that she was selected as the prettiest sponsor at the State college commencement in the spring. Recently she received a letter from the editor of the college annual informing her of the honor voted for her by the members of the staff. Miss Suttle was the sponsor of Fred Logan, football captain, a son of Sheriff and Mrs. Hugh Logan.

Spanish Girls Dance to Oriental Melodies Two things one must witness while in Seville—the Sevillana and a bull fight. Girls of all classes dance the Sevillana—in fact, during the spring festival or fiesta, girls of the exclusive classes and families take this means and opportunity of displaying their charms, and being properly chaperoned by approved grand dames, dance the Sevillana in the little open drawing rooms called casetas which line the streets like booths along a midway.

This graceful dance, dignified even in its coquetry, is accompanied by the click of the castanets. The dance, like most others in Andalusia, is an expression of an intermixed race, and naturally follows in its music all the original melodies brought into Andalusia by the Moor and the Jew. The unmistakable mark left by these races is distinctly recognized in these dances of Andalusia. Spain and Castile, triumphant since the time of Ferdinand and Isabella, cannot efface Islam and the Orient. The castanet is of gypsy origin and probably hails from the region around the Black sea. To watch the Sevillana is a privileged experience, steeped as it is with the charm and romantic history of an interesting people—Regina L. Jels, in World Traveler.

Structures Left by Ohio Mound Builders Ohio was a popular camping ground for the mound builders. This state probably has more mounds and ruins of these ancient villages than any other state. When engaged in warfare, mound builders would make crude edifices of animals or draw rough figures on stone.

Fortifications of earthworks for use in battles were often erected at the bend of some river or stream. In this way the mound builders could prevent other tribes from invading their territory. Roughly made spears were the main weapons used. Many of these have been found in the earthen mounds which dot the state.

A survey of the state reveals that there are 1,800 earth mounds erected on low ground, 170 on hills, 43 stone mounds on low ground and 13 on hills. These mounds have revealed many things. Scientists digging in these historic spots are just as able to unearth the skeleton of one of these mound builders as he is to find stone pots, utensils or spear heads, says a writer in the Ohio State Journal.

Early National Banks The controller's office says that the first national bank to open for business under a national bank charter was the First National Bank of Davenport, Iowa. The charter number of this bank, however, was 15. The earliest paper on file in the controller's office pertaining to this bank bears the date of May 29, 1863. The bank was chartered on June 24, 1863, and opened for business on June 29, 1863. The first bank to receive a certificate of authority to begin business as a national association was the First National Bank of Philadelphia. This bank was given Charter No. 1, dated June 20, 1863, but did not open for business until July 11, 1863.

AT THE MOVIES

Two highly noteworthy pictures are on this week at The Princess. One of these 'Bardelys The Magnificent' with John Gilbert starring is on Tuesday, and the second 'Stark Love,' is coming Thursday.

Both are broadly discussed amongst the year's best. King Vidor directed the Gilbert picture, which was made from the Rafael Sabatini picture. 'Stark Love' has perhaps created more of a sensation in Hollywood than any picture made in six months. It was made on a shoestring in western North Carolina, and turned out to be a masterpiece. Every since the filming the makers have been looking for the young mountain hero to offer him a big time job in pictures, but they have never found him.

'The Better Ole' due at the Webb Tuesday is one of the outstanding comedies of the season. Syd Chaplin is the star. The better 'Ole' stories by Bainsfather were an immense hit, from which a stage play was made that also was a hit; and now the screen version is also going over big.

'The Better Ole' no doubt constitutes the funniest, most uproarious stuff that has been brought out of the trenches and war villages of France,' says Quinn Martin in The New York World. Claire Windsor and Tim McCoy star today in a flashy western 'The Frontiersman.'

LEWIS JOHNSON GETS TERM ON THE ROADS

Lincolnton, July 22.—Lewis Johnson, son of Gastonia, was convicted in Superior court here today of manslaughter as result of the death of Lillian Beatty when Johnson's car turned over in July, 1926. Judge Michael Schenck sentenced him to not less than six nor more than 12 months on the roads.

Johnson received the verdict calmly, but his mother, who had been at his side during the entire trial, became hysterical when the jury made its report. Three days were consumed in trying the case, but it took only 30 minutes for the jury to find Johnson guilty.

Sailing Paper Boats, Great Poet's Caprice

Whenever Shelley, the great English poet, caught sight of a body of water he could not resist the temptation to make paper boats, which he would launch, watching their progress with great interest until they capsized or drifted to shore again. He would remain rooted to the spot until all his paper was exhausted and he could make no more boats. As it was his custom to take a book along with him on his walks, the fly-leaves of most of his books were missing. To what lengths he went to indulge himself in this favorite pastime may be judged from the story told concerning the day he found himself on the bank of the Serpentine without any paper, having exhausted his supply on the pond in Kensington garden. The only piece of paper he could lay his hands on was a 250 note. He struggled with temptation for a long time, but yielded at last. Twisting the note with great care and dexterity, he committed it to the water, watching, to be sure, its progress, with even more intense anxiety than usual. Fate was kind, and in due time the little craft was wafted to the opposite shore, where the owner was already waiting its arrival with bated breath.—Market for Exchange.

Modern Hymn Writers Fail to 'Take Hold'

Hymn writing says the New York Evening Post, seems to have become a lost art. Down to the early eighties practically all of our most beautiful and cherished hymns had been composed and churchgoers were as familiar with their hymnals as "Gospel hymns Nos. 1, 2 and 3" as they were with the three R's or the catechism. With their inspiration and charm. Such authors as Fanny Crosby, Ira D. Sankey and others who wrote these "immortals" will always be revered by those whom they have comforted. Just as our song writers swing around the circle, we may again produce writers of sacred music who will compose hymns similar to those of a half century ago.

Surely Not Overworked

The doctor had called at the Jones home. The occurrence was so unusual that Jed Smith, of the next farm, decided to investigate. "Yes," answered old Jones, upon being questioned, "Eliza, the wife, is sick. Don't know just what's ailin' her. She got up this mornin' and had breakfast for me and the hands at five, and then she did some washin' and some bakin' and the churnin' and a little cleanin', besides a-dizin' some 'taters an' a-weedin' a patch of garden. Sh. got dinner, and was a-sewin' and a-mendin' this afternoon when she sorta keeled over. I jest kahn't think what kin be the matter, for she's been a-doin' nothin' but keepin' house here, easylike, for the last 15 years."—Los Angeles Times.

She Meant Well

Little Mary's eyesight was explained to be weak, and after an examination the doctor announced that she would have to wear glasses. Some time later he happened to call at the house, and in the course of conversation asked after his little patient. "Oh, doctor," said the child's mother, somewhat tearfully, "I can't get her to wear those glasses during the day, but—she brightens up a little—when she sleeps I creep upstairs and slip them on!"

Famous Academy

The Royal academy, which now has its home in Burlington house, Piccadilly, London, England, was founded in 1768, under the patronage of King George III, with the famous portrait painter, Sir Joshua Reynolds, as first president. The Royal academy holds annual exhibitions, and it provides the best instruction free to poor students of talent, to whom it grants scholarships enabling them to continue their studies in painting, sculpture and architecture.

How Sad

The young girl had plainly been weeping. "Are you sick?" they asked her. "No," she said, still sobbing a little. "But some one called me a woman and it's the first time anyone called me a woman." "Well, aren't you a woman?" they asked her. "I suppose I am, but it's the first time anyone ever called me one and it makes me feel so old."—Springfield Union.

The Patang

The Zionist said: "Corkscrews in Palestine are called patangs, and thereby have a tale. "It seems that the first corkscrews ever seen in Palestine were taken there by a Yankee trader. They were a patented type of corkscrew, and their handiness delighted the natives. Etched on them was the legend, 'Pat. Aug. 1858.' "Well, the natives, it seems, took this legend for the corkscrew's name, and all over Palestine today, when a man wants to open a bottle he shouts: "Patang!"

Multitude of Clocks

It is doubtful if the number of clocks in the British house of parliament has ever been counted. There is a legend among the staff employees in this pile of buildings that no two totals yet have ever been made to agree, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. These pieces to be found there, of one description or another. When summer time was first introduced, too, it was found that clocks at Windsor castle turned up in all sorts of unexpected places, and it was fully a fortnight before the whole of these could be made to agree.

Encouraged to Proceed

Sargent was sometimes criticized on account of the sketchy, impressionistic style of his pictures. One time after finishing three or four new works he gave a tea at his studio in the street. Among the guests was a certain duchess, who scanned the new pictures through her lorgnette. Stopping before one of them, she said to Mr. Sargent in the condescending tone that duchesses use toward all who work: "I say, I like this, you know, I should go on with it, if I were you."
