

WRIGHT MEMORIAL PLANNED NOW FOR KILL DEVIL HILL

May Erect Towering Lighthouse To Be Known As "Wright Beacon" In Virginia Dare Area

By HENRY LESENE International News Service Staff Correspondent

Manteo, Roanoke Island, N. C.—These tranquil, semitropical shores, from which man first learned to fly, again will come into the national spotlight one year hence.

The memory of Orville and Wilbur Wright, the world's pioneer aviators, who singled out this remote beginning-place of Eastern civilization for their first airplane flight, will be perpetuated.

A lavish celebration, probably at Kill Devil Hill in Currituck county, commemorating the first flight in heavier-than-air craft, is now being prepared for the next year.

The exact date of the epochal event has not been fully decided, but it is generally accepted that the celebration will be held simultaneously with the completion of the proposed federal memorial off Kill Devil Hill to the Wright brothers.

According to tentative plans, the memorial will take the form of a gigantic, towering lighthouse, to be called "The Wright Beacon."

Dedication of the site of the proposed memorial was to have taken place this month, but was postponed.

Suggestion has been heard from various quarters that the celebration be held along with the annual Virginia Dare celebration on Roanoke Island. The celebration annually brings thousands of persons here to witness the ceremonies.

Under the auspices of the Roanoke Colony Memorial Association, the "Virginia Dare Day" exercises are held here each August 18 on the birthday of America's first native born who went to an unknown fate with the remainder of Sir Walter Raleigh's "Lost Colony."

The exercises are held at the site of Old Fort Raleigh, and each year some notable speaker is chosen to make the main address of the occasion. The ceremonies are largely religious in character. The celebration commemorating the beginning of aviation is in the hands of the Kill Devil Memorial Association, recently formed at a meeting in Elizabeth City.

The association consists of an executive council made up of the president, three vice presidents and the secretary-treasurer.

A regional council, made up of two representatives from each of the counties surrounding the Albemarle Sound, and a national council with Congressman Lindsay C. Warren as chairman, are to be appointed.

The construction of the giant bridge across Roanoke Sound, connecting Roanoke Island with the "outside World" will tend to bring additional thousands to the celebration, it was believed.

The bridge is expected to be fully completed by the time of the event. Members of the Special Federal Commission, appointed to choose the site for the memorial, and the type of memorial that should be erected on the spot, already have visited Kill Devil Hill and have the proposition under consideration.

Another suggestion that has been advanced as a part of the celebration is a review of the progress of aviation since it had its beginning here a quarter of a century ago.

Under the plan, an attempt would be made to obtain the attendance and participation of the leading aviators of the world.

Must Pay Dog Tax In City Of Shelby

Tax must be paid on every dog in the city limits of Shelby by September 1. Every dog owner must pay this tax and have a special numbered dog tag tax for the collar.

"No bull dog shall be permitted to run at large without wearing a muzzle, and the penalty for violating this provision shall be $5 for each offense."

Dog tax may be paid at the city office, where the proper tag will be given those paying or will be delivered by Chief upon request. The tax as required by the city code of 1921 comes under the head of special taxes and is $2 per year for male dogs and $5 per year for female dogs. The city code states that after the required day all dogs found running at large without the tax tag shall be declared a nuisance and shot, and all owners with dogs on the premises and taxes unpaid after the date are subject to a penalty of $5.

This ruling is in section 33 and 34 of the 1921 City Code.

Please pay this tax prior to Sept. 1 and remove cause for any strict action.

A. L. RICHARDS, Chief of Police.
